Indonesia Masses Troops Against Malaysian Borneo

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — British Gurkha troops hunted through jungles in the Malayan peninsula today for more Indonesian guerrillas. Four guerrillas were killed Sunday.

A Malaysian official said Indonesia, which has vowed to crush British-backed Malaysia — has massed 11 battalions on the border of Malaysia's Borneo state of Sarawak.

Stephen Kalong Ningkan, chief minister of Sarawak, said five other Indonesian battalions are poised near the neighboring state of Sabah.

Ningkan said "force must be met with force" and urged that Indonesian training bases be attacked if there should be a strike from Indonesia.

In Indonesia, the government took steps to tone down an anti-American campaign sparked by the large Indonesian Communist party. An order banned demonstrations or boycotts without advance government approval.

A five-month Communist-sponsored boycott of American movies was lifted last week, and a boycott of Pan American World Airways, also sponsored by the Communists, is being lifted.

Informed sources said President Sukarno, was disturbed by the manner in which Communists have conducted their anti-American campaign.

The Gurkhas in Malaysia were searching for the remnants of a band of 50 Indonesian guerrillas dropped by parachute Sept. 2. The four killed Sunday brought the total number of dead guerrillas to 12. About 30 are believed to have been captured.

The drive against the guerrillas came after rocket raids in the area by British Royal Air Force jets Friday and Saturday.

Revolt Against Viet Nam Premier Khanh Collapses

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A bloodless military uprising aimed at ousting Premier Nguyen Khanh collapsed today and Khanh returned securely to power in Saigon. He called for "discipline, honor and unity."

The attempted coup faltered and died less than 24 hours after 2,000 rebel troops marched into Saigon under orders from their dissident commanders to arrest Khanh as a traitor. Not a shot was fired.

Khanh subsequently told a news conference that the chief objective of his government now is to destroy communism, colonialism and neutralism while building through democracy.

The 37-year-old major general, who is in his eighth month as head of South Viet Nam's U.S.-backed government, said he was moved by the spirit of unity shown by the armed forces. He evidently referred to the military leaders who chose to back him in the showdown.

"Facing the threat of internal strife, we proved to be very worthy and we were able to save the precious blood of all our fighters against the Communist Viet Cong," he said.

Khanh was seated at the conference table with the top officers who saved him from ouster. These included the air force commander, Brig. Gen. Nguyen Cao Ky, who held Saigon airport against the rebels; and the paratroop commander, Brig. Gen. Cao Van Vien.

Notably absent was Brig. Gen. Duong Van Duc, commander of the rebel forces, who capitulated to Ky early this morning.

Before Khanh met the newsmen, Ky and Duc had shared a news conference and declared their unity in supporting the government and in resuming the fight against the Communist guerrillas.

Ky and other loyal generals announced that none of the rebel officers would be punished. But sources close to the government said later unreliable elements in the armed forces probably will be weeded out.

Khanh pledged to keep his earlier promise to prepare for a civilian government "which has the confidence of the entire people." He declined to answer questions and said he had to rush off to an important government meeting.

U.S. Officials Hail Collapse Of Viet Revolt

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials welcomed with deep relief today the collapse of the uprising against Premier Nguyen Khanh in South Viet Nam.

But no one here could say whether the outcome of the 24-hour rebellion, engineered by a group of generals, would bolster or further weaken Khanh's shaky hold on leadership in his embattled and politically chaotic country.

Powerful and insistent U.S. support for the premier evidently played a key role in keeping him in office. U.S. officials in Saigon are understood to have made the American position clear to South Viet Nam's contending leaders well before its public announcement in Washington.

The attempted coup came so suddenly that it caught American policy makers, including Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor, by surprise. Startled officials hastened to their departments

Refugee Aided in Escape in Battle at Berlin Wall

By GEORGE BOULTWOOD

BERLIN (AP) — A German immigrant now in the U.S. Army braved East German bullets Sunday to help a wounded refugee escape over the Berlin wall.

Spec. 4 Hans Puhl, 22, was the hero of a 40-minute battle at dawn during which West Berlin police and East German Communist guards fired dozens of shots at each other. No one was killed, but it was the longest fight since the wall was put up three years ago.

Lying in the middle of the fray, on the Communist side of the wall, was Michael Meyer, 21, from the East German town of Fredersdorf. Communist bullets brought him down as he tried to scramble over the wall to West Berlin.

Communist guards then tried to drag him away, but Puhl — covered by Western police — Marched to the wall and ordered the East Germans back.

At a news conference, Puhl said he was riding along the Western side of the wall — in the Kreuzberg District — on a routine patrol with a West Berlin policeman and arrived at the scene just after Meyer had been shot.

The American dashed to the second story of a nearby apartment house for a view of the other side of the wall.

He spotted the young man on the ground.

"Two East German guards were pulling on him," he said. "I pointed my rifle at them and told them to let him go."

"When they did not let him go, I threw a tear gas grenade across the wall in the hope that they would stop bothering the refugee and they did."

Puhl then ran back to the wall, gave his rifle to a West Berlin policeman and pulled out his pistol.

"Two West Berliners boosted me up," he continued, "so that I could see across the wall and I called to the refugee not to move and that we were going to cut the wire (on top of the wall)."

When Puhl peered over the wall, the Communists opened fire, hitting the upper edge of WASHINGTON (AP) — Chief Justice Earl Warren says it is "a matter of days" before his investigating commission completes and submits to President Johnson its 700-page report on the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Other sources estimated the White House may issue the findings over the weekend of Sept.27. Other estimates were that final editing, printing and binding could take a little longer.

Warren told newsmen Saturday that the seven-member commission has been working night and day to finish the report.

"I hope it will be very soon," Warren said. "We're just driving to get it all done. Our job is completed when we report to the President."

Savage Assault on U.S. Ended by Hurricane Dora

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Onetime Hurricane Dora, now a wet and windy tropical storm, sped northeastward into the Atlantic today, her savage assault on the United States apparently at an end.

During an abrupt change of course, the Weather Bureau said, Dora no longer threatened any land area even though she might, over the water, regain her hurricane punch.

In an almost week-long meandering journey through Florida and Georgia and up the coasts of North Carolina and Virginia's tidewater, Dora left at least seven persons dead and property damage reckoned at many millions of dollars.

The storm, a disorganized mixture of gale winds and torrential rain, raked North Carolina and Virginia Sunday. Wide swaths along the coast were flooded by Dora's rains and by high tides kicked up by her winds, gusting to 61 m.p.h.

In Norfolk, Dora claimed her seventh life. Preston Taylor, 73, died of a heart attack while trying to secure his boat at its moorings.

No major damage was reported in North Carolina or Virginia, but tides three to four feet above normal flooded roads on Hatteras Island and low-lying streets in Norfolk. Some highways further inland were flooded and Norfolk's municipal airport was closed for a time.

Saturday night, Dora had spawned a small tornado at Howell's Point, 30 miles south of Wilmington, N.C. Cottages were damaged but no one was injured.

Massive mop-up operations continued in Florida. Gov. Farris Bryant toured flooded areas and said the damage in Love Oak was "more permanent and substantial than any

Ethel Swirls to Atlantic After Swipe at Bermuda

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP) — Hurricane Ethel swirled into the chilly North Atlantic today after her fringe winds brushed Bermuda. Tropical storm Gladys was moving in from the east toward Puerto Rico.

No deaths were caused on Bermuda by Ethel, but trees were blown down, power lines cut, boats sunk and roads flooded. Winds averaged 75 miles an hour with gusts up to 102.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said Ethel is expected to stay on a northeastern course into the North Atlantic. At 11 p.m. Sunday Ethel was 300 miles south-southeast of Nova Scotia's Sable Island. Center winds ran up to 100 miles an hour and gale winds extended 200 miles to the east and 100 miles to the west.

Gladys was still about 1,000 miles east-southeast of Puerto Rico and moving west-northwest at 12 miles an hour. Her highest winds are about 75 miles [illegible]

Ringo's Tonsils Requested by Fan of Beatles

BOSTON (UPI)—Ringo Starr disclosed to newsmen here last night that he would undergo a tonsillectomy soon and that one fan has asked that the removed tonsils be sent to her.

Starr and the other three shaggy haired Beatles held a news conference in the Hotel Madison prior to appearing at a concert at the adjoining Boston Garden.

"I am going to have my tonsils out soon," said drummer Starr who was stricken with a throat ailment earlier this year. He told newsmen that he was undecided about whether he would send the removed tissue to his admirer.

U.S. Will Rocket Dummy Moonship in Orbit Test

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — United States plans to rocket a dummy Apollo moonship Friday into an earth orbit similar to the path three astronauts will take before being propelled to the moon.

The shot will be another step in the nation's $20 billion project designed to land two men on the moon by 1970.

The unmanned Apollo test model will be orbited by a Saturn-1 rocket — America's biggest and most successful booster and forerunner of the giant Saturn-5 that will be used for the man-to-the-moon shots.

The launch had been set for Thursday, but Hurricane Dora interrupted final preparations and caused a day's delay. The 190-foot rocket rode out Dora Wednesday and Hurricane Cleo two weeks earlier without incident.

Space agency officials said the Saturn's satellite, to weigh 38,700 pounds with the burned out Saturn second stage bolted to the Apollo spacecraft, will be aimed toward an orbit ranging from 115 to 136 miles above earth.

"This orbit closely approximates the 'parking' orbit for later manned lunar exploration missions," the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) said.

On the moon flights expected by the end of the decade, the Saturn-5 will first place the three-man Apollo ship into the preliminary parking orbit. Then after circling the globe for one to three times, the Saturn-5's third stage will rocket the Apollo out of earth orbit toward the moon.

The [illegible] Saturn-1 shot will be the [illegible] of 10 [illegible] the last, on May 28, orbited an Apollo model similar to the craft to be lofted Friday.

Vatican Council Third Session Opened by Pope

By GERALD MILLER

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI opened the third and possibly decisive session of the Vatican Ecumenical Council today and called on the bishops of the Roman Catholic Church to clarify their place in church government with regard to him.

The pontiff called this task of defining papal-bishop authority — an issue with overtones for Christian unity — the "weightiest and most delicate" task of the council.

He said it would complete the concept of papal primacy elaborated at the last ecumenical council. He made clear that sharing of authority with the bishops did not mean a lessening of papal power.

"As successors of Peter and therefore possessors of full power over the entire Church, we have the duty of heading the body of the episcopate," the Pope said. "Nevertheless our position in no way defrauds you, our brother bishops, of your due authority.

"On the contrary we are among the first to respect that sacred authority."

The issue of shared papal-episcopal authority has divided the progressive and conservative elements in the council, and its resolution is expected to set the tone of Roman Catholicism in the modern world.

Some conservative prelates want to put the whole matter of shared authority off to some future council, or leave it entirely to the Pope.

Pope Paul apparently was referring to such opposition when he said today:

"The fathers of the First Vatican Council (held in 1869-70) defined and proclaimed the truly unique and supreme powers conferred by Christ on Peter and handed on to his successors. This recognition has appeared to some as having limited the authority of bishops . . . and as having rendered superfluous and prevented the convocation of a subsequent ecumenical council, which, however, according to canon law has supreme authority over the entire Church."

The Pope then made clear that the issue of shared authority could not be put aside at this council.

He said: "the present ecumenical synod is certainly going to confirm the doctrine of the previous one regarding the prerogatives of the Roman

Thousands of Planets May Have Creatures

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) Creatures as intelligent as man may inhabit thousands of planets in our own Milky Way galaxy, a high-ranking scientist said here.

Conditions favorable to life may be far more plentiful than generally thought possible, Dr. Harrison Brown, California Institute of Technology geochemist, said after a study financed by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Estimating that there may be hundreds of millions of planets in the Milky Way and that many of them are likely to be bathed by life-giving light from their suns, Brown said:

BOSTON (UPI)—Ringo Starr disclosed to newsmen here night that he would undergo a tonsilectomy soon and that one fan has asked that the removed tonsils be sent to her.

Starr and the other three shaggy haired Beatles held a news conference in the Hotel Madison prior to appearing at a concert at the adjoining Boston Garden.

"I am going to have my tonsils out soon," said drummer Starr who was stricken with a throat ailment earlier this year. He told newsmen that he was undecided about whether he would send the removed tissue to his admirer.

U.S. Will Rocket Dummy Moonship in Orbit Test

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — United States plans to rocket a dummy Apollo moonship Friday into an earth orbit similar to the path three astronauts will take before being propelled to the moon.

The shot will be another step in the nation's $20 billion project designed to land two men on the moon by 1970.

The unmanned Apollo test model will be orbited by a Saturn-1 rocket — America's biggest and most successful booster and forerunner of the giant Saturn-5 that will be used for the men-to-the-moon shots.

The launch had been set for Thursday, but Hurricane Dora interrupted final preparations and caused a day's delay. The 190-foot rocket rode out Dora Wednesday and hurricane Cleo two weeks earlier without incident.

Space agency officials said the Saturn's satellite, to weigh 36,700 pounds with the burned out Saturn second stage bolted to the Apollo spacecraft, will be aimed toward an orbit ranging from 115 to 135 miles above earth.

"This orbit closely approximates the 'parking' orbit for later manned lunar exploration missions," the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) said.

On the moon flights expected by the end of the decade, the Saturn-5 will first place the three-man Apollo ship into the preliminary parking orbit. Then after circling the globe for one to three times, the Saturn-5's third stage will rocket the Apollo out of earth orbit toward the moon.

The upcoming Saturn-1 shot will be the seventh in a series of 10 test launches. The first six have been successful and the last, on May 28, orbited an Apollo model similar to the craft to be lofted Friday.

Ten Children Die As Blaze Sweeps Their Farm Home

KASOTA, Minn. (AP) — Ten children, "so scared they ran around in circles and didn't know what to do," died in a fire that swept through their farm home.

Another child, Joanne McConnell, 14, was the only occupant to escape the burning home Saturday night. She jumped from a second-story window and, barefoot and wearing only a nightgown, pedaled a mile on her bicycle to the nearest telephone.

End of Blockade Of Turks Sought In Cyprus Crisis

By DAVID LANCASHIRE

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Turkish Cypriot leaders today termed a U.N. airlift of supplies to Kokkina inadequate and demanded again that the Greek Cypriot government ends its economic blockade of their areas.

U.N. helicopters delivered two tons of emergency rations to the northwest Cypriot village, to which the Turkish government had said its navy would convoy supplies under armed escort Tuesday.

Vatican Council Third Session Opened by Pope

By GERALD MILLER

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI opened the third and possibly decisive session of the Vatican Ecumenical Council today and called on the bishops of the Roman Catholic Church to clarify their place in church government with regard to him.

The pontiff called this task of defining papal-bishop authority — an issue with overtones for Christian unity — the "weightiest and most delicate" task of the council.

He said it would complete the concept of papal primary elaborated at the last ecumenical council. He made clear that sharing of authority with the bishops did not mean a lessening of papal power.

"As successors of Peter and therefore possessors of full power over the entire Church, we have the duty of heading the body of the episcopate," the Pope said. "Nevertheless our position in no way defrauds you, our brother bishops, of your due authority.

"On the contrary we are among the first to respect that sacred authority."

The issue of shared papal-episcopal authority has divided the progressive and conservative elements in the council, and its resolution is expected to set the tone of Roman Catholicism in the modern world.

Some conservative prelates want to put the whole matter of shared authority off to some future council, or leave it entirely to the Pope.

Pope Paul apparently was referring to such opposition when he said today:

"The fathers of the First Vatican Council (held in 1869-70) defined and proclaimed the truly unique and supreme powers conferred by Christ on Peter and handed on to his successors. This recognition has appeared to some as having limited the authority of bishops . . . and as having rendered superfluous and prevented the convocation of a subsequent ecumenical council, which, however, according to canon law has supreme authority over the entire Church."

The Pope then made clear that the issue of shared authority could not be put aside at this council.

He said: "the present ecumenical synod is certainly going to confirm the doctrine of the previous one regarding the prerogatives of the Roman

Thousands of Planets May Have Creatures

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) Creatures as intelligent as man may inhabit thousands of planets in our own Milky Way galaxy, a high-ranking scientist said here.

Conditions favorable to life may be far more plentiful than generally thought possible, Dr. Harrison Brown, California Institute of Technology geochemist, said after a study financed by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Estimating that there may be hundreds of millions of planets in the Milky Way and that many of them are likely to be bathed by life-giving light from their suns, Brown said:

"One might conclude that man is not alone in this galaxy. Searching for evidence of such intelligent life forms may indeed prove to be profitable and exciting."

Sect Sail for Australia to Escape A-Bomb

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Thirty-two members of the Russian Molokan Christian Holy Spiritual Jumpers sailed for Australia last week to save themselves from an "atomic holocaust" they believe will destroy the United States.

The group, from Los Angeles, did not specify the date of the nolocaust.

"There are too many worldly activities and too much sin to tempt our children in Southern California," an elder said.

Name of Japanese Is Found on Guam

AGANA, Guam (AP) — Part of a Japanese name was found marked on the bark of a young tree this morning by the 10-man team searching for Guam's possible World War II holdouts.

Sgt. Mariano Cruz, who heads the searchers, said the marking looked two months old and was partly identifiable.

The discovery was made deep in Guam's northeastern jungle.

Increase in Colorado Valuation Is Reported

DENVER (UPI)— Colorado's total assessed valuation increased $63.5 million from 1963 to 1964 and now stands at $3,986,907,507, the State Tax commission said here.

Nearly $21 million of the increase was in public utility valuations, which went up from $434.4 million to $455.1 million, the commission said.

Locally assessed real and personal property increased $42,840,741 — the smallest increase since 1952.

The commission, in a report to the State Board of Equalization, also said:

—Cattle and sheep valuation dropped from $75.1 million to $82.6 million.

—Two thirds of the counties shared a gain of $798.5 million. Jefferson led with a gain of $23.7 million. Adams had an increase of $13.7 million, Boulder $13.4 million and El Paso $13.2 million.

—Denver's assessed valuation decreased, along with that of 20 other counties. Denver dropped by $17.5 million, about half of the entire $34.9 million drop in the entire 21 counties in which there was a loss. Morgan County decreased by $5.9 million, Washington by $4 million and Logan by $1.5 million.

The commission said it had no recommendations on valuation to make this year because the 1964 Legislature rewrote the tax laws.

The report pointed out that the new law "directs" the assessors and this commission to make annual adjustments, either upwards or downwards, to bring all assessments to 30 per cent of actual value by 1967. . ."

List of Harmful Viruses Is Growing

WASHINGTON (AP) — A National Institutes of Health scientist says the list of viruses during pregnancy which may cause physical or mental damage in newborn babies is growing.

Dr. John Sever said the list includes some 10 viruses, and he pinpointed three of the most prevalent — German measles, salivary gland viruses, and protozoan parasites.

ers here, Dr. Sever reporters Thursday, Dr. Sever reported on current studies of thousands of pregnant women which show, among other things:

—That 17 per cent of pregnant women have no antibody protection against German measles, which accounts for about 3 per cent of abnormal births.

—A large percentage has no protection against salivary gland viruses — infections so nearly symptom-free that often women are not aware they have been afflicted.

—Some 75 per cent of pregnant women have no protection against toxoplasmosis, a parasite which can cause mental retardation and the accumulation of fluids in the skull known as hydrocephalus in infants.

Brown Recluse Spider's Bite Said Harmful

A shy and hermit-like spider which can cause a severe ucler-like wound is the latest target of a warning by the National Pest Control Association.

This member of a tribe generally considered beneficial to man is the brown recluse spider found mostly in the South and Southwest, but having near kin in many other states.

The Brown Recluse, or more scientifically Loxosceles reclusa, is a small — with a body usually less than a half inch long — soft bodied and secretive spider which usually runs for cover when distrubed, but when it bites the effect is usually paintful and dangerous.

The wound which this spider causes has an unusual characteristic in that the tissue around it usually dies in what physicians describe as a necrotic effect and which has been named "North American Loxoscelism" in an article in a recent issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

The Brown Recluse usually bites when it is trapped in clothing or squeezed as by a person rolling upon one in his sleep. The bite is usually followed by a stinging sensation and then intense pain.

A small blister usually shows up first and a large area around the bite becomes congested and swollen. The tissue affected locally by the spider's venom is actually killed and gradually falls away. Healing takes place very slowly and it may take from six to eight weeks. Because of the actual "death" of tissue, the spider's bite leaves a hole or scooped out portion. Scars from Brown Recluse bites have been reported as large as a half dollar.

Dr. Philip J. Spear, technical director of NPCA, in warning about the Brown Recluse noted that its most outstanding physical characteristic is the violin-shaped marking on the cephalothorax, or forward portion of its body. He said that persons who suspect a Brown Recluse bite should consult a physician immediately and if possible should bring with them the body of their assailant.

He also pointed out that while the NPCA sponsors university research looking toward better ways of controlling this dangerous pest, professional pest control operators are now prepared to deal with it adequately.

While Loxosceles reclusa is found chiefly in Arkansas, Missouri, Oklahoma, Texas and adjoining states, there are other species found in the East, Far West and Southwest and all are suspected of causing bites leading to necrotic destruction of tissue or Loxoscelism.

Dr. John Sever said the list includes some 10 viruses, and he pinpointed three of the most prevalent — German measles, salivary gland viruses, and protozoan parasites.

ers here, Dr. Sever reporters Thursday, Dr. Sever reported on current studies of thousands of pregnant women which show, among other things:

—That 17 per cent of pregnant women have no antibody protection against Germa measles, which accounts for about 3 per cent of abnormal births.

—A large percentage has no protection against salivary gland viruses — infections so nearly symptom-free that often women are not aware they have been afflicted.

—Some 75 per cent of pregnant women have no protection against toxoplasomosis, a parasite which can cause mental retardation and the accumulation of fluids in the skull known as hydrocephalus in infants.

Before founding Dartmouth College in 1769, the Reverend Eleazar Wheelock directed the Moors Indian Charity School for 14 years.

Colonels Fill Financial Jobs At Ent Base

Two colonels with experience in Air Force financial management have been assigned to Air Defense Command's top two comptroller slots. Col. James O. Gross and Col. Ralph C. Embry have assumed duties as DCS-comptroller and assistant DCS-comptroller, respectively.

Col.. Gross has served in high-level budget posts in Hq. USAF, Air Force Systems Command, and Air Force Logistics Command. He is a 1957 graduate of the Air War College.

Classroom work for a masters degree has been completed and this sheepskin will soon join the colonel's B.A. in business administration received from the University of Texas earlier. The masters study was accomplished through George Washington University.

Colorado Springs residence for the colonel and his family is 2910 Chelton Dr. His wife is the former Marion Hargett of Texarkana, Tex. They have two children; Cynthia, 18, a U. of Colorado freshman, and James F. II.

The whole family enjoys outdoor sports such as: hunting, fishing, golf and skiing.

Col. Embry has past experience as comptroller, 13th Air Force in the Philippines, and as district director, auditor general, eastern district, New York City.

He is married to the former Meredith Commons of Virgil. sons: Clark, now a junior at Kansas University and Ralph C., II, enrolled at Kansas State Teachers College this year. The Embrys live at 1001 Vega Dr.

Col. Embry and his family also enjoy the outdoor activities offered by the Pikes Peak region. Golf, fishing, and hunting will occupy much of their leisure time.

MAKES BIG IMPRESSION

EASTBOURNE, England — (UPI) — David John Epps was in jail here for making too deep an impression. The 22-year-old Epps is charged with trying to strangle a female acquaintance. Said Epps in his defense: "I only gripped her round the throat. I did it to impress her because she would not go out with me."

Brown Recluse Spider's Bite Said Harmful

A shy and hermit-like spider which can cause a severe ucler-like wound is the latest target of a warning by the National Pest Control Association.

This member of a tribe generally considered beneficial to man is the brown recluse spider found mostly in the South and Southwest, but having near kin in many other states.

The Brown Recluse, or more scientifically Loxosceles reclusa, is a small — with a body usually less than a half inch long — soft bodied and secretive spider which usually runs for cover when distrubed, but when it bites the effect is usually paintful and dangerous.

The wound which this spider causes has an unusual characteristic in that the tissue around it usually dies in what physicians describe as a necrotic effect and which has been named "North American Loxoscelism" in an article in a recent issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

The Brown Recluse usually bites when it is trapped in clothing or squeezed as by a person rolling upon one in his sleep. The bite is usually followed by a stinging sensation and then intense pain.

A small blister usually shows up first and a large area around the bite becomes congested and swollen. The tissue affected locally by the spider's venom is actually killed and gradually falls away. Healing takes place very slowly and it may take from six to eight weeks. Because of the actual "death" of tissue, the spider's bite leaves a hole or scooped out portion. Scars from Brown Recluse bites have been reported as large as a half dollar.

Dr. Philip J. Spear, technical director of NPCA, in warning about the Brown Recluse noted that its most outstanding physical characteristic is the violin-shaped marking on the cephalothorox, or forward portion of its body. He said that persons who suspect a Brown Recluse bite should consult a physician immediately and if possible should bring with them the body of their assailant.

He also pointed out that while the NPCA sponsors university research looking toward better ways of controlling this dangerous pest, professional pest control operators are now prepared to deal with it adequately.

While Loxosceles reclusa is found chiefly in Arkansas, Missouri, Oklahoma, Texas and adjoining states, there are other species found in the East, Far West and Southwest and all are suspected of causing bites leading to necrotic destruction of tissue or Loxoscelism.

Viets Did Not Eat Dogs After All

BONN, West Germany (AP) — The foreign ministry has good news for West German dog lovers. Those 230 German Shepherds sent to South Viet Nam were not eaten after all.

A story in a Saigon newspaper earlier this month had said the animals meant to serve as watchdogs in outlying South Vietnamese villages, had been eaten as delicacies by the natives.

By MARY SHIRER

For the Pikes Peak Group of the Colorado Mountain Club

Our country is confronted with The big problem of pesticide spraying which is killing our birds by the hundreds and even thousands, according to Roger Tory Peterson who gave a lecture in Norfolk, Va. a year ago. He was informed that the city was to be sprayed with deildrin. Three hundred acres were to be sprayed because of thepresence of fringed beatles which the entomologists had discovered. The public protested but the edict had been issued. Later 236 dead birds were picked up immediately after the spraying and many more later. He remarked he was so glad to hear the mocking birds again but said "you probably won't hear them next week. A hush fell over the audience as I warned them that Rachel Carson's 'Silent Spring' was no fantasy. It could happen in Norfolk."

We know that there are many more destructive insects than formerly and they are increasing all over the U.S. and other countries. Some ask, what can we do about it? We can urge less poisonous insecticides from chemical companies, but since only the government can order the change it behooves all citizens as well as bird-lovers to urge the Department of Agriculture to restrict the use of poisionous chemicals, that are so deadly. To be sure, the poisonous insecticides are necessary to kill insects but there could be limitations.

More people today are interested in birds. There are more bird societies and there is greater interest shown among young boys and girls than ever before in the fight to save the birds. More people engaged in the Christmas bird count than ever before which accounted for the large number recorded. Everybody loves birds for their happy songs and beautiful plumage. Yet the time is not far distant when our birds will be gone.

If everybody will put up a fight, we may be able to save them. Write to your Congressmen urging them to give all the help possible in creating different pesticides. The late Rachael Carson urged the creation by law of a federal board of control that would have authority to regulate the distribution and use of chemical pesticides. This proposal was heartily endorsed and it is hoped that it may go into effect.

A few weeks ago we all were saddened by the picture on the front page of the Gazette showing the terrible slaughter of white throated swifts which have come to Gateway rocks in the Garden of the Gods every year.

This spring they were greeted with insecticides and their bodies were found scattered around the rocks. This is just one of many instances, and the problem is growing serious. It is a threat to all bird life. The National Audubon Society is putting forth every effort in this fight as well as all local bird Societies but this is everybody's job.

Talks on Cancer Set in October At Denver

The factors affecting the attitude toward death will be analyzed at a Nurses Conference on Cancer at the Hilton Hotel in Denver on Oct. 2.

A panel, representing a cross section of professions who deal with critically ill persons, will probe the attitudes of the critically ill, and their families toward death.

The panel will be moderated by Mary Walker, RN, Director of nursing service of the Denver Chapter of the American Red Cross.

On the panel will be Rabbi Samuel Adelman of the BMH Congregation; Margaret Arrington, supervisor of the medical social service of Denver General Hospital; Dr. Richard L. Vanden Bergh, clinical instructor of psychiatry of the University of Colorado School of Medicine; and Lillian Austin, RN, president of the Colorado Nurses Association.

The panel is part of a day long conference on cancer for nurses, and is sponsored jointly by the Colorado Division of the American Cancer Society, the Colorado Nurses Association, and the Colorado Public Health Department.

The luncheon program will feature three British leaders, Lawrence P. F. L'Estrange, British Consul in Denver; Dr. James McLean and Dr. Ilie McLean, husband and wife of Edinburgh, Scotland; one a psychiatrist and the other a general practitioner. They will discuss the role of the nurse in England' medical health program.

Other papers will include a report on leukemia and lymphomas by Dr. Harold D. Palmer, pathologist of Presbyterian Hospital in Denver, and a presentation about research in cancer by Dr. John H. Githens, associate dean of the University of Colorado School of Medicine.

Dr. H. Calvin Fisher of Denver is chairman of the program which includes among its participants Ned Greenslit, executive vice president of the Colorado Division of the American Cancer Society; Dorothy Howard, RN, cancer nursing consultant of the Colorado Health Department; and Margaret Ryan, RN, chairman of the educational committee of the Colorado Nurses' Association.

Loud Singer Still Problem in Church

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The pastor of the Mar Vista Baptist Church says Mrs. Betty Chapman is still his main attendance problem.

Mrs. Chapman, 42, was enjoined by court order last May 18 from attending. She sang, he said, too loudly — and off key.

Now, says pastor Wayne A. Eurich, she's back.

He filed an affidavit here stating that Mrs. Chapman violated the court order by attending six Sunday morning services and three evening services, and asking that she be held in contempt of court.

Mrs. Chapman's attorney replied by asking that the proceedings be dismissed, contending the citation against his client was not properly served and that the original injunction is still being appealed. The case was continued to Sept. 21.

Pastor Eurich had won the injunction after witnesses testified Mrs. Chapman deliberately disrupted church services.

Pastor Eurich said the dispute arose when he refused to perform a wedding ceremony Mrs. Chapman had arranged for a young couple. Eurich said he would not perform the ceremony because of the young age of the couple.

Child Burglar Gang Broken Up by Cops

HUNTINGTON, N.Y. (AP) — Police have broken up a child burglar gang led by a 12-year-old girl. The gang is accused of shoplifting, looting homes and destroying property for the past two months, for petty cash and "kicks".

The 11 boys and girls, all from fairly well-to-do homes, are 12 to 15, Suffolk County police said here.

Police said only cash was taken from the looted homes — with the money going for phonograph records, transistor radios, soda and candy. The gang also is accused of smashing mailboxes, windows and fences.

Police quoted the father of one alleged gang member: "They're really not bad. A bunch of them have been running up and down the streets, painting mailboxes and ripping up flags. I don't think it's any big deal."

Kansan Wants To Develop Denver Project

DENVER (UPI)— Kansas City developer Lewis Kitchen said here he would like to be the sole developer of the 20-block Skyline Plaza Project in lower downtown Denver.

Kitchen told the Urban Renewal Authority he was confident Denver voters would approve funds for the project after specific plans are completed in about 24 months.

He said he would buy the cleared land for the price set by independent appraisers.

The projected plaza area is bounded by Speer Blvd. and 20th St. from the alley between Larimer and Market Sts. to Champa St.

Kitchen said he thought Denverites would approve another bond issue to provide the $6 million in local funds needed for the project. He said the federal government would match this with a $12 million grant.

Denver voters June 30 defeated an $8 million bond proposal which would have financed the Skyline Plaza and other Urban Renewal projects.

According to Dr. Selman A. Waksman, who discovered streptomycin, chicken soup is a natural source of antibiotic substances.

with top officials, but there was no immediate indication whether Turkey intended to carry out its plan.

Greek Cypriot President Makarios warned Turkey that a navy convoy would be regarded as an aggressive act. Later he said Turkey could send supplies to regular ports — controlled by the Greek Cypriots — so long as no effort was made to break the blockade.

The new threat in the eight-month-old crisis was overshadowed in Athens by preparations for the marriage Friday of King Constantine to Danish Princess Anne-Marie. Diplomatic sources said Makarios had told Greek Premier George Pandreou he would take no new action without consulting the Greek government.

The U.N. peace force ferried the supplies to Kokkina after the U.N. commander, Lt. Gen. K S. Thimayya, said that the Turkish Cypriots in the village were near starvation. Makarios contended that U.N. observers had seen no actual cases of starvation but permitted the airlift from the Turkish stockpile in Famagusta, an eastern port. The shipments included flour, canned milk, cheese, sugar and blankets.

Turkish Cypriot leaders complained that Kokkina was not a unique case and that 40 per cent of the island's Turkish villages were in the same predicament.

They denounced accusations by U.N. officials that the Turkish Cypriots want to exploit Kokkina's plight for propaganda purposes. U.N. officials charged the Turkish Cypriots had refused to send supplies from their own stores.

pontiff. But it will also have as its principal objective the task of describing and honoring the prerogatives of the episcopate."

In possibly his strongest commitment to have the council define shared authority the Pope added:

"Let every one understand that the convocation of this council has been a free and spontaneous act on the part of our venerated predecessor, of happy memory, John XXIII, an act which we have readily confirmed knowing full well that the theme of this sovereign and sacred assembly would deal with the episcopate.

"It could not have been otherwise."

The previous Vatican Council 94 yeares ago defined papal primacy and then broke up because of civil war in Italy before it could take up scheduled work on a complementary definition of episcopal authority.

Other Christians often consider the Catholic concept of papal primacy a bar to closer contacts with Roman Catholicism.

Pope Paul also spoke about Christian unity, a long-range aim of the council.

Addressing observers sent to the council by other Christian churches, he said: "We wish to assure you once more of our purposes and hope to be able one day to remove every obstacle, every misunderstanding, every hesitancy that still prevents us from feeling fully 'of one heart and one soul' in Christ."

Boys With Loaded Gun Picked Up By Police

City Police picked up two boys ages 15 and 10 Sunday in connection with an incident of 26 cents in change being taken from a 10 year old boy at a 7-11 store, 307 S. Hancock St.

At the time they were taken into custody, the oldest of the pair was armed with a fully loaded 22-caliber pistol in a holster in front of his belt.

Also in their possession was 10 cartons of cigarettes that the two [illegible] taking from the rear of the 7-11 store. Air Police at Ent AFB held the pair for police after they were apprehended by [illegible].

Refugee Aided in Escape In Battle at Berlin Wall

the wall and showering him with concrete fragments.

West Berlin police returned the fire from windows of the apartment house. Two East Germans succeeded in reaching Meyer again. One began pulling the refugee, and the other pointed a pistol at Puhl.

"The American pulled his own pistol from the holster, aimed at the East German and said in German: "Drop him and get away from here," a witness said.

Puhl denied he had pointed his pistol but admitted it was out of its holster.

The East Germans again retreated. As Puhl covered Meyer, two West Berliners got a stepladder and wire cutters. Firemen brought a rope and Puhl dropped it to the wounded man.

"We got the rope on him and pulled him across," Puhl said. "He passed out when we got him over."

Helping Puhl were two West Berliners and an unidentified U.S. Army sergeant.

Five bullets hit Meyer. He was reported recovering from wounds in the thigh and shoulder.

A German man and woman were hit by flying glass and splinters on the Western side of the wall. It was believed that an East German guard also was injured.

Puhl, tall and blond, told his story in a clipped, precise manner. A native of Bremerhaven, he spoke with a sight German accent.

He was taken to the United States, in 1956 and enlisted in the Army in 1961 after failing to finish high school. His mother, Wilma Makarewicz, is married to an Army sergeant stationed at Ft. Knox, Ky.

Before joining the Army, Puhl worked for a time in a cotton mill at Statesville, N.C.

"The only thing he did mostly was go to church,' said Mrs. Fleet Brown, who knew him in Statesville. "He'd go to revivals. Anytime he found out about one anywhere out in the country he'd go to it."

Maj. Gen. John F. Frankling, the U.S. commandant in Berlin, denounced the shooting of the refugee as an "inhuman dangerous action." He said police in West Berlin "will not remain passive in the face of unprovoked gun fire from the Soviet sector of Berlin."

The East German news agency called the incident a "Serious provocation." It made no mention that a refugee was involved.

Ten Children Die As Blaze Sweeps Their Farm Home

tims were children and stepchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bowdish. The other child killed was an orphan boy who lived with the family.

Bowdish, an unemployed auto mechanic, had moved his family to the rented house just outside Kasota about a week ago. They had been making repairs on the house the family owned in Mankato, about six miles southwest. Kasota is a town of about 650 population in southern Minnesota.

Mrs. and Mrs. Bowdish were not home when the fire broke out. They had driven to Minneapolis to pick up some appliances which friends had given them.

The victims were Daniel Bowdish, 3; Loretta Bowdish, 4; Lucretia Bowdish, 5; Kenneth Bowdish, 6; Linda McConnell, 9; Marvin McConnell, 10; Richard McConnell, 11; Mary McConnell, 13; Robert McConnell, 16, and Roger Brown, 15. The McConnell youngsters were Mrs. Bowdish's children by a previous marriage.

The Brown boy, an orphan, had been living with the Bowdish family for about two months.

Mr. and Mrs. Bowdish learned of the tragedy when they arrived from Minneapolis about midnight Saturday. Law officers stopped them on the road near the house and broke the news.

The couple went to nearby St. Peter and talked to Joanne, hospitalized there for shock.

"It's no one's fault," the weeping mother told Joanne. "Just be thankful you got out. It was meant to happen, or it wouldn't have happened."

Joanne said all the children except Robert were in bed when the blaze broke out.

Robert was in the basement, lighting the wood-fired furnace.

"I heard a crack like a jar breaking or something," Joanne said. "I got up to find out what it was. Robert said there was a fire and to get the kids out. I tried to wake them up."

The children all were upstairs, the girls in one room and the boys in another.

"They were so scared they just ran around in circles and didn't know what to do," Joanne said. "I opened all the windows."

Robert came upstairs and told the children to flee. The fire flared into the stairway, and all the children were trapped upstairs.

"I jumped out the window and got on my bike," Joanne said.

Flames had engulfed the house by the time fire trucks arrived. Fireman Bill Wilson said. "The kids never had a prayer of a chance."

Firemen sifted the ashes for bodies of the victims. The last was found around 6 a.m. Fire Chief Howard Wilde said it was the worst fire he'd ever seen.

Mrs. Bowdish has born 15 children. Her first five children, with the surname Pouchow, are grown and living away from home. Her second husband, Robert McConnell, was killed in World War II. The four youngest of her children were by Bowdish.

Funeral services for the children will be held Wednesday in Bethel Baptist Church, Mankato. Capt. Donald L. Brundridge of the Salvation Army will officiate, assisted by the Rev. Val Hauck of the Bethel Church.

Mrs. Edward Dudley West Mankato, a sister of Mrs. Bowdish, said the cost of the funeral and burial plots had been donated.

"The Bowdishes had everything at that house," Mrs. Dudley said. "They have nothing but the clothes on their backs."

JFK Assassination Report Is Still Being Written

that public distribution of the report is up to the White House.

Much of the delay in completing the report — the original target date was June 30 — stems from painstaking efforts by commission members to make sure each report on Kennedy's death last Nov. 22 in Dallas is fully documented.

Commission sources said that although the report will contain "some surprises," in main it will say:

—Lee Harvey Oswald, an unstable Marxist acting without helpers or conspirators, shot Kennedy to death.

—Jack Ruby, convicted murdere of Oswald, acted in outraged grief as what he conceived to be an agent of retribution when he killed Oswald in the Dallas police station two days after Kennedy's death.

Warren said the commission's primary task now is editing proofs from the Government Printing Office, including the checking of "thousands of footnotes, references to the appendices."

But another commission member reported: "we're still writing."

The report will include, early in the text, a summary of the commission's findings, perhaps 20 to 25 pages long; then hundreds of pages of narrative and analytical text, with some illustrations; and, finally, some condensed appendices.

In addition, there will be 20 or more volumes containing the transcripts of testimony of hundreds of witnesses questioned in closed hearings, as well as depositions, investigations reports and exhibits.

Besides Warren, the commission consits of Reps. Hale Boggs, D-La., and Gerald R. Ford, R-Mich.; Sens. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., and John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky.; John J. McCloy and Allen W. Dulles.

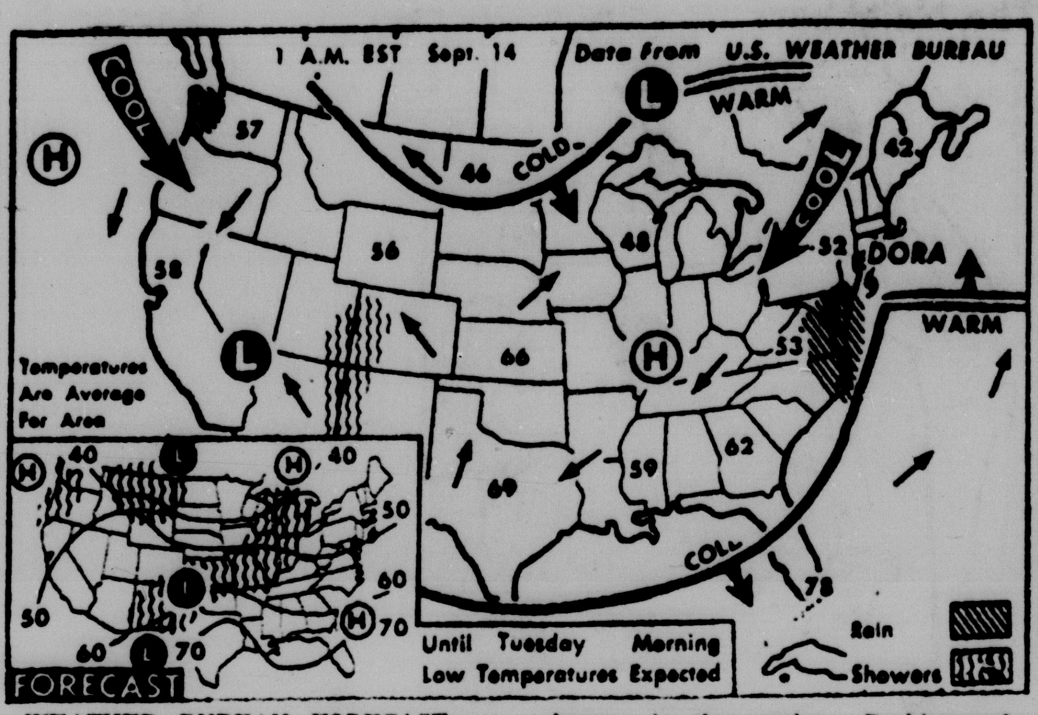
Kremlin Charges Red China Smuggles Dope

MOSCOW (AP) — The Kremlin has accused Red China of making huge profits from growing and smuggling dope.

Pravda, the Soviet Communist party newspaper, said the Chinese government is earning $800 million annually from narcotics.

It claimed Red China used the profits for "anti-Soviet propaganda or to subsidize the puppets of the Peking splitters."

Pravda quoted Teruzi Sagawara, chairman of Japan's National Committee for the Struggle Against Drug Addiction, as saying China is the world's largest producer of opium poppies and that most of the drug exports are "shipped to Southeast Asia and large consignments also reach the United States."



WEATHER BUREAU FORECAST — A band of showers and thundershowers are expected Monday night from the southern Rockies through the central Plains and Mississippi Valley into the upper Lakes area. There is a chance of showers in the northern Rockies and along the north Pacific coast. It will be cooler from the Dakotas to the Lakes and warmer in the southern Plains, the central Mississippi Valley and the Ohio and Tennessee valleys. (AP Wirephoto)

Boys Found With Egg Arsenal

Eleven teen-age boys, mostly from the Broadmoor area, who had been throwing eggs at cars, were found to have 1,800 eggs, two bushels of apples, a crate of tomatoes an various other fruits and vegetables in their two vehicles, the sheriff's office reported Sunday.

Broadmoor Police Officer Floyd Miller said he received a complaint that the youngsters had been tossing eggs in the Broadmoor. When he stopped the cars the boys told him they were fighting with another group of youngsters. The matter has been turned over to the juvenile authorities.

Lockjaw Risk Still Seen by Medical Group

CHICAGO (UPI) — Tetanus, or "lockjaw" as it is commonly known, is one of the most dangerous diseases that can strike a human being and about 60 per cent of those afflicted die, the American Medical Association (AMA) reports.

No antibiotic or other drug known can halt a full-blown case, yet the disease is almost completely preventable by means of immunization, the AMA said.

Millions of babies and members of the armed forces have been innoculated against tetanus, but three-fourths of the adult population lacks immunity, either by failure to get immunization shots or failure to get "booster" shots after immunization wears off, the AMA said.

The seeds, or spores, of tetanus can be found in the cultivated soils of most areas of the U.S. They can be picked up by plants or animals, and put into the victim's body by a scratch, a thorn, or an insect bite.

Once inside the body, these spores "hatch" into tiny, microscopic bacteria which multiply and liberate one of the deadliest of poisons. The poison attacks the nerve centers causing convulsions and muscle spasms.

Usually the first nerves affected are those of the head and neck, which turn rigid with spasm, freeze the chewing muscles and give the disease the name, "lockjaw".

A wound that bleeds freely usually washes out any tetanus spores, or if they do sprout into bacteria, the oxygen in the blood may destroy the organisms.

Communists Dwindle In San Marino Area

SAN MARINO (AP) — Communist-Socialist strength dwindled still further today in the world's oldest and tiniest republic as the Christian Democrats and the Democratic Socialists won another solid election victory.

The election, in which women voted for the first time, was for the 60-member Grand Council, the parliament for the mountaintop country of 15,000 people in northeast Italy.

The Christian Democrats and the Democratic Socialists won 39 seats, as compared to 35 during the last election in 1959. The Communist-Socialist alliance got 21, losing four.

Russians Fear U.S.-Red China 'Understanding'

LONDON (UPI) — Russia fears that Red China may try to reach an understanding with the United States to bolster its position in the ideological conflict with Moscow, Communist diplomatic sources indicated today.

The sources said the Peking regime might be willing to pay a considerable price for such an understanding.

They suggested that the idea of China trying to get a more friendly relationship with the United States was not unrealistic in the light of these recent Chinese moves:

—The snapping-up of diplomatic relations with France in January, despite the fact Peking had denounced President Charles de Gaulle earlier as one of the "aggressive imperialists."

—Chinese attempts to achieve close cooperation with American-influenced Japan.

— Signs of Chinese readiness to do business with "revenge-seeking" West Germany and to trade with other nations listed heretofore as among the "colonialist and imperialist enemies."

An attempt by Communist China to reach an "accommodation" with the U. S. would be designed at isolating the Soviet union politically as well as ideologically, the sources said. It would also enable the Peking regime to appear more favorably in the "co-existence" picture, up to now largely monopolized by Soviet premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Panama Guard Raids Camp of Guerrillas

PANAMA (AP) — National Guardsmen have raided a Communist guerrilla training center in Chiriqui Province and seized documents including an intelligence plan described as "superior to anything anybody including the National Guard has."

Military sources said the plan detailed how much livestock and produce each farmer in the province raised and told whether he was a Communist sympathizer.

It also gave topographical details on a mountain peak which authorities described as suitable for installing electronic equipment to guide planes.

Two persons were arrested in the raid Wednesday.

The National Bank Act, passed in 1863, created a national banking system, established a uniform currency and limited the power of the state banks.

Carson Man Died Sunday After Car Crash

Bernard J. Holat, 22, Ft. Carson, died Sunday about 2 p.m. in the Fairplay Hospital from head and internal injuries received about two-hours earlier in a two-car crash on U.S. 24 near Hartsell, State Patrol reported.

A passenger, Josephine Brown, 23, 219 E. Vermijo St., suffered a fractured left elbow and right leg and was taken to Penrose Hospital.

Holat was a radio carrier operator and had been assigned to Co. A. 5th Signal Bn. at the mountain post since July 1963. Hometown was witheld pending notification of next of kin, by Ft. Carson authorities.

According to State Patrol, the accident occured when a car driven by Nick Gallegos, 50, 1830 W. Platte Ave., veered off the highway, then careened back to the road colliding with the Holat car.

Gallegos suffered a fractured left arm and multiple fractures and was taken to Penrose Hospital, State Patrol said.

Sunday morning to find out what was happening.

Nothing like this had been foreshadowed during the four-day review of the Vietnamese situation which Taylor held with President Johnson, Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Defense and other authorities from Monday through last Thursday, and other officials held an unannounced emergency meeting at the White House Sunday on the newest Saigon crisis. This was followed by a statement expressing the hope that "consultations among the (South Vietnamese) leadership will shortly permit the government to restore the situation in the city to normal."

At that time the troops who had been led into Saigon some hours earlier by Brig. Gen. Lam Van Phat, Khanh's deposed interior minister, appeared to have control of Saigon.

The reference to "the government" in the Johnson administration's statement made clear that authorities here did not accept the claim of the rebels to having thrown Khanh out of the permiership. Officials said privately that U.S. support was still behind the premier.

Sunday night in a second statement issued by the State Department, the United States took a firm and flat public position in support of Khanh and his administration.

This statement also reported that U.S. officials in Saigon had been in touch with "military and civilian leaders" there throughout Sunday and Sunday evening.

"The triumvirate of Gen. Khanh, Gen. Duong Van Minh and Gen. Tran Van Khiem continues to operate, with Gen. Khanh as prime minister and Gen. Minh exercising the functions of chief of state.

"The United States government fully supports this duly constituted government. The United States deplores any effort to interfere with this government's program of convening the Supreme National Council to reorganize the structure of the government on lines commanding broad particiation by all important elements of the population."

The statement was intended obviously to remove any doubt which might have persisted in Saigon and elsewhere about the U.S. commitment to Khanh, and authorities here described him as they had during Taylor's visit last week as still being the one man in South Viet Nam who has a possibility of creating a reasonably broad base of support for rule in the country.

During Taylor's consultation here last week U.S. policymakers decided that the most urgent need in South Viet Nam now is for greater political stability.

The coup Sunday dealt at least a temporary setback to this goal. What its long range effects would be was a question that only future events could answer. Theoretically Khanh might have emerged from the latest struggle for power in a stronger position. But it appeared possible from the Washington viewpoint that the dissatisfaction by generals who had been within the ruling group might seriously weaken Khanh's position — despite the last announcement by the rebel leaders that unity had been restored.

with top officials, but there was no immediate indication whether Turkey intended to carry out its plan.

Greek Cypriot President Makarios warned Turkey that a navy convoy would be regarded as an aggressive act. Later he said Turkey could send supplies to regular ports — controlled by the Greek Cypriots — so long as no effort was made to break the blockade.

The new threat in the eight-month-old crisis was overshadowed in Athens by preparations for the marriage Friday of King Constantine to Danish Princess Anne-Marie. Diplomatic sources said Makarios had told Greek Premier George Pandreou he would take no new action without consulting the Greek government.

The U.N. peace force ferried the supplies to Kokkina after the U.N. commander, Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya, said that the Turkish Cypriots in the village were near starvation. Makarios contended that U.N. observers had seen no actual cases of starvation but permitted the airlift from the Turkish stockpile in Famagusta, an eastern port. The shipments included flour, canned milk, cheese, sugar and blankets.

Turkish Cypriot leaders complained that Kokkina was not a unique case and that 40 per cent of the island's Turkish villages were in the same predicament.

They denounced accusations by U.N. officials that the Turkish Cypriots want to exploit Kokkina's plight for propaganda purposes. U.N. officials charged the Turkish Cypriots had refused to send supplies from their own stores.

Vatican Council Third Session Opened by Pope

pontiff. But it will also have as its principal objective the task of describing and honoring the prerogatives of the episcopate."

In possibly his strongest commitment to have the council define shared authority the Pope added:

"Let every one understand that the convocation of this council has been a free and spontaneous act on the part of our venerated predecessor, of happy memory, John XXIII, an act which we have readily confirmed knowing full well that the theme of this sovereign and sacred assembly would deal with the episcopate.

"It could not have been otherwise."

The previous Vatican Council 94 yeares ago defined papal primacy and then broke up because of civil war in Italy before it could take up scheduled work on a complementary definition of episcopal authority.

Other Christians often consider the Catholic concept of papal primacy a bar to closer contacts with Roman Catholicism.

Pope Paul also spoke about Christian unity, a long-range aim of the council.

Addressing observers sent to the council by other Christian churches, he said: "We wish to assure you once more of our purposes and hope to be able one day to remove every obstacle, every misunderstanding, every hesitancy that still prevents us from feeling fully 'of one heart and one soul' in Christ."

Boys With Loaded Gun Picked Up By Police

City Police picked up two boys ages 15 and 10 Sunday in connection with an incident of 26 cents in change being taken from a 10 year old boy at a 7-11 store, 307 S. Hancock St.

At the time they were taken into custody, the oldest of the pair was armed with a fully loaded 22-caliber pistol in a holster in front of his belt.

Also in their possession was 10 cartons of cigarettes that the two admitted taking from the rear of the 7-11 store. Air Police at Ent AFB held the pair for police after they were apprehended for trespassing.

After questioning by police, the 10-year old was turned over to his parents and the 15-year old was placed in the detention home. The boy had traded with a neighbor boy for the gun, police reported.

Refugee Aided in Escape In Battle at Berlin Wall

the wall and showering him with concrete fragments.

West Berlin police returned the fire from windows of the apartment house. Two East Germans succeeded in reaching Meyer again. One began pulling the refugee, and the other pointed a pistol at Puhl.

"The American pulled his own pistol from the holster, aimed at the East German and said in German: "Drop him and get away from here," a witness said.

Puhl denied he had pointed his pistol but admitted it was out of its holster.

The East Germans again retreated. As Puhl covered Meyer, two West Berliners got a stepladder and wire cutters. Firemen brought a rope and Puhl dropped it to the wounded man.

"We got the rope on him and pulled him across," Puhl said. "He passed out when we got him over."

Helping Puhl were two West Berliners and an unidentified U.S. Army sergeant.

Five bullets hit Meyer. He was reported recovering from wounds in the thigh and shoulder.

A German man and woman were hit by flying glass and splinters on the Western side of the wall. It was believed that an East German guard also was injured.

Puhl, tall and blond, told his story in a clipped, precise manner. A native of Bremerhaven, he spoke with a sight German accent.

He was taken to the United States, in 1956 and enlisted in the Army in 1961 after failing to finish high school. His mother, Wilma Makarewicz, is married to an Army sergeant stationed at Ft. Knox, Ky.

Before joining the Army, Puhl worked for a time in a cotton mill at Statesville, N.C.

"The only thing he did mostly was go to church,' said Mrs. Fleet Brown, who knew him in Statesville. "He'd go to revivals. Anytime he found out about one anywhere out in the country he'd go to it."

Maj. Gen. John F. Frankling, the U.S. commandant in Berlin, denounced the shooting of the refugee as an "inhuman dangerous action." He said police in West Berlin "will not remain passive in the face of unprovoked gun fire from the Soviet sector of Berlin."

The East German news agency called the incident a "Serious provocation." It made no mention that a refugee was involved.

Ten Children Die As Blaze Sweeps Their Farm Home

tims were children and stepchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bowdish. The other child killed was an orphan boy who lived with the family.

Bowdish, an unemployed auto mechanic, had moved his family to the rented house just outside Kasota about a week ago. They had been making repairs on the house the family owned in Mankato, about six miles southwest. Kasota is a town of about 650 population in southern Minnesota.

Mrs. and Mrs. Bowdish were not home when the fire broke out. They had driven to Minneapolis to pick up some appliances which friends had given them.

The victims were Daniel Bowdish, 3; Loretta Bowdish, 4; Lucretia Bowdish, 5; Kenneth Bowdish, 6; Linda McConnell, 9; Marvin McConnell, 10; Richard McConnell, 11; Mary McConnell, 13; Robert McConnell, 16, and Roger Brown, 15. The McConnell youngsters were Mrs. Bowdish's children by a previous marriage.

The Brown boy, an orphan, had been living with the Bowdish family for about two months.

Mr. and Mrs. Bowdish learned of the tragedy when they arrived from Minneapolis about midnight Saturday. Law officers stopped them on the road near the house and broke the news.

The couple went to nearby St. Peter and talked to Joanne, hospitalized there for shock.

"It's no one's fault," the weeping mother told Joanne. "Just be thankful you got out. It was meant to happen, or it wouldn't have happened."

Joanne said all the children except Robert were in bed when the blaze broke out.

Robert was in the basement, lighting the wood-fired furnace.

"I heard a crack like a jar breaking or something," Joanne said. "I got up to find out what it was. Robert said there was a fire and to get the kids out. I tried to wake them up."

The children all were upstairs, the girls in one room and the boys in another.

"They were so scared they just ran around in circles and didn't know what to do," Joanne said. "I opened all the windows."

Robert came upstairs and told the children to flee. The fire flared into the stairway, and all the children were trapped upstairs.

"I jumped out the window and got on my bike," Joanne said.

Flames had engulfed the house by the time fire trucks arrived. Fireman Bill Wilson said. "The kids never had a prayer of a chance."

Firemen sifted the ashes for bodies of the victims. The last was found around 6 a.m. Fire Chief Howard Wilde said it was the worst fire he'd ever seen.

Mrs. Bowdish has born 15 children. Her first five children, with the surname Pouchow, are grown and living away from home. Her second husband, Robert McConnell, was killed in World War II. The four youngest of her children were by Bowdish.

Funeral services for the children will be held Wednesday in Bethel Baptist Church, Mankato. Capt. Donald L. Brundridge of the Salvation Army will officiate, assisted by the Rev. Val Hauck of the Bethel Church.

Mrs. Edward DeAtley West Mankato, a sister of Mrs. Bowdish, said the cost of the funeral and burial plots had been donated.

"The Bowdishes had everything at that house" Mrs. DeAtley said. "They have nothing but the clothes on their backs."

JFK Assassination Report Is Still Being Written

that public distribution of the report is up to the White House.

Much of the delay in completing the report — the original target date was June 30 — stems from painstaking efforts by commission members to make sure each report on Kennedy's death last Nov. 22 in Dallas is fully documented.

Commission sources said that although the report will contain "some surprises," in main it will say:

—Lee Harvey Oswald, an unstable Marxist acting without helpers or conspirators, shot Kennedy to death.

—Jack Ruby, convicted murdere of Oswald, acted in outraged grief as what he conceived to be an agent of retribution when he killed Oswald in the Dallas police station two days after Kennedy's death.

Warren said the commission's primary task now is editing proofs from the Government Printing Office, inciuding the checking of "thousands of footnotes, references to the appendices."

But another commission member reported: "we're still writing."

The report will include, early in the text, a summary of the commission's findings, perhaps 20 to 25 pages long; then hundreds of pages of narrative and analytical text, with some illustrations; and, finally, some condensed appendices.

In addition, there will be 20 or more volumes containing the transcripts of testimony of hundreds of witnesses questioned in closed hearings, as well as depositions, investigations reports and exhibits.

Besides Warren, the commission consits of Reps. Hale Boggs, D-La., and Gerald R. Ford, R-Mich.; Sens. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., and John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky.; John J. McCloy and Allen W. Dulles.

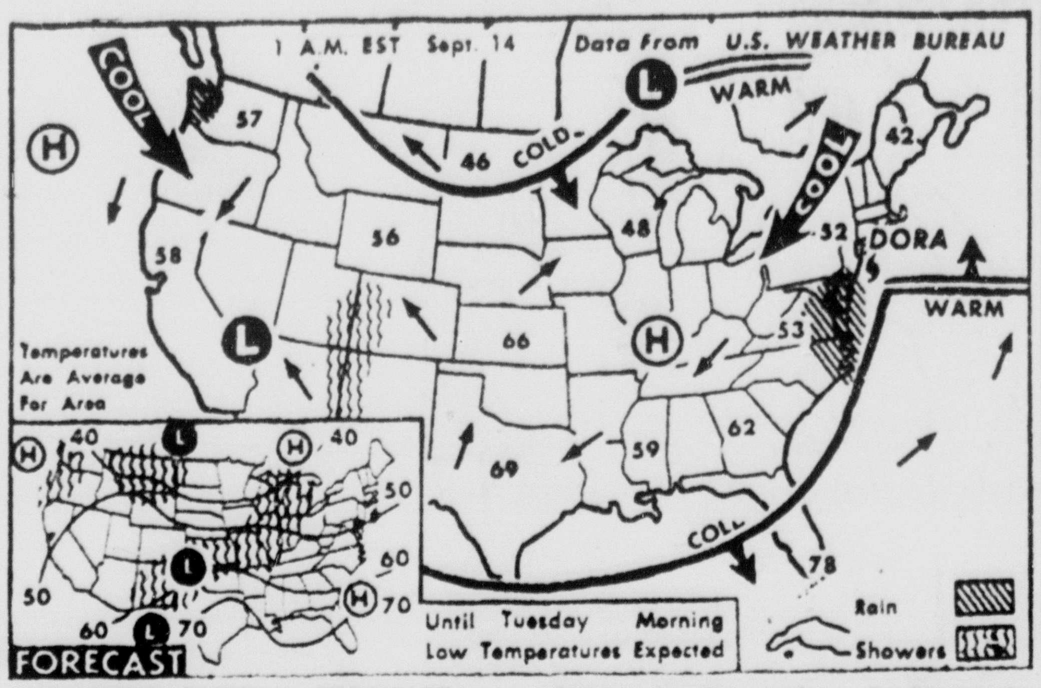
Kremlin Charges Red China Smuggles Dope

MOSCOW (AP) — The Kremlin has accused Red China of making huge profits from growing and smuggling dope.

Pravda, the Soviet Communist party newspaper, said the Chinese government is earning $500 million annually from narcotics.

It claimed Red China used the profits for "anti-Soviet propaganda or to subsidize the puppets of the Peking splitters."

Pravda quoted Tsusai Sugavara, chairman of Japan's National Committee for the Struggle Against Drug Addiction, as saying China is the world's largest producer of opium poppies and that most of the drug exports are "shipped to Southeast Asia and large consignments also reach the United States."



WEATHER BUREAU FORECAST — A band of showers and thundershowers are expected Monday night from the southern Rockies through the central Plains and Mississippi Valley into the upper Lakes area. There is a chance of showers in the northern Rockies and along the north Pacific coast. It will be cooler from the Dakotas to the Lakes and warmer in the southern Plains, the central Mississippi Valley and the Ohio and Tennessee valleys. (AP Wirephoto)

Boys Found With Egg Arsenal

Eleven teen-age boys, mostly from the Broadmoor area, who had been throwing eggs at cars, were found to have 1,800 eggs, two bushels of apples, a crate of tomatoes an various other fruits and vegetables in their two vehicles, the sheriff's office reported Sunday.

Broadmoor Police Officer Floyd Miller said he received a complaint that the youngsters had been tossing eggs in the Broadmoor. When he stopped the cars the boys told him they were fighting with another group of youngsters. The matter has been turned over to the juvenile authorities.

Lockjaw Risk Still Seen by Medical Group

CHICAGO (UPI) — Tetanus, or "lockjaw" as it is commonly known, is one of the most dangerous diseases that can strike a human being and about 60 per cent of those afflicted die, the American Medical Association (AMA) reports.

No antibiotic or other drug known can halt a full-blown case, yet the disease is almost completely preventable by means of immunization, the AMA said.

Millions of babies and members of the armed forces have been innoculated against tetanus, but three-fourths of the adult population lacks immunity, either by failure to get immunization shots or failure to get "booster" shots after immunization wears off, the AMA said.

The seeds, or spores, of tetanus can be found in the cultivated soils of most areas of the U.S. They can be picked up by plants or animals, and put into the victim's body by a scratch, a thorn, or an insect bite.

Once inside the body, these spores "hatch" into tiny, microscopic bacteria which multiply and liberate one of the deadliest of poisons. The poison attacks the nerve centers causing convulsions and muscle spasms.

Usually the first nerves affected are those of the head and neck, which turn rigid with spasm, freeze the chewing muscles and give the disease the name, "lockjaw".

A wound that bleeds freely usually washes out any tetanus spores, or if they do sprout into bacteria, the oxygen in the blood may destroy the organisms.

Communists Dwindle In San Marino Area

SAN MARINO (AP) — Communist-Socialist strength dwindled still further today in the world's oldest and tiniest republic as the Christian Democrats and the Democratic Socialists won another solid election victory.

The election, in which women voted for the first time, was for the 60-member Grand Council, the parliament for the mountaintop country of 15,000 people in northeast Italy.

The Christian Democrats and the Democratic Socialists won 39 seats, as compared to 36 during the last election in 1959. The Communist-Socialist alliance got 20, losing four.

Russians Fear U.S.-Red China 'Understanding'

LONDON (UPI) — Russia fears that Red China may try to reach an understanding with the United States to bolster its position in the ideological conflict with Moscow, Communist diplomatic sources indicated today.

The sources said the Peking regime might be willing to pay a considerable price for such an understanding.

They suggested that the idea of China trying to get a more friendly relationship with the United States was not unrealistic in the light of these recent Chinese moves:

—The snapping-up of diplomatic relations with France in January, despite the fact Peking had denounced President Charles de Gaulle earlier as one of the "aggressive imperialists."

—Chinese attempts to achieve close cooperation with American-influenced Japan.

— Signs of Chinese readiness to do business with "revenge-seeking" West Germany and to trade with other nations listed heretofore as among the "colonialist and imperialist enemies."

An attempt by Communist China to reach an "accommodation" with the U. S. would be designed at isolating the Soviet union politically as well as ideologically, the sources sai. It would also enable the Peking regime to appear more favorably in the "co-existence" picture, up to now largely monopolibed by Soviet premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Panama Guard Raids Camp of Guerrillas

PANAMA (AP) — National Guardsmen have raided a Communist guerrilla training center in Chiriqui Province and seized documents iincluding an intelligence plan described as "superior to anything anybody including the National Guard has."

Military sources said the plan detailed how much livestock and produce each farmer in the province raised and told whether he was a Communist sympathizer.

It also gave topographical details on a mountain peak which authorities described as suitable for installing electronic equipment to guide planes.

Two persons were arrested in the raid Wednesday.

Carson Man Died Sunday After Car Crash

Bernard J. Holat, 22, Ft. Carson, died Sunday about 2 p.m. in the Fairplay Hospital from head and internal injuries received about two-hours earlier in a two-car crash on U.S. 24 near Hartsell, State Patrol reported.

A passenger, Josephine Brown, 23, 219 E. Vermijo St., suffered a fractured left elbow and right leg and was taken to Penrose Hospital.

Holat was a radio carrier operator and had been assigned to Co. A, 5th Signal Bn. at the mountain post since July 1963. Hometown was witheld pending notification of next of kin, by Ft. Carson authorities.

According to State Patrol, the accident occured when a car driven by Nick Gallegos, 50, 1830 W. Platte Ave., veered off the highway, then careened back to the road colliding with the Holat car.

Gallegos suffered a fractured left arm and multiple fractures and was taken to Penrose Hospital, State Patrol said.

Sunday morning to find out what was happening.

Nothing like this had been foreshadowed during the four-day review of the Vietnamese situation which Taylor held with President Johnson, Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Defense and other authorities from Monday through last Thursday, and other officials held an unannounced emergency meeting at the White House Sunday on the newest Saigon crisis. This was followed by a statement expressing the hope that "consultations among the (South Vietnamese) leadership will shortly permit the government to restore the situation in the city to normal."

At that time the troops who had been led into Saigon some hours earlier by Brig. Gen. Lam Van Phat, Khanh's deposed interior minister, appeared to have control of Saigon.

The reference to "the government" in the Johnson administration's statement made clear that authorities here did not accept the claim of the rebels to having thrown Khanh out of the permiership. Officials said privately that U.S.support was still behind the premier.

Sunday night in a second statement issued by the State Department, the United States took a firm and flat public position in support of Khanh and his administration.

This statement also reported that U.S. officials in Saigon had been in touch with "military and civilian leaders" there throughout Sunday and Sunday evening.

"The triumvirate of Gen. Khanh, Gen. Duong Van Minh and Gen. Tran Van Khiem continues to operate, with Gen. Khanh as prime minister and Gen. Minh exercising the functions of chief of state.

"The United States government fully supports this duly constituted government. The United States deplores any effort to interfere with this government's program of convening the Supreme National Council to reorganize the structure of the government on lines commanding broad particiation by all important elements of the population."

The statement was intended obviously to remove any doubt which might have persisted in Saigon and elsewhere about the U.S. commitment to Khanh, and authorities here described him as they had during Taylor's visit last week as still being the one man in South Viet Nam who has a possibility of creating a reasonably broad base of support for rule in the country.

During Taylor's consultation here last week U.S. policymakers decided that the most urgent need in South Viet Nam now is for greater political stability.

The coup Sunday dealt at least a temporary setback to this goal. What its long range effects would be was a question that only future events could answer. Theoretically Khanh might have emerged from the latest struggle for power in a stronger position. But it appeared possible from the Washington viewpoint that the open rebellion by generals who had been within the ruling group might seriously weaken Khanh's position — despite the announcement by the rebel leaders that unity had been restored.

Retributive 'Justice'

Mrs. Alma Gant has a letter for us in today's Open Parliament section in which she criticizes us for what she views as our failure to discuss the problems, not of the criminal but of his victim. This, too, is an excellent subject.

The reason we have not mentioned it is because we were talking heretofore about criminals, not about their victims. But since the subject has been introduced, let's talk about the victims.

We have as much sympathy and compassion for the victims of any crime as Mrs. Gant, or anyone else. We are also painfully aware that taking vengeance on the criminal does not bring relief, satisfaction or happiness to the victim.

Obtaining vengeance, in the name of the state, is poor compensation. In civilized nations, the concept of vengeance has become rather distasteful. Indeed, the progress we have made during the centuries has come as we have put down the barbaric urge to avenge ourselves on those who do wrong.

We agree. A torn and broken body is an appalling sight. This is true whether that body is that of a victim or whether it is that of the criminal. Civilized people take no joy in such a spectacle and do all they can to reduce the incidence of this kind of thing. We do not think that pity and compassion are demonstrated by acts of violence in vengeful lust for the destruction of a person who has done wrong.

But, if we understand Mrs. Gant, she wants a return to the ancient system of an "eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth." She has apparently forgotten the enormous gains we have made as humans since we began to exercise mercy and compassion on everyone, not just on those who have suffered at the hands of an aggressor.

Somehow we are more favorably impressed by the admonition that we should "love our enemies" than we are by the admonition: kill, kill, kill! We have seen a great many tragic things in our rather full life, and we know of no lasting good to derive from a further extension of the tragedy.

Of course, we quite understand the argument that if you kill a man who has killed, the man who has killed will not be around to kill again. The problem is that by adopting this concept, YOU become a killer yourself and do not permit the guilt to remain exclusively with the villain. You join him in villainy on the mistaken idea that this will make the victim of the killer happy. And this is excused on the ground that he cannot kill again.

Of course he cannot. But YOU can. And since you adopted the policy of killing those who have done wrong, you will set yourself up as a divine judge to determine who, in that great judgment, is to be worthy of life. Is this very much different from the attitude of the criminal in respect to his victim? If his villainy justifies his death, what does your joining him in villainy justify?

But if we are to insist on "an eye for an eye," then retributive justice must be precisely and expertly managed in order that the victims will understand just how much pity we have for them.

This means that if a man rapes the wife of another man, the rapist must experience the same tragedy. To wit: his wife must be raped. To employ retribution fairly cannot result in the payment of death for rape. Rather, death must be the reward for death, rape for rape, arson for arson, and so on. This was the barbaric idea of the ancient Medes and Persians which assisted in destroying their great and powerful kingdom.

It was carried out, too, with great pity shown the victims of wrongdoers. For instance, if an architect built a building which collapsed upon the family of the occupant, then a new building must be built, the architect and his family herded inside, and the building made to collapse upon him. This demonstrates our socialized sorrow for the original mishap.

War is the sum total of retributive justice. Let us suppose that a villain gains political power in some nation. . . any nation. Our own is not excluded. Let us suppose that this politician commits an act that is terribly,, terribly wrong. What is the answer that we have for his victim? We declare war on his nation and begin killing all the people in that nation, including those who did not agree with their own political leadership. This way we express sorrow for the victim of the political leader. Or do we?

If a tragedy occurs, should we not do all in our power to see that no further tragedy occurs? Or are we helping things by extending the tragedy in a spirit of retribution?

We will continue to try to understand and favor morality as it has been expressed in the Christian-Judaic tradition. Somehow, we feel it is wiser and more modern than the ancient concepts of revenge, punishment and presumed pity for victims that end by creating more victims.

Predicting Human Action

One of the great facts with which we can contend relates to what Einstein was to call the space - time continuum. While others were to precede Einstein in a recognition of the vast individuality which pervades universal nature, the mathematician gave us a new language for this phenomenon and contributed in spreading the ideas.

The space - time continuum concept, applied to human experience, can be interpreted to mean that at no time will two events precisely coincide. This may well account for the fact that, whereas there is a cause-effect relationship which is [illegible] discovered, no two persons are ever precisely alike and no two events coincide [illegible] in every detail.

Human action, despite the tendency of persons to act in patterns of behavior, never is predictable. No two persons are alike. No two persons occupy precisely the same space at the same time. No two, with their respective variations, will ever respond in precisely the same way from any given set of stimuli.

This fact, and it is a fact, shows the utter folly of supposing that we can predict the future of this country based exclusively upon what has happened before. Nor can the market be predicted with accuracy. However, our government never seems to understand this fact and in consequence makes constant efforts to allocate resources on the basis of past evidence. To make these efforts, government must have, and does obtain, mountains of statistics relating to all that has transpired before. Using this data regulates the future by presuming that it will re-occur.

A case in point relates to population. For several years, statistical curves which are extended to predict birth rates, have tended to forecast an uncontrollable population explosion. Only two years ago, and basing their forecasts on events of the past, population "experts" were saying that by 1970 the American population would range from [illegible] to 214 million persons.

But now come some new facts to be reckoned with. The U.S. birth rate is dropping and the confident seers of the future, hampered as they are by understanding no principles but going entirely by the data of the past, have had to trim their predictions by several millions. The number of births per thousand has dropped from a 25-year peak of 25.3 to 21.6. Significantly, the general fertility rate, or number of babies born per 1,000 women of child-bearing age, started to decline dramatically in 1961.

Only a short time ago, government statisticians announced that both actual numbers of births and the birth rate for April of this year continued to fall below the line established a year ago. Thus, the decline has been in process for three years and the direction seems away from the peak of 214 millions by 1970.

It is "estimated" (there has been no census since 1960) that there are in America at the moment some 192 million persons. Six years from now, instead of a possible 214 million there may be no more than 206 million. And, of course, this isn't certain either. It may be either more or less.

This same fallacy of prediction, based entirely on the past, causes many people to suppose that events happening in the United States, which obviously do parallel to a large extent the experiences of the Roman empire, are unavoidable.

This is the thought that Marx tried so desperately to introduce, claiming that there was an "historic inevitability" about the onward march of socialism.

A willingness to believe that the future is controlled by the past may very well turn out to be the worst error of all the errors made by Karl Marx.

All of us have a tendency to suppose that we can predict the future from the record of the past. Free market economists do not escape this trap, for they have often predicted a financial collapse which has yet to materialize.

Based on the past alone, such a collapse is long overdue. But it has not occurred and its advent, in point of time, is unknown.

Probably more people are "taken in" by protestations of infallible prediction than by any other means. Such faith manifests with unusual vigor during election periods when pro-party men presume to predict the outcome of an election by assuming that the particular character of a man running for office assures a certain foreordained result. Few things are less certain.

Unless a person can learn the principles of morality and human behavior, chance will rule. The principles once grasped, can be applied individually, to maximize the kind of result you want.

Crystal River Valley (Conclusion)

By RUFUS L. PORTER

Osgood, founder of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company, and promoter of the Coal Basin and Redstone coal and coke enterprises, was a store clerk from Cleveland, Ohio, who came out West and made good, so I've read. He saw vast opportunities and created an empire with the help of moneyed men back east. "Bet a million Gates," a famous financial wizard of the times, was one of his backers.

But, according to legend, there was a battle of the giants in Wall Street over the great potentials of the CF and I, as the corporation was called, and still is. Anyhow, by 1900 Osgood had sold out to the Rockefellers, lock, stock and barrel, and left the fabulous home he had built in the wonderful western setting.

Rockefeller, who owned many large coal mines in the Walsenburg-Trinidad area, immediately shut down Osgood's Crystal River Valley operations and built numerous coke ovens hundreds of miles closer to the iron smelter and foundry, which was in Pueblo. Coal Basin became a ghost town, the railroad was torn out and Redstone Inn stood idle for years until it was turned into the headquarters of a dude ranch. The same with Cleveholm, with its two acres of lawn and landscaping. Surely, Osgood had expected to live out his life in this beautiful valley.

Continue up the road that follows the river above Redstone and you will come, after about 13 miles, to Marble, so named for the marble that was quarried there for several decades.

Clinging precariously to the narrow canon wall above the river is the remains of the old railroad bed down which thousands of tons of marble were shipped in those days. This railroad, too, has been torn out.

Wherever there were big "washouts" on the line, they were filled in with scrap marble from the quarries. Much of this "scrap" is in rather large pieces that would make suitable monuments or corner stones, and they look out of place in a railroad fill. You can see miles of them as you drive up toward the town of Marble.

And Marble is a sight. All the buildings in Marble, including the blacksmith and machine shops, were made of marble, much of it "scrap" or reject stuff. The buildings, now in a sad state of disrepair, resemble pictures of many of the old Roman ruins. At least they did when I was there last, 11 years ago.

The greatest known deposit of white marble in the world is situated at Marble. There is also serpentine, green and other colored marble to be found in the area. It is claimed that the marble deposit is 2,000 feet thick and nobody knows how many miles long. From here came the marble for the Lincoln Memorial and many other famous monuments and buildings. But marble, for all its beauty, has been used little as a building material for some time now.

The town was completely wiped out twice by snowslides, with great loss of life each time. But the last time it wasn't rebuilt. It was in an avalanche area and was certain to be wiped out again one day. Some avalanches occur every spring and follow the same course every time, and others wait until men have almost forgotten about the last one and then swoop down and ruin all they have built in their paths. One thing you can be sure of, wherever avalanches have occurred, no matter how long ago, when conditions are just right they will occur again; and follow the old path.

After the second disaster, with the use of marble on the decline, the Vermont Marble Company bought up the works to hold in reserve until their Vermont quarries should play out. I do not know if the Vermont people still own it. About ten years ago a Glenwood Springs company was formed to make lime from the beautiful marble stone. Marble is the purest form of limestone. They were going to build kilns at Marble and truck out their finished product. I don't know what has happened over there or whether they went ahead with their plans. Lime always is in demand but plenty of it is much more accessible in other areas. The winters are rugged at Marble.

There was one lone woman survivor who lived on in Marble until just a few years ago. She was an old lady famous for her tales of the once great camp. I have heard that she died a few years ago.

I have written a ballad and a sonnet about Marble that have appeared in the Gazette Telegraph in recent months, so they won't need repeating here.

From Marble it was possible to drive over a high mountain pass, by jeep, and eventually come out at Crested Buttes, another fabulous coal camp similar to Coal Basin. Crested Buttes belonged to the C F and I the last ten years of its existence. It was shut down a few years ago. The town is still there, but the coal mine has ceased operations.

There was some talk of opening the pass, Scofield Pass, I believe it is called, to car travel. But this would be quite an undertaking and there would not be a great deal of travel over it.

Crested Buttes can be reached over good roads from Gunnison. But such a route would open up some great scenery and some good fishing — and plenty of wilderness.

PITY THE VICTIMS

To the Editor:

Since I agree, with Mr. Frank Welsh, that criminals are let off too easy I have read, with interest, the columns written condemning him.

The most important thing I've noticed is the COMPLETE LACK of a word of pity for the VICTIMS of those criminals! You "moralists" and "Christians" wave those words over the heads of those criminals like some kind of a banner! I invite all you "moralists" to visit the scene of an accident, caused by one of your "moral responsibilities." View the broken and torn bodies of those whose only sin was being there when your "moral responsibility" felt the desire to kill! Visit the hospital and look into the eyes of women and children brutally raped by "your moral responsibility." See the horror and shock, in their eyes, they will carry to their grave!

Their only sin was being handy when one of "your moral responsibilities" decided to rape them.

At no place in your columns have you expressed or FELT pity for THEM.

You "moralists" and "Christians" are so busy feeling big, and holy, because you pity the poor, misunderstood criminal there is no room in your mind or heart for pity for their victims.

You moralists are in the same position as the savage who met a tiger, on a jungle path. He reasons if he shut his eyes real tight, the tiger would disappear and he would be safe.

Because you and YOUR loved ones have not yet been victims of these "moral responsibilities" of yours does not mean you never will.

Like the man and the tiger just shutting your eyes to everyone's danger, and patting the criminal on the head and saying, "Go and sin no more," can never mean you are safe.

Do you pat a flood and say, "You aren't to blame for killing hundreds of people?"

Wave your "moralist" and "Christian" flags, till your arms drop off, but save a LITTLE pity for the victims.

The Old Mountaineer

Autumn

By FRANK McDONOUGH JR.

If there were no further proof against the godless ideology of communism it would be our world when Autumn comes.

We resign ourselves to the bleak and snowy days of Winter because we know that the good earth must sleep and store the necessary moisture for the awakening and growth of Spring. We all enjoy the coming of Spring because it is an awakening and a growing season and it seems perfectly natural that Spring should be as it is. Summer is the time of year of which we are inclined to take for granted and enjoy its variant moods.

When Autumn comes, it is like the peaceful coming of twilight. If ever the hand of God is laid upon this earth of ours it is in the Autumn time when a master hand takes his brush in hand and paints a picture that no man could reproduce. Autumn not only lays before us the tapestry of the Gods but the canvas painted by God himself.

The real issue between our opposing ideologies is whether or not there is an omnipotent power which not only guides the hands of men but governs the coming and going of the seasons. In addition to my belief that there is an all - powerful God and all of the spiritual laws which he has laid down and which are immutable, I believe that he is a God of Beauty. The other seasons which he has provided have certain material aspects all of which go toward the livelihood and the conduct of us humans.

When Autumn comes, God has risen to his heights of mastery. The coloration of a leaf changes from hour to hour and day to day. No man could duplicate these changes. If man could do so, the final colorful picture of Autumn would not be what it is under the hand of the master painter. Indeed, this is the time of year where proof is given to man that truth is beauty and beauty, truth.

When the colors of Autumn are finally assembled, it is impossible for me to join in the precepts of an ideology which says there is no God. Autumn is no season wherein things die, but under the hand of a master power it is the season when the earth and all upon the earth prepare for another season of rest. The colors of the great painting come to complete fruition in a picture which is not abstract or smudge-pot artistry but is the perfect assemblage of beauty as though to lay a blanket of peace over the coming days of rest. True, the changing days of Autumn have their hours of turbulence. True, the painted colors of leaves stiffen under nature's changing hand. They dry and the winds of Autumn when the souls of and finally to cover the earth with a carpet of glory. The proof that there is a God comes to us in the Autumn and it becomes a memory for the rest of the year which is indelible.

There is no moment of Autumn when one who really thinks can say, "There is no God." There is no moment of Autumn when the hand of the Great Master is not laid upon us in proof of the wonders which are performed. There is no day of Autumn when he souls of those who do not believe become as naked as the trees which have been shorn of their recent beauty. It is impossible to believe that the naked souls of those men can long survive or prevail in any contest among men. I do not believe that such people and such lack of belief can or will prevail, because their lives must be without beauty, without inspiration and without belief in the immutability of one who can produce the awe inspiring pictures of the tapestry of Autumn. For these reasons, I can say with no sense of shame but with full pride that: I believe.

How Much Is That President In the Window?

By RUSSELL KIRK

Natives of New Hanover Island, near New Guinea, want to purchase Lyndon Johnson. For three months, an interesting cult has refused to pay taxes, arguing that their tax-money should be allocated to the acquisition of Mr. Johnson, who should rule and restore the prosperity that was theirs during American military occupation. New Guinea's officials have even found it necessary to build a new jail for confining the tax-strike zealots of the Johnson cult.

It seems improbable that President Johnson will sell himself to his black admirers in order to conduct his war on poverty from a truly poverty-stricken" base. Republicans, true enough, might ship Mr. Johnson to New Hanover at a cut-rate figure, were it in their power. And some Republicans have suggested that the Republican National Committee ought to make an offer for Mr. Johnson's assets — and use the profit to finance the Goldwater campaign. For while President Johnson says he is worth less than $4 million, Life magazine says his holdings have a value of $14 million.

It is clear that Mr. Johnson is several times richer than his rival, Senator Goldwater. More significant, Barry Goldwater has lost money while in the Senate — dipping into his capital; while Lyndon Johnson accumulated an immense fortune during his senatorial years, even though senatorial salaries usually provide little more than Washington living-expenses.

Many Presidents, from George Washington onward, have been rich; nearly all have been men of substance. The question is not whether the President of the United States should be a millionaire, but rather how he found his millions.

By manipulation in Washington, one can become a millionaire in very short order — through influence - peddling, chiefly. There is no better example of this royal road to success than Mr. Johnson's protege and friend Mr. Bobby Baker. Ours is the age of the contact-man and the inside-dopester. The late Estes Kefauver is said to have grown affluent through a single senatorial speech, in which he denounced a certain drug-company. The day before delivering his philippic, Senator Kefauver bought many shares of stock in a rival drug concern — a firm whose shares shot up in Wall Street proportionately. Kefauver's profit was very, very tidy.

Somehow, in Washington, Lyndon Johnson knew what to buy — away out in the West, most of it — that would increase eight or ten times in value, once in his possession; and certain gentlemen seem to have placed such opportunities in his path. This is nothing new; the late Joseph McCarthy, for instance, was not above such deals. But when the wheeler-dealer becomes President of these United States — well, perhaps the critics suffer from scrupulosity.

The enthusiasts of New Hanover won't acquire their beloved Lyndon for less than 4 million, though: at current prices, he's worth at least 10 million, and probably 14.

These Days

Prickly Issue

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

They held a referendum in my home town of Cheshire, Conn., the other day on the prickly issue of using taxpayers' money to bus children to a new parochial school. The arguments pro and con illustrated the difficulty which most people are now having when they try to decide modern problems by referring them to principle.

Was it an issue involving the misuse of tax funds to favor one group in society over another? On its face, it would seem so. The argument was advanced that if Catholics deserved money from the town to support their own venture in private education, there would be no good reason to turn down Buddhists, Seventh Day Adventists or Baptists. But then somebody got out pencil and paper and started figuring. The arithmetical evidence was that it would cost the whole body of the taxpayers less in the long run to provide separate bus service for Catholic children than it would to hire extra public school teachers and to build new classrooms if there were no parochial school in the neighborhood. So the Catholics, who were paying taxes to support the public school system anyway, were actually doing the town a financial favor by building a school of their own. And why, so the argument ran, shouldn't they get a little of their own tax money back in the form of transportation help in return for the favor?

If old H. L. Mencken had been present and a Cheshire resident, he would no doubt have taken off at this point to argue that if the Catholics deserved a remission of school fund taxes to pay for their bussing, then what about bachelors and childless couples? Should they pay to help transport children whom they did not have? This sort of argument has, in recent years, been dismissed as crackpot. But you would be surprised — or maybe you would not — at the number of old people who write to a columnist to complain at the injustice of having to pay taxes to support schools for their grandchildren. The old folks' argument is that, in default of state medicare, they have their own troubles to consider, so let their children pay for the education of the grandchildren.

Since the Cheshire referendum was settled in favor of using tax money to bus children to the new parochial school, it provides a good example for those who wish to argue for tax remission to any and all people who, by sending their children to private schools of any kind, help to relieve the strain on the public school system.

On a national plane, Connecticut's Senator Abe Ribicoff has been fighting for tax credits to parents who are paying to send their children to private colleges. The senator's idea is that this is one way to provide federal aid to education without creating a costly bureaucracy to collect the money and to administer its diffusion. Is there any good argument against the senator's proposal? Not if you are talking about tax justice. Of course, if taxes were less onerous all around, the need for federal aid to education would never come up.

SEPARATION

The idea that bussing Catholic children with public funds constitutes an infringement of the principle that church and state must be separated did not impress the majority of the Cheshire citizens who voted in the referendum. Why not? Well, for one thing, it was the Catholics' own tax money that was involved. For another, many of my fellow townsmen resented the Supreme Court decision that has outlawed voluntary prayer in the public schools. And, in any case, transportation help to Catholics who wish to send their children to a parochial school is not exactly an aid to the "establishment" of a religion, for the children are Catholics already and would presumably remain so even if forced to go to public school.

I didn't vote in the Chesire referendum. My general principles tell me that it is wrong for Protestants to be taxed to bus Catholic children to a parochial school. But my general principles also tell me that Catholics shouldn't be taxed to support a public school system when they are paying for schools of their own. You see how difficult things can get when you try to settle a modern problem on principle.

Q—Do scientists in general now believe that man is descended from the ape?

A—No. Scientists in general that man and the living anthropoid apes sprang from a common ancestor and parted thereafter.

Retributive 'Justice'

Mrs. Alma Gant has a letter for us in today's Open Parliament section in which she criticizes us for what she views as our failure to discuss the problems, not of the criminal but of his victim. This, too, is an excellent subject.

The reason we have not mentioned it is because we were talking heretofore about criminals, not about their victims. But since the subject has been introduced, let's talk about the victims.

We have as much sympathy and compassion for the victims of any crime as Mrs. Gant, or anyone else. We are also painfully aware that taking vengeance on the criminal does not bring relief, satisfaction or happiness to the victim.

Obtaining vengeance, in the name of the state, is poor compensation. In civilized nations, the concept of vengeance has become rather distasteful. Indeed, the progress we have made during the centuries has come as we have put down the barbaric urge to avenge ourselves on those who do wrong.

We agree. A torn and broken body is an appalling sight. This is true whether that body is that of a victim or whether it is that of the criminal. Civilized people take no joy in such a spectacle and do all they can to reduce the incidence of this kind of thing. We do not think that pity and compassion are demonstrated by acts of violence in vengeful lust for the destruction of a person who has done wrong.

But, if we understand Mrs. Gant, she wants a return to the ancient system of an "eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth." She has apparently forgotten the enormous gains we have made as humans since we began to exercise mercy and compassion on everyone, not just on those who have suffered at the hands of an aggressor.

Somehow we are more favorably impressed by the admonition that we should "love our enemies" than we are by the admonition: kill, kill, kill! We have seen a great many tragic things in our rather full life, and we know of no lasting good to derive from a further extension of the tragedy.

Of course, we quite understand the argument that if you kill a man who has killed, the man who has killed will not be around to kill again. The problem is that by adopting this concept, YOU become a killer yourself and do not permit the guilt to remain exclusively with the villain. You join him in villainy on the mistaken idea that this will make the victim of the killer happy. And this is excused on the ground that he cannot kill again.

Of course he cannot. But YOU can. And since you adopted the policy of killing those who have done wrong, you will set yourself up as a divine judge to determine who, in that great judgment, is to be worthy of life. Is this very much different from the attitude of the criminal in respect to his victim? If his villainy justifies his death, what does your joining him in villainy justify?

But if we are to insist on "an eye for an eye," then retributive justice must be precisely and expertly managed in order that the victims will understand just how much pity we have for them.

This means that if a man rapes the wife of another man, the rapist must experience the same tragedy. To wit: his wife must be raped. To employ retribution fairly cannot result in the payment of death for rape. Rather, death must be the reward for death, rape for rape, arson for arson, and so on. This was the barbaric idea of the ancient Medes and Persians which assisted in destroying their great and powerful kingdom.

It was carried out, too, with great pity shown the victims of wrongdoers. For instance, if an architect built a building which collapsed upon the family of the occupant, then a new building must be built, the architect and his family herded inside, and the building made to collapse upon him. This demonstrates our socialized sorrow for the original mishap.

War is the sum total of retributive justice. Let us suppose that a villain gains political power in some nation. . . any nation. Our own is not excluded. Let us suppose that this politician commits an act that is terribly, terribly wrong. What is the answer that we have for his victim? We declare war on his nation and begin killing all the people in that nation, including those who did not agree with their own political leadership. This way we express sorrow for the victim of the political leader. Or do we?

If a tragedy occurs, should we not do all in our power to see that no further tragedy occurs? Or are we helping things by extending the tragedy in a spirit of retribution?

We will continue to try to understand and favor morality as it has been expressed in the Christian-Judaic tradition. Somehow, we feel it is wiser and more modern than the ancient concepts of revenge, punishment and presumed pity for victims that end by creating more victims.

Predicting Human Action

One of the great facts with which we can contend relates to what Einstein was to call the space - time continuum. While others were to precede Einstein in a recognition of the vast individuality which pervades universal nature, the mathematician gave us a new language for this phenomenon and contributed in spreading the ideas.

The space - time continuum concept, applied to human experience, can be interpreted to mean that at no time will two events precisely coincide. This may well account for the fact that whereas there is a cause-effect relationship which is readily discovered, no two persons are ever precisely alike and no two events coincide identically in every detail.

Human action, despite the tendency of persons to act in patterns of behavior, never is predictable. No two persons are alike. No two persons occupy precisely the same space at the same time. No two, with their respective variations, will ever respond in precisely the same way from any given set of stimuli.

This fact, and it is a fact, shows the utter folly of supposing that we can predict the future of this country based exclusively upon what has happened before. Nor can the market be predicted with accuracy. However, our government never seems to understand this fact and in consequence makes constant efforts to allocate resources on the basis of past evidence. To make these efforts, government must have, and does obtain, mountains of statistics relating to all that has transpired before. Using this data regulates the future by presuming that it will re-occur.

A case in point relates to population. For several years, statistical curves which are extended to predict birth rates, have tended to forecast an uncontrollable population explosion. Only two years ago, and basing their forecasts on events of the past, population "experts" were saying that by 1970 the American population would range from 209 to 214 million persons.

But now come some new facts to be reckoned with. The U.S. birth rate is dropping and the confident seers of the future, hampered as they are by understanding no principles, but going entirely by the data of the past, have had to trim their predictions by several millions. The number of births per thousand has droppued from a 33-year peak of 25.3 to 21.6. Significantly, the general fertility rate, or number of babies born per 1,000 women of child-bearing age, started to decline dramatically in 1961.

Only a short time ago, government statisticians announced that both actual numbers of births and the birth rate for April of this year continued to fall below the line established a year ago. Thus, the decline has been in process for three years and the direction seems away from the peak of 214 millions by 1970.

It is "estimated" (there has been no census since 1960) that there are in America at the moment some 192 million persons. Six years from now, instead of a possible 214 million there may be no more than 206 million. And, of course, this isn't certain either. It may be either more or less.

This same fallacy of prediction, based entirely on the past, causes many people to suppose that events happening in the United States, which obviously do parallel to a large extent the experiences of the Roman empire, are unavoidable.

This is the thought that Marx tried so desperately to introduce, claiming that there was an "historic inevitability" about the onward march of socialism.

A willingness to believe that the future is controlled by the past may very well turn out to be the worst error of all the errors made by Karl Marx.

All of us have a tendency to suppose that we can predict the future from the record of the past. Free market economists do not escape this trap, for they have often predicted a financial collapse which has yet to materialize.

Based on the past alone, such a collapse is long overdue. But it has not occurred and its advent, in point of time, is unknown.

Probably more people are "taken in" by protestations of infallible prediction than by any other means. Such faith manifests with unusual vigor during election periods when pro-party men presume to predict the outcome of an election by assuming that the particular character of a man running for office assures a certain foreordained result. Few things are less certain.

Unless a person can learn the principles of morality and human behavior, chance will rule. The principles once grasped, can be applied individually, to maximize the kind of result you want.

Crystal River Valley (Conclusion)

By RUFUS L. PORTER

Osgood, founder of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company, and promoter of the Coal Basin and Redstone coal and coke enterprises, was a store clerk from Cleveland, Ohio, who came out West and made good, so I've read. He saw vast opportunities and created an empire with the help of moneyed men back east. "Bet a million Gates," a famous financial wizard of the times, was one of his backers.

But, according to legend, there was a battle of the giants in Wall Street over the great potentials of the CF and I, as the corporation was called, and still is. Anyhow, by 1909 Osgood had sold out to the Rockefellers, lock, stock and barrel, and left the fabulous home he had built in the wonderful western setting.

Rockefeller, who owned many large coal mines in the Walsenburg-Trinidad area, immediately shut down Osgood's Crystal River Valley operations and built numerous coke ovens hundreds of miles closer to the iron smelter and foundry, which was in Pueblo. Coal Basin became a ghost town, the railroad was torn out and Redstone Inn stood idle for years until it was turned into the headquarters of a dude ranch. The same with Cleveholm, with its two acres of lawn and landscaping. Surely, Osgood had expected to live out his life in this beautiful valley.

Continue up the road that follows the river above Redstone and you will come, after about 13 miles, to Marble, so named for the marble that was quarried there for several decades.

Clinging precariously to the narrow canon wall above the river is the remains of the oid railroad bed down which thousands of tons of marble were shipped in those days. This railroad, too, has been torn out.

Wherever there were big "washouts" on the line, they were filled in with scrap marble from the quarries. Much of this "scrap" is in rather large pieces that would make suitable monuments or corner stones, and they look out of place in a railroad fill. You can see miles of them as you drive up toward the town of Marble.

And Marble is a sight. All the buildings in Marble, including the blacksmith and machine shops, were made of marble, much of it "scrap" or reject stuff. The buildings, now in a sad state of disrepair, resemble pictures of many of the old Roman ruins. At least they did when I was there last, 11 years ago.

The greatest known deposit of white marble in the world is situated at Marble. There is also serpentine, green and other colored marble to be found in the area. It is claimed that the marble deposit is 2,000 feet thick and nobody knows how many miles long. From here came the marble for the Lincoln Memorial and many other famous monuments and buildings. But marble, for all its beauty, has been used little as a building material for some time now.

The town was completely wiped out twice by snowslides, with great loss of life each time. But the last time it wasn't rebuilt. It was in an avalanche area and was certain to be wiped out again one day. Some avalanches occur every spring and follow the same course every time, and others wait until men have almost forgotten about the last one and then swoop down and ruin all they have built in their paths. One thing you can be sure of, wherever avalanches have occurred, no matter how long ago, when conditions are just right they will occur again; and follow the old path.

After the second disaster, with the use of marble on the decline, the Vermont Marble Company bought up the works to hold in reserve until their Vermont quarries should play out. I do not know if the Vermont people still own it. About ten years ago a Glenwood Springs company was formed to make lime from the beautiful marble stone. Marble is the purest form of limestone. They were going to build kilns at Marble and truck out their finished product. I don't know what has happened over there or whether they went ahead with their plans. Lime always is in demand but plenty of it is much more accessible in other areas. The winters are rugged at Marble.

There was one lone woman survivor who lived on in Marble until just a few years ago. She was an old lady famous for her tales of the once great camp. I have heard that she died a few years ago.

I have written a ballad and a sonnet about Marble that have appeared in the Gazette Telegraph in recent months, so they won't need repeating here.

From Marble it was possible to drive over a high mountain pass, by jeep, and eventually come out at Crested Buttes, another fabulous coal camp similar to Coal Basin. Crested Buttes belonged to the C F and I the last ten years of its existence. It was shut down a few years ago. The town is still there, but the coal mine has ceased operations.

There was some talk of opening the pass, Scofield Pass, I believe it is called, to car travel. But this would be quite an undertaking and there would not be a great deal of travel over it.

Crested Buttes can be reached over good roads from Gunnison. But such a route would open up some great scenery and some good fishing — and plenty of wilderness.

PITY THE VICTIMS

To the Editor:

Since I agree, with Mr. Frank Welsh, that criminals are let off too easy I have read, with interest, the columns written condemning him.

The most important thing I've noticed is the COMPLETE LACK of a word of pity for the VICTIMS of those criminals! You "moralists" and "Christians" wave those words over the heads of those criminals like some kind of a banner! I invite all you "moralists" to visit the scene of an accident, caused by one of your "moral responsibilities." View the broken and torn bodies of those whose only sin was being there when your "moral responsibility" felt the desire to kill! Visit the hospital and look into the eyes of women and children brutally raped by "your moral responsibility." See the horror and shock, in their eyes, they will carry to their grave!

Their only sin was being handy when one of "your morral responsibilities" decided to rape them.

At no place in your columns have you expressed or FELT pity for THEM.

You "moralists" and "Christians" are so busy feeling big, and holy, because you pity the poor, misunderstood criminal there is no room in your mind or heart for pity for their victims.

You moralists are in the same position as the savage who met a tiger, on a jungle path. He reasons if he shut his eyes real tight, the tiger would disappear and he would be safe.

Because you and YOUR loved ones have not yet been victims of these "moral responsibilities" of yours does not mean you never will.

Like the man and the tiger just shutting your eyes to everyone's danger, and patting the criminal on the head and saying, "Go and sin no more," can never mean you are safe.

Do you pat a flood and say, "You aren't to blame for killing hundreds of people?"

Wave your "moralist" and "Christian" flags, till your arms drop off, but save a LITTLE pity for the victims.

Autumn

By FRANK McDONOUGH JR.

If there were no further proof against the godless ideology of communism it would be our world when Autumn comes.

We resign ourselves to the bleak and snowy days of Winter because we know that the good earth must sleep and store the necessary moisture for the awakening and growth of Spring. We all enjoy the coming of Spring because it is an awakening and a growing season and it seems perfectly natural that Spring should be as it is. Summer is the time of year of which we are inclined to take for granted and enjoy its variant moods.

When Autumn comes, it is like the peaceful coming of twilight. If ever the hand of God is laid upon this earth of ours it is in the Autumn time when a master hand takes his brush in hand and paints a picture that no man could reproduce. Autumn not only lays before us the tapestry of the Gods but the canvas painted by God himself.

The real issue between our opposing ideologies is whether or not there is an omnipotent power which not only guides the hands of men but governs the coming and going of the seasons. In addition to my belief that there is an all - powerful God and all of the spiritual laws which he has laid down and which are immutable, I believe that he is a God of Beauty. The other seasons which he has provided have certain material aspects all of which go toward the livelihood and the conduct of us humans.

When Autumn comes, God has risen to his heights of mastery. The coloration of a leaf changes from hour to hour and day to day. No man could duplicate these changes. If man could do so, the final colorful picture of Autumn would not be what it is under the hand of the master painter. Indeed, this is the time of year where proof is given to man that truth is beauty and beauty, truth.

When the colors of Autumn are finally assembled, it is impossible for me to join in the precepts of an ideology which says there is no God. Autumn is no season wherein things die, but under the hand of a master power it is the season when the earth and all upon the earth prepare for another season of rest. The colors of the great painting come to complete fruition in a picture which is not abstract or smudge-pot artistry but is the perfect assemblage of beauty as though to lay a blanket of peace over the coming days of rest. True, the changing days of Autumn have their hours of turbulence. True, the painted colors of leaves stiffen under nature's changing hand. They dry and the winds of Autumn when the souls of and finally to cover the earth with a carpet of glory. The proof that there is a God comes to us in the Autumn and it becomes a memory for the rest of the year which is indelible.

There is no moment of Autumn when one who really thinks can say, "There is no God." There is no moment of Autumn when the hand of the Great Master is not laid upon us in proof of the wonders which are performed. There is no day of Autumn when he souls of those who do not believe become as naked as the trees which have been shorn of their recent beauty. It is impossible to believe that the naked souls of those men can long survive or prevail in any contest among men. I do not believe that such people and such lack of belief can or will prevail, because their lives must be without beauty, without inspiration and without belief in the immutability of one who can produce the awe inspiring pictures of the tapestry of Autumn. For these reasons, I can say with no sense of shame but with full pride that: I believe.

How Much Is That President In the Window?

By RUSSELL KIRK

Natives of New Hanover Island, near New Guinea, want to purchase Lyndon Johnson. For three months, an interesting cult has refused to pay taxes, arguing that their tax-money should be allocated to the acquisition of Mr. Johnson, who should rule and restore the prosperity that was theirs during American military occupation. New Guinea's officials have even found it necessary to build a new jail for confining the tax-strike zealots of the Johnson cult.

It seems improbable that President Johnson will sell himself to his black admirers in order to conduct his war on poverty from a truly poverty-stricken" base. Republicans, true enough, might ship Mr. Johnson to New Hanover at a cut-rate figure, were it in their power. And some Republicans have suggested that the Republican National Committee ought to make an offer for Mr. Johnson's assets — and use the profit to finance the Goldwater campaign. For while President Johnson says he is worth less than $4 million, Life magazine says his holdings have a value of $14 million.

It is clear that Mr. Johnson is several times richer than his rival, Senator Goldwater. More significant, Barry Goldwater has lost money while in the Senate — dipping into his capital; while Lyndon Johnson accumulated an immense fortune during his senatorial years, even though senatorial salaries usually provide little more than Washington living-expenses.

Many Presidents, from George Washington onward, have been rich; nearly all have been men of substance. The question is not whether the President of the United States should be a millionaire, but rather how he found his millions.

By manipulation in Washington, one can become a millionaire in very short order — through influence - peddling, chiefly. There is no better example of this royal road to success than Mr. Johnson's protege and friend Mr. Bobby Baker. Ours is the age of the contact-man and the inside-dopester. The late Estes Kefauver is said to have grown affluent through a single senatorial speech, in which he denounced a certain drug-company. The day before delivering his philippic, Senator Kefauver bought many shares of stock in a rival drug concern — a firm whose shares shot up in Wall Street proportionately. Kefauver's profit was very, very tidy.

Somehow, in Washington, Lyndon Johnson knew what to buy — away out in the West, most of it — that would increase eight or ten times in value, once in his possession; and certain gentlemen seem to have placed such opportunities in his path. This is nothing new; the late Joseph McCarthy, for instance, was not above such deals. But when the wheeler-dealer becomes President of these United States — well, perhaps the critics suffer from scrupulosity.

The enthusiasts of New Hanover won't acquire their beloved Lyndon for less than 4 million, though: at current prices, he's worth at least 10 million, and probably 14.

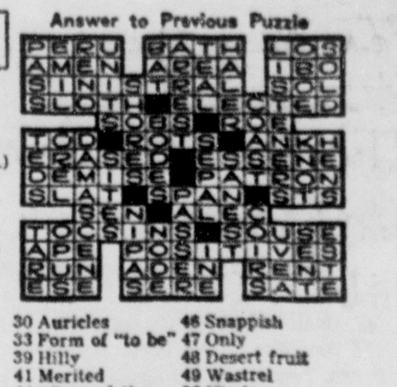
Answer to Previous Puzzle



These Days

Prickly Issue

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

They held a referendum in my home town of Cheshire, Conn., the other day on the prickly issue of using taxpayers' money to bus children to a new parochial school. The arguments pro and con illustrated the difficulty which most people are now having when they try to decide modern problems by referring them to principle.

Was it an issue involving the misuse of tax funds to favor one group in society over another? On its face, it would seem so. The argument was advanced that if Catholics deserved money from the town to support their own venture in private education, there would be no good reason to turn down Buddhists, Seventh Day Adventists or Baptists. But then somebody got out pencil and paper and started figuring. The arithmetical evidence was that it would cost the whole body of the taxpayers less in the long run to provide separate bus service for Catholic children than it would to hire extra public school teachers and to build new classrooms if there were no parochial school in the neighborhood. So the Catholics, who were paying taxes to support the public school system anyway, were actually doing the town a financial favor by building a school of their own. And why, so the argument ran, shouldn't they get a little of their own tax money back in the form of transportation help in return for the favor?

If old H. L. Mencken had been present and a Cheshire resident, he would no doubt have taken off at this point to argue that if the Catholics deserved a remission of school fund taxes to pay for their bussing, then what about bachelors and childless couples? Should they pay to help transport children whom they did not have? This sort of argument has, in recent years, been dismissed as crackpot. But you would be surprised — or maybe you would not — at the number of old people who write to a columnist to complain at the injustice of having to pay taxes to support schools for their grandchildren. The old folks' argument is that, in default of state medicare, they have their own troubles to consider, so let their children pay for the education of the grandchildren.

Since the Cheshire referendum was settled in favor of using tax money to bus children to the new parochial school, it provides a good example for those who wish to argue for tax remission to any and all people who, by sending their children to private schools of any kind, help to relieve the strain on the public school system.

On a national plane, Connecticut's Senator Abe Ribicoff has been fighting for tax credits to parents who are paying to send their children to private colleges. The senator's idea is that this is one way to provide federal aid to education without creating a costly bureaucracy to collect the money and to administer its diffusion. Is there any good argument against the senator's proposal? Not if you are talking about tax justice. Of course, if taxes were less onerous all around, the need for federal aid to education would never come up.

SEPARATION

The idea that bussing Catholic children with public funds constitutes an infringement of the principle that church and state must be separated did not impress the majority of the Cheshire citizens who voted in the referendum. Why not? Well, for one thing, it was the Catholics' own tax money that was involved. For another, many of my fellow townsmen resented the Supreme Court decision that has outlawed voluntary prayer in the public schools. And, in any case, transportation help to Catholics who wish to send their children to a parochial school is not exactly an aid to the "establishment" of a religion, for the children are Catholics already and would presumably remain so even if forced to go to public school.

I didn't vote in the Chesire referendum. My general principles tell me that it is wrong for Protestants to be taxed to bus Catholic children to a parochial school. But my general principles also tell me that Catholics shouldn't be taxed to support a public school system when they are paying for schools of their own. You see how difficult things can get when you try to settle a modern problem on principle.

SURPRISE MEAT BALLS FLAMBE

1 lb. ground round
¾ cup cracker crumbs
Salt and pepper to taste
1 tblsp. minced onion flakes
½ tsp. garlic powder
¼ tsp. oregano
1 egg
½ cup grated parmesan or mozzarella cheese
Cooking oil
½ cup sherry
1-3 cup cognac or brandy

Combine first 8 ingredients, mixing well. Form into 1 inch balls, and brown lightly in very small amount of cooking oil. Cover and simmer for 20 minutes. Place meat balls in slightly greased chafing dish or heated platter. Warm cognac or brandy in small saucepan, pour over meatballs and ignite.

If serving as part of dinner course, quicky serve one or two flaming balls to each person. If serving as hors d'oeuvre each person serve himself. Makes 16 to 18 balls.

Family Service to Have Orientation Program

Ent Air Force Base Family Services will hold its annual base orientation to acquaint military wives with their rights and privileges as dependents, at 8:45 a.m., Monday, Oct. 12, at the Skyline Club.

Family Services' annual presentation is not intended to recruit members and is open to all wives regardless of their husband's rank.

Particular emphasis will be placed on the women's role in the family should military circumstance separate the sponsor from the family. Speakers from major base offices including medical, legal, transportation and the chaplain's will be on hand to talk and then answer questions.

Such matters as how much legal advice and assistance the legal office may render, how much medical care — psychiatric or specialized — is entitled and what programs are offered for the handicapped and exceptional child will all be covered at length.

Free child care will be provided at the Yogi Bear Inn for mothers who wish to attend the function at the Officers' Open Mess. However, Family Services did caution those intending to attend to make their reservations early as the function is held but once a year. To make reservations call Ent extension 2633.

Hot brunch will be served midmorning and the meeting is expected to end at 12:30 p.m.

Doggondest Trouble!

DEAR ABBY: I am 12 years old and have had eight dogs in my lifetime, one at a time. The trouble is that something always happens to them when they are puppies. They either run away, get hit by a car, bite somebody and we have to get rid of them, or they get sick and die. I dearly love dogs, Abby, and you once said that you thought everybody should have one, but my father says I can't have another one. How can I convince him to let me have another dog?
—UNLUCKY WITH DOGS

DEAR UNLUCKY: The eight dogs you've had were also unlucky. However, there's more to owning a dog, training it and protecting it than just "luck." I agree with your father. Before you try to convince him to get another dog, get some instructions on the care and training of dogs from your local S.P.C.A or a veterinarian.

DEAR ABBY: When we were married 30 years ago, my husband told me of a blot on his past. He said he feared someone else might tell me if he didn't. He made me promise never to repeat it. Several years ago, while visiting his relatives, I got so sick of hearing them praise him to the skies that I revealed what he had told me in order to shock them. Naturally, my husband found out about it. Since that time he has treated me like a housekeeper and nothing more. He told me he never could love, respect or trust me again. He asked for a legal separation. [illegible] I [illegible] the thought of spending my few remaining years alone. We are both over 60, retired, and have no children. He wants to give me half of everything he has and wants me to get out of his sight. Should I give it to him? Please answer in the paper as I do not want a reply coming here. Thank you.
—DILEMMA

DEAR DILEMMA: Give him the legal separation.

DEAR ABBY: The letter signed "Good Daughter," whose aging mother drove her crazy, could have been written by me. My mother had a stroke and became cantankerous and demanding in her old age. She would call me sometimes twenty times a day to tell me the same thing. I would become annoyed and even impatient with her. I realize now that her memory was poor, and she had no conception of time, poor darling.

Mother passed away last July, and now I would welcome just one phone call from her. I have a lovely family but, Abby—no one on earth can take the place of a mother. Please tell all those "good daughters," who complain because their aging mothers take up so much of their time, that before they know it they will have plenty of lonely hours to themselves, as nothing is forever.

Former Resident Wins First In Cook Book Contest

A former Colorado Springs resident, Jacque Kimmel Shafer, walked off with top honors recently in the Long Beach Press Telegram Cookbook Contest. Jacque, who was runner-up in 1952 for Princess Power, model for Alexander Film Company, singer or Melody-Laine Restaurant, War Bond Queen for Camp Carson, and Miss Wisconsin in 1953, placed First in the Cookbook Contest in the Flaming Dishes Category for her "Surprise Meatballs Flambe"; took second place in refrigerator desserts for her "Mother's Coffee Souffle," won honorable mention in sandwiches for her "Leftover Roast Sandwiches," and honorable mention in barbecue dishes for her "Barbecued Top Sirloin Steaks." There were over 5,000 entries in the contest.

Jacque appeared as guest singer with Lawrence Welk, and was affiliated with Channel 13 Jungle Show in Hollywood prior to her marriage in 1960. She is the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Herbert C. Kimmel. Rev. Kimmel was the pastor of the Community Church in Manitou for over eight years.

SURPRISE MEAT BALLS FLAMBE

1 lb. ground round
¾ cup cracker crumbs
Salt and pepper to taste
1 tblsp. minced onion flakes
½ tsp. garlic powder
¼ tsp. oregano
1 egg
½ cup grated parmesan or mozzarella cheese
Cooking oil
½ cup sherry
1-3 cup cognac or brandy

Combine first 8 ingredients, mixing well. Form into 1 inch balls, and brown lightly in very small amount of cooking oil. Cover and simmer for 20 minutes. Place meat balls in slightly greased chafing dish or heated platter. Warm cognac or brandy in small saucepan, pour over meatballs and ignite.

If serving as part of dinner course, quicky serve one or two flaming balls to each person. If serving as hors d'oeuvre each person serve himself. Makes 16 to 18 balls.

Family Service to Have Orientation Program

Ent Air Force Base Family Services will hold its annual base orientation to acquaint military wives with their rights and privileges as dependents, at 8:45 a.m., Monday, Oct. 12, at the Skyline Club.

Family Services' annual presentation is not intended to recruit members and is open to all wives regardless of their husband's rank.

Particular emphasis will be placed on the women's role in the family should military circumstance separate the sponsor from the family. Speakers from major base offices including medical, legal, transportation and the chaplain's will be on hand to talk and then answer questions.

Such matters as how much legal advice and assistance the legal office may render, how much medical care — psychiatric or specialized — is entitled and what programs are offered for the handicapped and exceptional child will all be covered at length.

Free child care will be provided at the Yogi Bear Inn for mothers who wish to attend the function at the Officers' Open Mess. However, Family Services did caution those intending to attend to make their reservations early as the function is held but once a year. To make reservations call Ent extension 2633.

Hot brunch will be served mid-morning and the meeting is expected to end at 12:30 p.m.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Doggondest Trouble!

DEAR ABBY: I am 12 years old and have had eight dogs in my lifetime, one at a time. The trouble is that something always happens to them when they are puppies. They either run away, get hit by a car, bite somebody and we have to get rid of them, or they get sick and die. I dearly love dogs, Abby, and you once said that you thought everybody should have one, but my father says I can't have another one. How can I convince him to let me have another dog?
—UNLUCKY WITH DOGS

DEAR UNLUCKY: The eight dogs you've had were also unlucky. However, there's more to owning a dog, training it and protecting it than just "luck." I agree with your father. Before you try to convince him to get another dog, get some instructions on the care and training of dogs from your local S.P.C.A or a veterinarian.

DEAR ABBY: When we were married 30 years ago, my husband told me of a blot on his past. He said he feared someone else might tell me if he didn't. He made me promise never to repeat it. Several years ago, while visiting his relatives, I got so sick of hearing them praise him to the skies that I revealed what he had told me in order to shock them. Naturally, my husband found out about it. Since that time he has treated me like a housekeeper and nothing more. He told me he never could love, respect or trust me again. He asked for a legal separation. No divorce. I refused. I dread the thought of spending my few remaining years alone. We are both over 60, retired, and have no children. He wants to give me half of everything he has and then to get out of my sight. Should I give it to him? Please answer in the paper as I do not want a reply coming here. Thank you.
—DILEMMA

DEAR DILEMMA: Give him the legal separation.

DEAR ABBY: The letter signed "Good Daughter," whose aging mother drove her crazy, could have been written by me. My mother had a stroke and became cantankerous and demanding in her old age. She would call me sometimes twenty times a day to tell me the same thing. I would become annoyed and even impatient with her. Obscure Rule Helps Packers Top Bears

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Green Bay's new spread formation may have confused Paul Hornung, but he got a big kick out of it — and so did the Packers.

The Packers, who wrecked the Chicago Bears 23-12 Sunday in a significant National Football League season opener for both clubs, pulled a rabbit out of the NFL rule book in the process.

And Hornung, back in action after an enforced one-year layoff, found himself in the middle of the unique play with eight seconds left in the first half. The Green Bay ace made the most of it, however, booting a 52-yard field goal that tied the club distance record and contributed to his 11-point afternoon.

The seldom-seen maneuver went like this.

With time running out in the half, Chicago punted to the Packers and Elijah Pitts called for a fair catch at his own 48-yard line. Green Bay coach Vince Lombardi then invoked NFL Rule 3, Section 11, Article 2, which permits a team, after making a fair catch, to attempt a free kick with no interference from the defending team.

The Packers lined up across the field in kickoff formation; quarterback Bart Starr spotted the ball and Hornung, after lining it up carefully, split the uprights.

If it doesn't make sense, consider the reactions of the principals after the game:

"Everyone knows about that play," said Lombardi.

"I didn't know what was going on," said Hornung.

The Philadelphia Eagles apparently knew what was up. They tried the same play in their opener against the New York Giants but Sam Baker missed a 47-yarder as time ran out in the first half.

It was about the only miss for the fired-up Eagles. They buried the defending Eastern Division champs 38-7 behind a blitzing defense that completely throttled Y.A. Tittle's passing attack and a balanced offense directed by newcomer Norman Snead.

Minnesota surprised Baltimore 34-24; Cleveland whipped Washington 27-13; Detroit topped San Francisco 26-17 and Los Angeles upended Pittsburgh 26-14 in Sunday's other openers.

The St. Louis Cardinals jumped the gun Saturday night with a 16-6 victory over Dallas.

The Packers, whose two-year reign was snapped by the Bears last season while Hornung set out a suspension, ripped Chicago's vaunted defense for 197 yards rushing and 97 passing.

Starr passed for two touchdowns while Hornung kicked field goals of 29 and 20 yards in addition to his 52-yarder and added both extra points. The Bears, held to a field goal in the first half, scored their lone touchdown on a Rudy Bukich to Mike Ditka pass in the third quarter.

A tenacious Philadelphia defense tossed Tittle for 147 yards in losses. Earl Gros barrelled 59 yards for a touchdown on the first play from scrimmage and the Eagles, last in the East a year ago, never were headed.

Snead, acquired from Washington in a trade, threw two TD passes and Tim Brown scored twice before 60,671 — biggest pro crowd of the weekend.

Minnesota, winner of all its five pre-season games, contained Colts' passer Johnny Unitas most of the way and stunned Baltimore behind the running of Tommy Mason and Bill Brown. The Vikings scored on long drives in each quarter, with Mason's 48-yard TD sprint keying the upset.

Unitas hit Lenny Moore with a 70-yard scoring bomb and connected with Jimmy Orr on another 70-yarder that set up a second touchdown.

The Redskins struck for 10 quick points against Cleveland on Jim Martin's field goal and rookie Charlie Taylor's 17-yard touchdown sprint. But the Browns cashed in on three fumbles to take the lead, then put the game out of reach with a 77-yard march in the last period.

Gary Collins pulled in a 23-yard TD pass from Frank Ryan, Jimmy Brown bulled over for two touchdowns and Ernie Green got the other on a short plunge.

Detroit's Wayne Walker kicked four field goals — a club record — and Nick Pietrosante cracked over for two touchdowns as the Lions slipped past the 49ers. San Francisco kicker Tommy Davis set an NFL record of 158 straight conversions, making good on two extra point attempts.

Packers' Golden Boy Sparks Green Bay Opening Win

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — One year ago a penitent Paul Hornung watched helplessly as the Chicago Bears launched their bid to dethrone the Green Bay Packers as National Football League champions.

The Green Bay Golden Boy, who had sparked the Packers to three straight Western Division titles and two NFL crowns, sat in the stands under league suspension for gambling on games as the Bears posted a 10-3 victory.

Hornung, possibly football's top all-around scoring threat, accepted his sentence humbly. However, the Packers were unable to cope with his absence and also lost their second meeting to the Bears, who went on to win the championship.

Reinstated, Hornung returned to action Sunday and played his usual leading role as the Packers started a determined drive to regain their league honors by belting the Chicago Bears 23-12.

The 28-year-old former Notre Dame All-America booted three field goals, including a 52-yard effort on a seldom-used free place-kick rule, and added two extra points. He netted 77 yards in 15 carries and completed a pass which paved the way to a touchdown. He also handled the kickoff duties.

"Mr. Hornung is quite an athlete," Green Bay Coach Vince Lombardi beamed.

"Hornung apparently has lost nothing," said Coach George Halas, whose Bears lost only once in 1963. "He makes a great difference in the Packers."

Hornung accepted congratulations quietly.

Pirates' Defense Halts Buffs

Punt Return Provides 7-0 Win

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

DENVER — For a while Sunday afternoon, it seemed that the explosive toe of Machebeuf quarterback Jay Lombardi was destined to boot St. Mary's into an opening game defeat as the Pirates and Buffs launched the 1964 Denver Parochial League campaign at Regis Stadium.

By mid-afternoon, however, Chuck Haering's Bucs were ready to bus back to their Colorado Springs headquarters with a clutch 7-0 triumph — and it had been a Lombardi kick that provided the opportunity!

The victory shot the Pirates straight into the thick of this fall's title scrap in the DPL by removing one of the schedule's more stubborn obstacles. Hard-nosed Machebeuf figures to be a spoiler at the very least, and the Bucs definitely have one of their more stern tests behind them following Sunday's successful venture.

The triumph was provided by four quarters of rock-hard defense, plus the few seconds required for the necessary offensive gesture. Chris White, a stubby 150 pound slotback, contributed the latter by gathering in a Lombardi punt at his own 28 yard line and soaring down the sidelines on a 72 yard touchdown trip with 1:28 remaining in the first half.

It was a strange twist of fate for the Buffaloes, who had been prospering on the lengthy missiles fired off the Lombardi toe up to that point. The Machebeuf signal-caller had a 41.3 average for four kicks and his first two had kept the Pirates jammed into poor field position the majority of the first half. His first effort came with the Buffs stalled at midfield halfway through the first quarter and it squirted out of bounds one-foot short of the St. Mary's goal line.

It was the third kick, another 40 yard boomer, that White turned into the victory romp. Pulling it in at his own 28, he juggled the ball just long enough for the Machebeuf coverage to over-commit itself and then swung left down the alley the Pirates blockers had constructed and sped untouched to the goal. LeRoy Eckoff added the extra point.

Although that contribution was vital, it was the work of the St. Mary's defense that really turned the trick Sunday. For the second straight weekend the Pirates' sturdy forwards smothered an opponent's ground game — and this time it was a really thorough job.

Over the four quarters, Machebeuf managed just a single first down over the land route and finished the afternoon with a net of 18 yards from scrimmage. This meager total was compensated by 118 yards through the air lanes ,with Lombardi completing five of 11 passes for the majority of that output. However, the Bucs also picked off three stray Machebeuf aerials and that removed much of the threat from the passing game.

Meanwhile, the Pirates stayed primarily on the ground, rolling up a net of 143 yards rushing. They missed on all four pass attempts. Top producer was tiny Gary Dobson who squirmed through the Machebeuf defenses for 8 yards in 15 carries. Sam Zavatti added 48, and White another 36.

The Buffs had a pair of scoring opportunities, both as the result of quick strikes through the air. On the first play from scrimmage, halfback Mike Freeman hit Ed Mizicko with a running pass that carried for 38 yards to the St. Mary's 23. There, with the aid of a breakthrough by guard Mark Vandenburg who threw Freeman for a 13 yard loss, the Pirate line applied the brakes.

The second opportunity came late in the third period when Lombardi dropped back from his own 34 and floated a screen pass into the left flat. Freeman, who looked like a juggler on roller skates as he tipped the ball at least a half-dozen times, finally found a handle and took off for the St. Mary's goal. Eckhoff, with a fine tackle, yanked him down from behind at the 20, however, and after driving to the Pirates' nine, Machebeuf fumbled the ball away.

After the Pirates worked into field position early in the second period, they controlled the ball the majority of the way. They were in Machebeuf territory several times but penalties and the tough Buff line smashed down each threat.

Other Sunday results saw Mullen down Cathedral 21-0, Holy Family whip Annunciation 19-6, and St. Joseph's pound Mt. Carmel, 39-0. The Pirates return to Denver next Sunday to meet Mt. Carmel at 1 p.m. at Regis Stadium.

Champagne Flows as Luck Boosts Lema to Series Win

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Champagne Tony Lema sipped his favorite drink, stuffed a $50,000 check in his pocket — thankful for the breaks which helped him capture the World Series of Golf Sunday.

The British Open champion struck a tree on one shot only to have the ball carom 100 yards farther down the midle of the fairway, and used a blacktop walk as a guide to an important par on No. 9. He boosted his lead over his nearest rival, U.S. Open champion Ken Venturi.

LEMA GETS REWARD — Tony Lema, whose five-stroke victory won him $50,000 Sunday in the World Series of Golf at Firestone Country Club in Akron, was rewarded with a kiss from his wife Betty. She managed to keep a hand on the check while kissing the champion. (Associated Press Wirephoto)

Going into the final round, Lema trailed Venturi by one stroke. Masters champion Arnold Palmer and PGA winner Bobby Nichols were never in the running as Lema fired a 34-34—68 for a 138 total and Venturi blew to a 38-36—74 and 143.

Nichols had a 36-34—70 Sunday for a 147 and Palmer, the pre-tournament favorite, had a pair of 74s to finish last with 148.

Venturi's share of the $75,000 purse was $15,000 while Nichols and Palmer pocketed $5,000 each from a swag which does not count in official earnings.

Lema wasted no time Sunday in catching Venturi and pulled into a tie on the second hole as Venturi took a bogey 6. The two remained tied on No. 3. But Champagne Tony took the lead on No. 4 when Venturi took the second of six bogeys he posted in the round.

Venturi pulled into a tie with a birdie on No. 6 but Lema went ahead to stay with a birdie 2 on No. 7 while Venturi had to settle for another bogey.

All doubts that this was Lema's day were erased when Tony's second shot on No. 9 hit a mound and bounced up on the scratchy lawn in front of the pro shop.

"I couldn't lift the ball because there were branches in the way so I decided to bounce it along the walk and have it bounce up to the pin. It worked. You need breaks like that on this course or you simply can't win. It's too big," Lema said.

Lema said it was the finest golf he has ever played on the vast 7,165-yard Firestone Course with a par of 35-35—70.

Lema, who has earned $72,555 on the official list and ranks third this year in winnings, kidded Palmer and said "I think I'll buy Arne's airplane."

"When Uncle Sam gets through with you buddy," said Palmer, "you might just have to come to ol Arnie and borrow a little."

"That's okay," countered Lema who says he ranks first on the money spending list, "I just want to see it go through my fingers."

Lema felt a victory in the World Series should carry some significance other than just a large chunk of money. He said he felt the defending champion should have a right to return and Palmer agreed, adding "and they should start that in 1966."

National Amateur Golf Begins

CLEVELAND (AP) — Just a few miles up Ohio Route 8 from Akron, where Tony Lema won $50,000 Sunday for 36 holes of World Series Golf, 150 amateurs launched a 180-hole, week-long grind Monday for which the winner will not get a dime.

The play-for-fun group, survivors of a nationwide entry of 1,575 whittled down in regional qualifiers, teed off in the first half of a 36-hole stroke test to determine 63 match play contestants in the 64th National Amateur Championship.

Second round of the qualifier is scheduled Tuesday over Canterbury Golf Club's 6,863-yard, par 71 course. The low 63 will join Deane Beaman, 1960 and 1963 champion from Washington, D.C., in man-to-man matches Wednesday through Saturday.

Of the 150 entrants, 55 are making their first bid for the amateur title and 51 are in for the second straight year. Included are 13 former Walker Cup players.

Four AFL Games Bring Record Breaking Crowds

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The American Football League has opened its fifth season with the emphasis on attendance, the spotlight on Buffalo and the big question mark still surrounding Billy Cannon.

The major development of the four-game program was the record crowd of 44,497 as the New York Jets made an artistic and financially successful debut in Shea Stadium by walloping Denver 30-6.

The turnout was more than twice as large as any other ever to see the Jets in New York, exceeded the crowds at all but two of the National League's seven openers and pulled the AFL to a record attendance of 118,412 for its opening program.

Elsewhere, Buffalo's Bills won an opener for the first time in their history by crushing Kansas City 34-17, the Boston Patriots edged Oakland 17-14 as Cannon played a secondary role for the Raiders and the defending champion San Diego Chargers defeated the Houston Oilers 27-21.

The Jets got the job done early against the Broncos. Bill Baird intercepted a Jacky Lee pass on the second play from scrimmage, returned 24 yards to the 26 and three plays later New York had a touchdown on Dick Wood's 16-yard touchdown toss to Gene Heeter.

When Jim Turner kicked the conversion for a 7-0 lead, only 3:04 had elapsed, but the Broncos already had too many points to make up.

The Jets' attendance exceeded the previous record of 38,588 for the San Diego at Buffalo game in 1963 and topped the Jets' previous best of 20,377 vs. Denver at the Polo Grounds last year.

Bills' quarterback Jackie Kemp fired 17 and 10 yard scoring passes to Glenn Bass and hit El Dubenion with a six-yarder in the first quarter against the Chiefs while Tom Sestak ran an interception back 15 yards for a score and Pete Gogolak kicked two field goals and four extra points.

Bass, who was cut last year by the Bills after he was their No. 1 receiver in 1962, made good his return by pulling in five passes in all for 98 yards.

The Patriots, defending Eastern champions but losers of all five exhibition games, moved ahead to stay in the second half when Babe Parilli hit Tony Romeo with a 10-yard touchdown pass and shot a 72-yarder to Art Graham. Gino Cappelletti's 48-yard field goal provided the winning points.

Cannon, meanwhile, was used sparingly by his new Raider teammates, running back three kickoffs for 66 yards before getting in for three carries in the fourth quarter and gaining 25 yards.

Oakland's Clem Daniels, the league rushing champion, was held to minus one-yard in 14 tries by the rugged Patriot defense.

Veteran quarterback Tobin Rote pulled the Chargers out of danger in the second half against the Oilers, hitting Don Norton with a 19-yard TD pitch before winding up with a 27-yarder to Lance Alworth.

Houston quarterback George Blanda completed 29 passes — 13 to rookie Sid Blanks, who tied the league record for receptions. Blanks gained 131 yards on the passes and added another 53 yards rushing.

Champagne Flows as Luck Boosts Lema to Series Win

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Champagne Tony Lema sipped his favorite drink, stuffed a $50,000 check in his pocket — thankful for the breaks which helped him capture the World Series of Golf Sunday.

The British Open champion struck a tree on one shot only to have the ball carom 100 yards farther down the midle of the fairway, and used a blacktop walk as a guide to an important par on No. 9. He boosted his lead over his nearest rival, U.S. Open champion Ken Venturi.

LEMA GETS REWARD — Tony Lema, whose five-stroke victory won him $50,000 Sunday in the World Series of Golf at Firestone Country Club in Akron, was rewarded with a kiss from his wife Betty. She managed to keep a hand on the check while kissing the champion. (Associated Press Wirephoto)

Going into the final round, Lema trailed Venturi by one stroke. Masters champion Arnold Palmer and PGA winner Bobby Nichols were never in the running as Lema fired a 34-34—68 for a 138 total and Venturi blew to a 38-36—74 and 143.

Nichols had a 36-34—70 Sunday for a 147 and Palmer, the pre-tournament favorite, had a pair of 74s to finish last with 148.

Venturi's share of the $75,000 purse was $15,000 while Nichols and Palmer pocketed $5,000 each from a swag which does not count in official earnings.

Lema wasted no time Sunday in catching Venturi and pulled into a tie on the second hole as Venturi took a bogey 6. The two remained tied on No. 3. But Champagne Tony took the lead on No. 4 when Venturi took the second of six bogeys he posted in the round.

Venturi pulled into a tie with a birdie on No. 6 but Lema went ahead to stay with a birdie 2 on No. 7 while Venturi had to settle for another bogey.

All doubts that this was Lema's day were erased when Tony's second shot on No. 9 hit a mound and bounced up on the scratchy lawn in front of the pro shop.

"I couldn't lift the ball because there were branches in the way so I decided to bounce it along the walk and have it bounce up to the pin. It worked. You need breaks like that on this course or you simply can't win. It's too big," Lema said.

Lema said it was the finest golf he has ever played on the vast 7,165-yard Firestone Course with a par of 35-35—70.

Lema, who has earned $72,555 on the official list and ranks third this year in winnings, kidded Palmer and said "I think I'll buy Arne's airplane."

"When Uncle Sam gets through with you buddy," said Palmer, "you might just have to come to ol Arnie and borrow a little."

"That's okay," countered Lema who says he ranks first on the money spending list, "I just want to see it go through my fingers."

Lema felt a victory in the World Series should carry some significance other than just a large chunk of money. He said he felt the defending champion should have a right to return and Palmer agreed, adding "and they should start that in 1966."

Four AFL Games Bring Record Breaking Crowds

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The American Football League has opened its fifth season with the emphasis on attendance, the spotlight on Buffalo and the big question mark still surrounding Billy Cannon.

The major development of the four-game program was the record crowd of 44,497 as the New York Jets made an artistic and financially successful debut in Shea Stadium by walloping Denver 30-6.

The turnout was more than twice as large as any other ever to see the Jets in New York, exceeded the crowds at all but two of the National League's seven openers and pulled the AFL to a record attendance of 118,412 for its opening program.

Elsewhere, Buffalo's Bills won an opener for the first time in their history by crushing Kansas City 34-17, the Boston Patriots edged Oakland 17-14 as Cannon played a secondary role for the Raiders and the defending champion San Diego Chargers defeated the Houston Oilers 27-21.

The Jets got the job done early against the Broncos. Bill Baird intercepted a Jacky Lee pass on the second play from scrimmage, returned 24 yards to the 26 and three plays later New York had a touchdown on Dick Wood's 16-yard touchdown toss to Gene Heeter.

When Jim Turner kicked the conversion for a 7-0 lead, only 3:04 had elapsed, but the Broncos already had too many points to make up.

The Jets' attendance exceeded the previous record of 38,592 for the San Diego at Buffalo game in 1963 and topped the Jets' previous best of 20,377 vs. Denver at the Polo Grounds last year.

Bills' quarterback Jackie Kemp fired 17 and 10 yard scoring passes to Glenn Bass and hit El Dubenion with a six-yarder in the first quarter against the Chiefs while Tom Sestak ran an interception back 15 yards for a score and Pete Gogolak kicked two field goals and four extra points.

Bass, who was cut last year by the Bills after he was their No. 1 receiver in 1962, made good his return by pulling in five passes in all for 98 yards.

The Patriots, defending Eastern champions but losers of all five exhibition games, moved ahead to stay in the second half when Babe Parilli hit Tony Romeo with a 19-yard touchdown pass and shot a 72-yarder to Art Graham. Gino Cappelletti's 48-yard field goal provided the winning points.

Cannon, meanwhile, was used sparingly by his new Raider teammates, running back three kickoffs for 66 yards before getting in for three carries in the fourth quarter and gaining 25 yards.

Oakland's Clem Daniels, the league rushing champion, was held to minus one-yard in 14 tries by the rugged Patriot defense.

Veteran quarterback Tobin Rote pulled the Chargers out of danger in the second half against the Oilers, hitting Don Norton with a 19-yard TD pitch before winding up with a 27-yarder to Lance Alworth.

Houston quarterback George Blanda completed 29 passes — 13 to rookie Sid Blanks, who tied the league record for receptions. Blanks gained 131 yards on the passes and added another 53 yards rushing.

Pirates' Defense Halts Buffs

Punt Return Provides 7-0 Win

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

DENVER — For a while Sunday afternoon, it seemed that the explosive toe of Machebeuf quarterback Jay Lombardi was destined to boot St. Mary's into an opening game defeat as the Pirates and Buffs launched the 1964 Denver Parochial League campaign at Regis Stadium.

By mid-afternoon, however, Chuck Haering's Bucs were ready to bus back to their Colorado Springs headquarters with a clutch 7-0 triumph — and it had been a Lombardi kick that provided the opportunity!

The victory shot the Pirates straight into the thick of this fall's title scrap in the DPL, by removing one of the schedule's more stubborn obstacles. Hard-nosed Machebeuf figures to be a spoiler at the very least, and the Bucs definitely have one of their more stern tests behind them following Sunday's successful venture.

The triumph was provided by four quarters of rock-hard defense, plus the few seconds required for the necessary offensive gesture. Chris White, a stubby 150 pound slotback, contributed the latter by gathering in a Lombardi punt at his own 28 yard line and soaring down the sidelines on a 72 yard touchdown trip with 1:28 remaining in the first half.

It was a strange twist of fate for the Buffaloes, who had been prospering on the lengthy missiles fired off the Lombardi toe up to that point. The Machebeuf signal-caller had a 41.3 average for four kicks and his first two had kept the Pirates jammed into poor field position the majority of the first half. His first effort came with the Buffs stalled at midfield halfway through the first quarter and it squirted out of bounds one-foot short of the St. Mary's goal line.

It was the third kick, another 40 yard boomer, that White turned into the victory romp. Pulling it in at his own 28, he juggled the ball just long enough for the Machebeuf coverage to over-commit itself and then swung left down the alley the Pirates blockers had constructed and sped untouched to the goal. LeRoy Eckoff added the extra point.

Although that contribution was vital, it was the work of the St. Mary's defense that really turned the trick Sunday. For the second straight weekend the Pirates' sturdy forwards smothered an opponent's ground game — and this time it was a really thorough job.

Over the four quarters, Machebeuf managed just a single first down over the land route and finished the afternoon with a net of 18 yards from scrimmage. This meager total was compensated by 118 yards through the air lanes ,with Lombardi completing five of 11 passes for the majority of that output. However, the Bucs also picked off three stray Machebeuf aerials and that removed much of the threat from the passing game.

Meanwhile, the Pirates stayed primarily on the ground, rolling up a net of 143 yards rushing. They missed on all four pass attempts. Top producer was tiny Gary Dobson who squirmed through the Machebeuf defenses for 8 yards in 15 carries. Sam Zavatti added 48, and White another 36.

The Buffs had a pair of scoring opportunities, both as the result of quick strikes through the air. On the first play from scrimmage, halfback Mike Freeman hit Ed Mizicko with a running pass that carried for 38 yards to the St. Mary's 23. There, with the aid of a break-through by guard Mark Vandenburg who threw Freeman for a 13 yard loss, the Pirate line applied the brakes.

The second opportunity came late in the third period when Lombardi dropped back from his own 34 and floated a screen pass into the left flat. Freeman, who looked like a juggler on roller skates as he tipped the ball at least a half-dozen times, finally found a handle and took off for the St. Mary's goal. Eckhoff, with a fine tackle, yanked him down from behind at the 20, however, and after driving to the Pirates' nine, Machebeuf fumbled the ball away.

After the Pirates worked into field position early in the second period, they controlled the ball the majority of the way. They were in Machebeuf territory several times but penalties and the tough Buff line smashed down each threat.

Other Sunday results saw Mullen down Cathedral 21-0, Holy Family whip Annunciation 19-6, and St. Joseph's pound Mt. Carmel, 39-0. The Pirates return to Denver next Sunday to meet Mt. Carmel at 1 p.m. at Regis Stadium.

National Amateur Golf Begins

CLEVELAND (AP) — Just a few miles up Ohio Route 8 from Akron, where Tony Lema won $50,000 Sunday for 36 holes of World Series Golf, 150 amateurs launched a 180-hole, week-long grind Monday for which the winner will not get a dime.

The play-for-fun group, survivors of a nationwide entry of 1,575 whittled down in regional qualifiers, teed off in the first half of a 36-hole stroke test to determine 63 match play contestants in the 64th National Amateur Championship.

Second round of the qualifier is scheduled Tuesday over Canterbury Golf Club's 6,863-yard, par 71 course. The low 63 will join Deane Beaman, 1960 and 1963 champion from Washington, D.C., in man-to-man matches Wednesday through Saturday.

Of the 150 entrants, 55 are making their first bid for the amateur title and 51 are in for the second straight year. Included are 13 former Walker Cup players.

Ramos Strengthens Yankee Bullpen With Two-Hit Job

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

When he came to the New York Yankees last week, Pedro Ramos brought along his wide-brimmed stetson hats, black shirts with white mother of pearl buttons and tight black cowboy pants.

The 29-year-old Cuban allowed only two hits in five innings of relief Sunday as the New York Yankees defeated Minnesota 5-2 and slipped into second place, one game behind Baltimore in the searing American League pennant chase.

The Yankees acquired Ramos from Cleveland, hoping he could help their floundering bullpen staff.

With the Indians, the right-hander compiled a 7-10 record with a poor 5.14 earned run average, splitting his time evenly between starting and relieving.

His performance Sunday, though, indicated Ramos could fulfill the Yankees' wish of finding an effective reliever and help fulfill another wish — getting into the World Series for a record-tying fifth consecutive year.

The 10-year veteran has permitted just two runs in 9 1-3 innings of relief with New York He was called on for his fourth appearance in eight games when starter Whitey Ford was forced to leave the game after four innings.

Ramos gave up only a leadoff triple to Jimmie Hall in the seventh inning and a single to Hall in the ninth. Hall scored in the seventh on Earl Battey's sacrifice fly.

Elsewhere in the AL Sunday, Kansas City trimmed Baltimore 7-5, Cleveland nipped Chicago 5-4, Boston edged Los Angeles 4-3 and Washington whipped Detroit 5-1.

Ford had to leave the game because of a contusion of his right heel suffered when he landed on first base in beating out an infield single in the second inning. Pepitone drove in three of New York's runs with a two-run homer in the second inning and a single in the third.

A run-scoring single by the Athletics' Bert Campaneris in the fifth inning snapped a 5-5 deadlock. Baltimore reliever Chuck Estrada walked two batters prior to the hit. Ed Charles knocked in four runs with two doubles while Rocky Colavito belted his 33rd homer.

The White Sox tumbled into third place, 1½ games behind Baltimore with their fifth loss in the last seven games.

Luis Tiant won his eighth game against two defeats, helping his own cause by driving in the decisive run with a sixth-inning single. Chicago fought back with two runs in the seventh on a walk, Mike Hershberger's double, an infield out and a single by Floyd Robinson.

Dick Radatz won his 15th game against eight losses, making his 73rd appearance of the season, one short of the major league record.

The Angels tied the game 3-3 in the ninth inning on a two-out, run-producing single by Jack Hiatt, but the Red Sox won in their ninth as pinch hitter Dalton Jones drove in Ed Bressoud with a single.

Don Lock unloaded a pair of bases-empty homers and Don Zimmer stroked four hits, helping the Senators' Claude Osteen to his 14th triumph in 25 decisions. Osteen limited the Tigers to five hits.

Australia Breezy, U.S. Uneasy About Cup Matches

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — It's fun and relaxation for the confident Australians and hard work for the edgy Americans going into the final two-week training period for the Davis Cup Challenge Round.

"We'll take it easy for a few days — swim, play golf and just loaf in the sun," the foxy captain to the Aussies, Harry Hopcan, said today. "Our boys have had enough tennis for a while.

"We'll get to Cleveland about Thursday. That will be plenty of time."

The Chalenge Round is scheduled Sept. 25-27, with the United States defending the silver trophy wrested from the Australians last year in Adelaide.

Prospects of keeping the Cup here don't seem bright.

Roy Emerson and Fred Stolle, the Aussies' two top men, defeated America's best, Chuck McKinley and Dennis Ralston, and played the seventh all-Australian men's final in nine years Sunday in the National Tennis Championships.

Emerson, previous winner of the Australian and Wimbledon crowns, looked almost unbeatable as he smashed his teammate in straight sets.

Hopman said the Australians would go to Westchester Country Club in Rye, N.Y., for the next few days, playing very little tennis.

HORNUNG HARD TO HANDLE — Halfback Paul Hornung (5) of the Green Bay Packers seemed to have trouble Sunday as his hand was pinned to his thigh by a tackle by Bennie McRae of the Chicago Bears at Green Bay. Hornung brushed McRae and several others aside as he picked up 41 yards on the third quarter run. Packer Boyd Dowler (36) pushed McRae as Doug Atkins (31) of the Bears leaped at right. The Packers won 23-12. (Associated Press Wirephoto)

College Football Campaign Gets Into Full Swing; Upsets Are Forecast

By HUGH FULLERTON Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

College football had its first upset almost before the 1964 season began — the UCLA victory over Pitt, 17-12, last Saturday. You can expect more of the same next weekend when almost everybody gets into the act. That is if anything can be called an upset at this stage.

There's a note of uncertainty in the preparations almost everywhere in this year of returning platoons and even the big teams that have been awarded the top places in the pre-season ratings aren't exempt.

Coaches who recruited players a couple of years ago with the idea they'd have to play both offense and defense now are trying to get set with two of three line-ups to operate effectively under 1964 rules. Anyhing could happen.

The sports writers and broadcasters composing The Associated Press football panel voted the top places to Mississippi and Oklahoma in the annual pre-season poll. It was a close vote for first with Illinois, Texas, Ohio State, Alabama, Washington, Auburn, Syracuse and Navy trailing along to complete the top ten.

Eight of these teams swing into action Saturday and it would hardly be a stunning surprise if half of them were beaten. Illinois and Ohio State are safe because they don't play until a week later.

The UCLA-Pitt game, scheduled early to give the national television audience a preview of what's to come, proved a good indicator. Pitt was favored mostly because of last year's No. 4 rating and a fine quarterback, Fred Mazurek. But the UCLA quarterback, Larry Zeno, got more help, more points and more headlines than Mazurek.

Pitt was known to have some weak spots because of losses through graduation. Zeno and his mates exploited every one of them to become the first West Coast team to win a game in Pitt Stadium. Zeno passed to Steve Durbin and Dick Witcher for two touchdowns and kicked a 25-yard field goal and two extra points.

In other games on last Saturday's brief program Houston tuned up for its coming contest with Auburn by stomping Trinity of Texas 34-7; Furman- a Southern Conference member, barely got past Mississippi College 13-10 and East Carolina, a new Southern member, whipped Catawba 25-0.

Southern California, one of the top teams in the enlarged Athletic Association of Western Universities, opens this week's program with a Friday night game against Colorado.

Mississippi starts off Saturday against Memphis State. But the really unpredictable games pit Oklahoma against Maryland, Alabama against Georgia, Washington against Air Force and Navy against Penn State.

Gomer Jones, long-time aide of Bud Wilkinson, now is in command of Oklahoma's well-manned team and he'd better be expecting some surprises from Maryland, whose coach, Tom Nugent, specializes in such things. Vince Dooley sends his first team against Alabama, hoping to find some way to stop quarterback Joe Namath.

Washington opens against an Air Force team which still has most of the manpower that took it to the Gator Bowl last season. Navy, with All-American quarterback Roger Staubach back for his last season, faces a Penn State team that could be one of the best in the East.

Texas, No. 1 last year but No. 4 in the pre-season ratings despite a raft of returning lettermen, shouldn't have trouble in a Saturday night opener against Tulane. Auburn should have a good edge over Houston and Syracuse- making a last-minute switch to platooning, looks too strong for Boston College.

North Carolina and North Carolina State, co-champions of the Atlantic Coast Conference last season, clash in an unusual season opener.

In the East and Midwest, where a lot of teams don't start until later, the schedule is short while most of the major Southwestern teams play away from home.

Its' a regional television date with the Navy-Penn State, SMU-Florida, Kansts State-Wisconsin and Stanford-Washington State games going on the air.

Miss McIntre Leads U.S. To British Amateur Fight

By JOHN FARROW
Associated Press Sports Writer

PORTHCAWL, Waes, (AP) — Barbara McIntire and five other U.S. Curtis Cup golfers left today with the cup safely in their keeping and headed for Sandwich on the English south coast to prepare for next week's British Women's Ahateur Championship.

The American girls retained the cup by 10½-7½ points in the two-day match with a strong Britain team on the Royal Porthcawl links Saturday.

The only American Curtis Cupper who is not entered for the championship is JoAnne Gunderson of Seattle, Wash. She had to return home for business reasons.

Miss McIntire, 29-year-old American amateur champion from Colorado Springs, Colo., is trying to become the first girl ever to complete a unique double — winner of both titles in two different years.

Barbara won both the American and British crowns in 1960, the last time the Curtis Cup was played in Britain. She already has won the U.S. title and is rated among the favorites for the British Championship Sept. 22-25.

Peggy Conley, a 17-year-old from Spokane, Wash., created a big impression in the Curtis Cup matches and many think she is capable of g the British title.

Peggy, youngest girl ever to play in a Curtis Cup match, produced some fine golf at Porthcawl and won both her singles matches on the last green.

The other Americans in the championship are Phyllis Ann Preuss of Pompano Beach, Fla.; Nancy Roth of Hollywood, Fla.; Carol Sorenson of Janesville, Wis., and Barbara Fay White of Shreveport, La.

The average age of the American Curtis Cup team is 23, the youngest U.S. team ever to play in the 32-year-old competition.

"I'm just delighted with the way the girls played," Mrs. Theodore Hawes of Summit, N.J., non-playing captain of the American team said. "We gambled in picking such a young team. But the gamble paid off handsomely."

'Clive's Sugar' to Attempt RMKC Feature Race Win

Tonight's feature race sees Clive's Sugar, from the Oscar Evers Kennel, making a try in the Grade A competition after winning the eighth race last Friday on the Rocky Mountain Kennel Club's Peak Course of 1,710 feet. Her win on Friday was in a grade B event with pay-offs of $10.20, $5.20 and $4.00 as she orbited the oval in a time of 30.97. Her competition on the silk tonight will be Mr. Kookie, T. V. Nick Mike, Guy's Son, Silk Angel, Sonic Sue, Doc Robbie and Weary Me.

Key Punch and Sunbrook made the 4-5 in the 10th and it was up to Sunbrook and Miss La Jeana in the 11th to make the 1-8 for the Twin Quin to come up with its third four-figure pay-off of the week Saturday night.

Bunning Moving Nearer To 20-Victory Season

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Jim Bunning, Philadelphia's ace right-hander, is three steps away from a rare pitching double that hasn't been accomplished in 40 years.

Bunning, who earlier this season pitched a perfect game, posted his 17th victory Sunday in the National League leaders' 4-1, 10-inning triumph over San Francisco and took another giant stride toward becoming a 20-game winner in each league.

Only nine pitchers in major league history ever have posted 20 victories in both the National and American leagues, among them Cy Young, Jack Chesbro and Joe McGinnity. Bunning, however, could become the first since Carl Mays in 1924.

Mays, a submarine specialist, won 20 games in the AL with Boston in 1917 and 1918 and with the New York Yankees in 1920 and 1921 before switching to the National League and becoming a 20-game winner with Cincinnati.

Bunning, who won 20 games with Detroit in 1957, likely will make four or five more starts in the Phillies' final 19 games. He checked the Giants on seven hits, bringing his record to 17-4 — best in the majors on a percentage basis.

Bunning's pitching and a three-run 10th built on Tony Taylor's double, a single by Johnny Callison and Richie Allen's homer kept the Phillies' bulge at six games over the second-place St. Louis Cardinals.

Walloping the Chicago Cubs 15-2, the Cardinals became only the second team in modern major league history to score in every one of nine innings. The New York Giants did it against Philadelphia in 1923.

Elsewhere, Cincinnati remained seven games back by bombing Warren Spahn and Milwaukee 9-2, Don Drysdale won his 18th game as the Los Angeles Dodgers edged the Nw York Mets 5-4 and Pittsburgh blanked Houston 3-0.

Bunning struck out seven Giants, raising his season total to 201 while lowering his earned run average to 2.23.

The Cardinals rapped 18 hits while the Cubs contributed seven errors to their downfall. Dick Groat lashed four hits, driving in three runs, while Mike Shannon knocked in four runs. Shannon, Julian Javier and Lou Brock homered in support of Curt Simmons' 15th victory against nine defeats.

Tommy Harper tracked a two-run homer and Vada Pinson connected with none on as the Reds halted Milwaukee's six-game winning streak.

Ramos Strengthens Yankee Bullpen With Two-Hit Job

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

When he came to the New York Yankees last week, Pedro Ramos brought along his wide-brimmed stetson hats, black shirts with white mother of pearl buttons and tight black cowboy pants.

The 29-year-old Cuban allowed only two hits in five innings of relief Sunday as the New York Yankees defeated Minnesota 5-2 and slipped into second place, one game behind Baltimore in the searing American League pennant chase.

The Yankees acquired Ramos from Cleveland, hoping he could help their floundering bullpen staff.

With the Indians, the right-hander compiled a 7-10 record with a poor 5.14 earned run average, splitting his time evenly between starting and relieving.

His performance Sunday, though, indicated Ramos could fulfill the Yankees' wish of finding an effective reliever and help fulfill another wish — getting into the World Series for a record-tying fifth consecutive year.

The 10-year veteran has permitted just two runs in 9 1-3 innings of relief with New York He was called on for his fourth appearance in eight games when starter Whitey Ford was forced to leave the game after four innings.

Ramos gave up only a leadoff triple to Jimmie Hall in the seventh inning and a single to Hall in the ninth. Hall scored in the seventh on Earl Battey's sacrifice fly.

Elsewhere in the AL Sunday, Kansas City trimmed Baltimore 7-5, Cleveland nipped Chicago 5-4, Boston edged Los Angeles 4-3 and Washington whipped Detroit 5-1.

Ford had to leave the game because of a contusion of his right heel suffered when he landed on first base in beating out an infield single in the second inning. Pepitone drove in three of New York's runs with a two-run homer in the second inning and a single in the third.

A run-scoring single by the Athletics' Bert Campaneris in the fifth inning snapped a 5-5 deadlock. Baltimore reliever Chuck Estrada walked two batters prior to the hit. Ed Charles knocked in four runs with two doubles while Rocky Colavito belted his 33rd homer.

The White Sox tumbled into third place, 1½ games behind Baltimore with their fifth loss in the last seven games.

Luis Tiant won his eighth game against two defeats, helping his own cause by driving in the decisive run with a sixth-inning single. Chicago fought back with two runs in the seventh on a walk, Mike Hershberger's double, an infield out and a single by Floyd Robinson.

Dick Radatz won his 15th game against eight losses, making his 73rd appearance of the season, one short of the major league record.

The Angels tied the game 3-3 in the ninth inning on a two-out, run-producing single by Jack Hiatt, but the Red Sox won in their ninth as pinch hitter Dalton Jones drove in Ed Bressoud with a single.

Don Lock unloaded a pair of bases-empty homers and Don Zimmer stroked four hits, helping the Senators' Claude Osteen to his 14th triumph in 25 decisions. Osteen limited the Tigers to five hits.

Australia Breezy, U.S. Uneasy About Cup Matches

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — It's fun and relaxation for the confident Australians and hard work for the edgy Americans going into the final two-week training period for the Davis Cup Challenge Round.

"We'll take it easy for a few days — swim, play golf and just loaf in the sun," the foxy captain to the Aussies, Harry Hopcan, said today. "Our boys have had enough tennis for a while.

"We'll get to Cleveland about Thursday. That will be plenty of time."

The Chalenge Round is scheduled Sept. 25-27, with the United States defending the silver trophy wrested from the Australians last year in Adelaide.

Prospects of keeping the Cup here don't seem bright.

Roy Emerson and Fred Stolle, the Aussies' two top men, defeated America's best, Chuck McKinley and Dennis Ralston, and played the seventh all-Australian men's final in nine years Sunday in the National Tennis Championships.

Emerson, previous winner of the Australian and Wimbledon crowns, looked almost unbeatable as he smashed his teammate in straight sets.

Hopman said the Australians would go to Westchester Country Club in Rye, N.Y., for the next few days, playing very little tennis.

HORNUNG HARD TO HANDLE — Halfback Paul Hornung (5) of the Green Bay Packers seemed to have trouble Sunday as his hand was pinned to his thigh by a tackle by Bennie MeRae of the Chicago Bears at Green Bay. Hornung brushed McRae and several others aside as he picked up 41 yards on the third quarter run. Packer Boyd Dowler (36) pushed McRae as Doug Atkins (31) of the Bears leaped at right. The Packers won 23-12. (Associated Press Wirephoto)

College Football Campaign Gets Into Full Swing; Upsets Are Forecast

By HUGH FULLERTON Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

College football had its first upset almost before the 1964 season began — the UCLA victory over Pitt, 17-12, last Saturday. You can expect more of the same next weekend when almost everybody gets into the act. That is if anything can be called an upset at this stage.

There's a note of uncertainty in the preparations almost everywhere in this year of returning platoons and even the big teams that have been awarded the top places in the pre-season ratings aren't exempt.

Coaches who recruited players a couple of years ago with the idea they'd have to play both offense and defense now are trying to get set with two of three line-ups to operate effectively under 1964 rules. Anyhing could happen.

The sports writers and broadcasters composing The Associated Press football panel voted the top places to Mississippi and Oklahoma in the annual pre-season poll. It was a close vote for first with Illinois, Texas, Ohio State, Alabama, Washington, Auburn, Syracuse and Navy trailing along to complete the top ten.

Eight of these teams swing into action Saturday and it would hardly be a stunning surprise if half of them were beaten. Illinois and Ohio State are safe because they don't play until a week later.

The UCLA-Pitt game, scheduled early to give the national television audience a preview of what's to come, proved a good indicator. Pitt was favored mostly because of last year's No. 4 rating and a fine quarterback, Fred Mazurek, But the UCLA quarterback, Larry Zeno, got more help, more points and more headlines than Mazurek.

Pitt was known to have some weak spots because of losses through graduation. Zeno and his mates exploited every one of them to become the first West Coast team to win a game in Pitt Stadium. Zeno passed to Steve Durbin and Dick Wichter for two touchdowns and kicked a 25-yard field goal and two extra points.

In other games on last Saturday's brief program Houston tuned up for its coming contest with Auburn by stomping Trinity of Texas 34-7; Furman- a Southern Conference member, barely got past Mississippi College 13-10 and East Carolina, a new Southern member, whipped Catawba 25-0.

Southern California, one of the top teams in the enlarged Athletic Association of Western Universities, opens this week's program with a Friday night game against Colorado.

Mississippi starts off Saturday against Memphis State. But the really unpredictable games pit Oklahoma against Maryland, Alabama against Georgia, Washington against Air Force and Navy against Penn State.

Gomer Jones, long-time aide of Bud Wilkinson, now is in command of Oklahoma's well-manned team and he'd better be expecting some surprises from Maryland, whose coach, Tom Nugent, specializes in such things. Vince Dooley sends his first team against Alabama, hoping to find some way to stop quarterback Joe Namath.

Washington opens against an Air Force team which still has most of the manpower that took it to the Gator Bowl last season. Navy, with All-American quarterback Roger Staubach back for his last season, faces a Penn State team that could be one of the best in the East.

Texas, No. 1 last year but No. 4 in the pre-season ratings despite a raft of returning lettermen, shouldn't have trouble in a Saturday night opener against Tulane. Auburn should have a good edge over Houston and Syracuse making a last-minute switch to platooning, looks too strong for Boston College.

North Carolina and North Carolina State, co-champions of the Atlantic Coast Conference last season, clash in an unusual season opener.

In the East and Midwest, where a lot of teams don't start until later, the schedule is short while most of the major Southwestern teams play away from home.

Its' a regional television date with the Navy-Penn State, SMU-Florida, Kansts State-Wisconsin and Stanford-Washington State games going on the air.

COLLEGE RANKINGS

The top ten teams in the Associated Press pre-season poll (first place votes in parentheses):

Miss McIntre Leads U.S. To British Amateur Fight

By JOHN FARROW
Associated Press Sports Writer

PORTHCAWL, Waes, (AP) — Barbara McIntire and five other U.S. Curtis Cup golfers left today with the cup safely in their keeping and headed for Sandwich on the English south coast to prepare for next week's British Women's Ahateur Championship.

The American girls retained the cup by 10½-7½ points in the two-day match with a strong Britain team on the Royal Porthcawl links Saturday.

The only American Curtis Cupper who is not entered for the championship is JoAnne Gunderson of Seattle, Wash. She had to return home for business reasons.

Miss McIntire, 29-year-old American amateur champion from Colorado Springs, Colo., is trying to become the first girl ever to complete a unique double — winner of both titles in two different years.

Barbara won both the American and British crowns in 1960, the last time the Curtis Cup was played in Britain. She already has won the U.S. title and is rated among the favorites for the British Championship Sept. 22-25.

Peggy Conley, a 17-year-old from Spokane, Wash., created a big impression in the Curtis Cup matches and many think she is capable of g the British title.

Peggy, youngest girl ever to play in a Curtis Cup match, produced some fine golf at Porthcawl and won both her singles matches on the last green.

The other Americans in the championship are Phyllis Ann Preuss of Pompano Beach, Fla.; Nancy Roth of Hollywood, Fla.; Carol Sorenson of Janesville, Wis., and Barbara Fay White of Shreveport, La.

The average age of the American Curtis Cup team is 23, the youngest U.S. team ever to play in the 32-year-old competition.

"I'm just delighted with the way the girls played," Mrs. Theodore Hawes of Summit, N.J., non-playing captain of the American team said. "We gambled in picking such a young team. But the gamble paid off handsomely."

'Clive's Sugar' to Attempt RMKC Feature Race Win

Tonight's feature race sees Clive's Sugar, from the Oscar Evers Kennel, making a try in the Grade A competition after winning the eighth race last Friday on the Rocky Mountain Kennel Club's Peak Course of 1,710 feet. Her win on Friday was in a grade B event with pay-offs of $10.20, $5.20 and $4.00 as she orbited the oval in a time of 32.87. Her companions on the silt tonight will be Mr. Kookie, T. V. Nick Miku, Gay's Son, Silk Angel, Sonic Sue, Doc Robbie and Weary Me.

Key Punch and Brookton made the 4-5 in the 10th and it was up to Sunbrook and Miss La Juana in the 11th to make the 1-8 for the Twin Quin to come up with its third four-figure pay-off of the week Saturday night.

Several fans divided the pool as they made $1,302.40 collections on their 4-5 with the 1-8 Twin Quin tickets. This was the third time within the week that the pay-off had in four digits. Tuesday night saw the 2-3 with the 1-2 pay $4,205.80 for the second highest pay-off of the meet and hardly had the ink dried on the record books than a new second high for the meet came along with the 4-6 with the 1-7 pay-off on Wednesday being $4,856.80. High for the meet is the $7,565 paid two weeks ago Saturday night.

For the first 18 nights of the meet, the report of kennel standings shows Larry Hughes, Frank Pierce and Cecil Wilson in the top three slots. Hughes has 16 wins, 15 place finishes and 18 shows while Frank F. Pierce tallies 19-11-7. Cecil W. Wilsons third place standing comes from 10 tallies in the win column and 15 each in the place and show columns.

Boxing Returns To Non-TV Slate For This Week

By The Associated Press

Boxing returns this week to the pre-television era whereby the fan will have to pay to watch fights and the fighters will have to provide action to attract the fans.

The last of the network fight shows, the Friday night Fight of the Week bowed out last week after a 20-year run.

So now boxing, minus the big names of the pre-television era, begins the great experiment. The dwindling band of promoters will have to build up name fighters who can lure the fans back to the almost forgotten custom of paying to see fights.

The main event fighters, long accustomed to collecting $4,000 and up from the television money, now will have to get used to pay days based on their drawing power. There may be a long period of anemia ahead for most.

Bunning Moving Nearer To 20-Victory Season

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Jim Bunning, Philadelphia's ace right-hander, is three steps away from a rare pitching double that hasn't been accomplished in 40 years.

Bunning, who earlier this season pitched a perfect game, posted his 17th victory Sunday in the National League leaders' 4-1, 10-inning triumph over San Francisco and took another giant stride toward becoming a 20-game winner in each league.

Only nine pitchers in major league history ever have posted 20 victories in both the National and American leagues, among them Cy Young, Jack Chesbro and Joe McGinnity. Bunning, however, could become the first since Carl Mays in 1924.

Mays, a submarine specialist, won 20 games in the AL with Boston in 1917 and 1918 and with the New York Yankees in 1920 and 1921 before switching to the National League and becoming a 20-game winner with Cincinnati.

Bunning, who won 20 games with Detroit in 1957, likely will make four or five more starts in the Phillies' final 19 games. He checked the Giants on seven hits, bringing his record to 17-4 — best in the majors on a percentage basis.

Bunning's pitching and a three-run 10th built on Tony Taylor's double, a single by Johnny Callison and Richie Allen's homer kept the Phillies' bulge at six games over the second-place St. Louis Cardinals.

Walloping the Chicago Cubs 15-2, the Cardinals became only the second team in modern major league history to score in every one of nine innings. The New York Giants did it against Philadelphia in 1923.

Elsewhere, Cincinnati remained seven games back by bombing Warren Spahn and Milwaukee 9-2, Don Drysdale won his 18th game as the Los Angeles Dodgers edged the Nw York Mets 5-4 and Pittsburgh blanked Houston 3-0.

Bunning struck out seven Giants, raising his season total to 201 while lowering his earned run average to 2.23.

The Cardinals rapped 18 hits while the Cubs contributed seven errors to their downfall. Dick Groat lashed four hits, driving in three runs, while Mike Shannon knocked in four runs. Shannon, Julian Javier and Lou Brock homered in support of Curt Simmons' 15th victory against nine defeats.

Tommy Harper tracked a two-run homer and Vada Pinson connected with none on as the Reds halted Milwaukee's six-game winning streak.

Benefit Race Sunday At Sportsman's Oval

Before some 1,200 stunned spectators at the weekly auto races at Sportsman's Raceway Park Saturday night, 25-year-old flagman Bob Clothier of Colorado Springs was fatally injured when he was run over by an out-of-control modified stock car.

The accident occurred on the last lap of a modified heat race, when two cars driven by Denver drivers Bart Manley and Bob Harrington collided on the last turn of the race.

Harrington's car spun down onto the first infield and slid sideways across the flagstand knocking Clother to the ground and running completely over him. As Harrington's car was sliding towards the flagstand, assistant flagman Bob Vise made a dash for a concrete retaining wall, but Clothier held his ground, apparently waiting to see if Harrington would regain control of his auto and return to the track. Clothers apparent hesitation cost him his life as Harrington was sliding too fast to stop.

Despite frantic efforts by doctors at a local hospital, Clothier died of severe head injures at 10:05 p.m., just a half hour after being struck.

Several cars and drivers made their first appearance of the season at the local quarter mile oval Saturday night, with most of the new cars coming from Denver and Pueblo. In all, over 40 racing cars were timed in, with 12 cars starting the modified main event, and 15 taking the green flag for the late model finale.

Lakeside's Sammy Sauer won the modified trophy dash by a car length over Bob Moberly, and Mike Wooley in his 317 cubic inch powered 1955 Chev won the late model dash over 1957 Ford.

Dale DeWitt, the current high point driver at Sportsman's, won the ill-fated modified heat race over runner-ups Moberly, Sauer, Harrington and Manley.

DeWitt was leading the modified main event until car trouble forced him to the infield, at which point Moberly took over the lead. The smooth-running Moberly held off a last minute challenge by Sauer to win the 20-lap affair by less than a wheel legnth at the checkered flag.

Racing at Sportsman's will move to Sunday afternoons this week, with time trials starting at 1 p.m., and the first trophy dashes getting underway at 2 p.m.

Also this Sunday, a benefit race will be held for the fatally injured Clothier, along with the regular nine event program.

Mary Mills Wins Eugene Golf Tourney

EUGENE Ore. (AP)—The Eugene Women's Open Golf Tournament was won Sunday by Mary Mills of Ocean Springs, Miss., who shot a record 280 in the 72-hole event.

Miss Mills took the lead after the first 18 holes of the $10,000 tournament, and never was headed. She set a record in the second round when she shot a four-under-par 68.

First prize was $1,350, which raised Miss Mills' winnings for the year to $8,413. She is 10th anong women golfers.

She broke the former record of 289 at the Eugene Country Club. That mark was established by Shirley Englehorn in 1962. Miss Englehorn tied for third this year with a score of 283.

Marilynn Smith, last year's Eugene winner, finished in seventh place with a 287.

Buffs Inaugurate Big 8 Season Friday at USC

By United Press International

The Colorado Buffaloes draw the starting assignment of the 1964 Big Eight football season Friday night at Los Angeles against a tough Southern California foe while the other seven league clubs inaugurate their initial kickoffs Saturday.

Pre - season title favorite Oklahoma, under new head coach Gomer Jones will travel to Maryland; Missouri meets California at Berkeley; Kansas State is on the road against Wisconsin and Oklahoma State tangles with Arkansas at Little Rock.

Only Kansas and defending champion Nebraska play home openers. The Jayhawkers entertain Texas Christian and the Cornhuskers host South Dakota.

Southern Cal spoiled Eddie Crowder's coaching debut last season with a 14-0 victory in the season opener at Boulder.

The Buffaloes, rebounding from a 2-8 overall season, are expected to be in for another long afternoon against coach John McKay's Trojans.

Crowder's club is improved but USC, 7-3 last season, is expected to take advantage of the Buffs' inexperienced sophomores despite the loss of several top Trojan stars through graduation.

Jones, who served as line coach for 17 years in the shadow of his predecessor Bud Wilkinson, is expected to launch his collegiate head coaching career with a bang when the Sooners tangle with the Maryland Terrapins at College Park, Md.

Led by fullback Jim Grisham and tackle Ralph Neely, with with Mike Ringer at quarterback, the powerful sooners are too experienced for the Terps who finished 3-7 overall in 1963.

The last time the Sooners and Maryland clashed, in the 1956 Orange Bowl, Oklahoma rolled to a 20-6 victory and the Sooners could pile it on even more Saturday.

Dan Devine takes his already injury - riddled Missouri Tigers to the West Coast to meet a much improved California club and play a rematch of a 1962 opener which Missouri won 21-10.

Halfback Johnny Roland, who as a sophomore scored all three Tiger touchdowns (tying a school record) and rushed for 171 yards in that game, is back after a year layoff.

The Bengals, with a top backfield corps, rate the slight edge to snap the series that stands 1-1-1, but the Golden Bears have 31 lettermen ready to give Missouri a tough afternoon.

Kansas State and Okalhoma State will have to overcome heavy odds to escape with Saturday victories.

The Wildcats one - game winning streak, a thumping 21-10 win over Iowa State in the 1963 season final, is expected to snap against Wisconsin and Oklahoma State's many sophomores are expected to get a rought initiation against the Razorbacks in a night game.

At Lawrence, Kansas will shoot for revenge after TCU spoiled their '63 opener with a 10-6 victory and All - America halfback Gale Sayers is expected to climb up the ladder on the all - time conference rushing charts.

Seyers, who ranks ninth among all - time Big Eight ground gainers with 2,042 yards is only nine away from eighth place and 100 out of Billy Vessels (Oklahoma, 1950-'52) fifth place standing.

Coach Bob Devaney will launch his third season at Nebraska and his defending champion 'Huskers, despite heavy graduation losses, are expected to have an easy time with South Dakota at Lincoln.

The Cornhuskers, notorious for big opening day victories, romped past the Coyotes 53 - 0 in the '62 opener und hold a 12-1-2 series lead.

This weekend's schedule with 1963 overall records in parenthesis:

Friday Sept. 18 — Colorado (2-8) at Southern California (7-3) night.

Saturday, Sept. 19 — Oklahoma (8-2) at Maryland (3-7).

G — Missouri (7-3) at California (4-5-1).

— T. C. U. (4-5-1) at Kansas (5-5).

— South Dakota (1-7) at Nebraska (10-1).

— Kansas Staate (2-7) at Wisconsin (5-4).

— Oklahoma State (1-8) at Arkansas.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The first formally laid-out horse racing track in New York was completed in 1665, just 12 years after the city was founded.

Two World Records Fall During U.S. Olympic Trials

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — This country's track and field athletes broke two world records, equalled another, matched an American mark, bettered the Olympic record in nine events and — as expected — stamped the United States the team to beat in Tokyo.

These were some of the highlights of the two-day final trials which ended Sunday in Memorial Coliseum before a crowd of 18,981.

Rex Cawley bettered the world mark in the 400 meters with 49.1, and Saturday Ralph Boston broke the listed record of 27 feet 3¼ inches by Russia's Igor Ter-Ovanesyan with a leap of 27 feet 4¼ inches.

Boston also had a leap of 27-10¼ but it was wind-aided.

Sprinter Bob Hayes, back in winning from after nursing a leg injury, equalled the American 100-meter mark at 10.1, and 30-year-old Mike Larrabee, a California school teacher, matched the world standard of 44.9 in the 400 meters.

Young Gerry Lindgren of Spokane, Wash., running the 10,000 meters for only the third time in his life, defeated America's best in the fastest time by an American this year, 29:02.0.

The 1,500-meter battle of sub 4-minute milers Sunday was won by Oregon's Dyrol Burleson in 3:41.2 as he defeated Chicago's Tom O'Hara for the ninth time in their 10-race series.

Jim Ryun, at 17 the youngest athlete in the trials, beat out Jim Grelle for the third spot in the 1,500 meters as both were timed in 3:41.9.

The 5,000-meter grind ended in a pre-agreed dead heat between the favored Bob Schul & 30-year-old Bill Dellinger, who ended a four-year retirement this year to aim for the Olympic team. The time was 13:55.6.

As Dellinger successfully came back, little Jim Beatty's comeback ended in disappointment. He finished fifth.

Of the 69 athletes named for the 19 Olympic events, including two relay team members, no one made the roll in more than one event.

Hayes places third in the 200 meters but was replaced in this event by Henry Carr, who actually finished fourth after winning the first trials at Randall's Island in New York last month.

One New York winner, javelin thrower James Stevenson of the Baltimore Olympic Club, was bumped from the team. Stevenson had a series of poor throws and finished eighth with a best of 215-9½.

The decision by the U.S. Olympic track and field committee, chairman George Eastment said, was unanimous.

The existing Olympic records bettered were in 100, 200 and 400-meter dashes, the 400-meter hurdles, shot, discus and hammer, poie vault and broad jump.

Parry O'Brien, with a third place, made the Olympic track team for an unprecedented fourth time.

The Wildcats one - game winning streak, a thumping 21-10 win over Iowa State in the 1963 season final, is expected to snap against Wisconsin and Oklahoma State's many sophomores are expected to get a rought initiation against the Razorbacks in a night game.

At Lawrence, Kansas will shoot for revenge after TCU spoiled their '63 opener with a 10-6 victory and All - America halfback Gale Sayers is expected to climb up the ladder on the all - time conference rushing charts.

Seyers, who ranks ninth among all - time Big Eight ground gainers with 2,042 yards is only nine away from eighth place and 109 out of Billy Vessels (Oklahoma, 1950-'52) fifth place standing.

Coach Bob Devaney will launch his third season at Nebraska and his defending champion 'Huskers, despite heavy graduation losses, are expected to have an easy time with South Dakota at Lincoln.

The Cornhuskers, notorious for big opening day victories, romped past the Coyotes 53 - 0 in the '62 opener und hold a 12-1-2 series lead.

This weekend's schedule with 1963 overall records in parenthesis:

Friday Sept. 18 — Colorado (2-8) at Southern California (7-3) night.

Saturday, Sept. 19 — Oklahoma (8-2) at Maryland (3-7).

G — Missouri (7-3) at California (4-5-1).

— T. C. U. (4-5-1) at Kansas (5-5).

— South Dakota (1-7) at Nebraska (10-1).

— Kansas Staate (2-7) at Wisconsin (5-4).

— Oklahoma State (1-8) at Arkansas.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The first formally laid-out horse racing track in New York was completed in 1665, just 12 years after the city was founded.

Two World Records Fall During U.S. Olympic Trials

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — This country's track and field athletes broke two world records, equalled another, matched an American mark, bettered the Olympic record in nine events and — as expected — stamped the United States the team to beat in Tokyo.

These were some of the highlights of the two-day final trials which ended Sunday in Memorial Coliseum before a crowd of 18,981.

Rex Cawley bettered the world mark in the 400 meters with 49.1, and Saturday Ralph Boston broke the listed record of 27 feet 3¼ inches by Russia's Igor Ter-Ovanesyan with a leap of 27 feet 4¼ inches.

Boston also had a leap of 27-10¼ but it was wind-aided.

Sprinter Bob Hayes, back in winning from after nursing a leg injury, equalled the American 100-meter mark at 10.1, and 30-year-old Mike Larrabee, a California school teacher, matched the world standard of 44.9 in the 400 meters.

Young Gerry Lindgren of Spokane, Wash., running the 10,000 meters for only the third time in his life, defeated America's best in the fastest time by an American this year, 29:02.0.

The 1,500-meter battle of sub 4-minute milers Sunday was won by Oregon's Dyrol Burleson in 3:41.2 as he defeated Chicago's Tom O'Hara for the ninth time in their 10-race series.

Jim Ryun, at 17 the youngest athlete in the trials, beat out Jim Grelle for the third spot in the 1,500 meters as both were timed in 3:41.9.

The 5,000-meter grind ended in a pre-agreed dead heat between the favored Bob Schul & 30-year-old Bill Dellinger, who ended a four-year retirement this year to aim for the Olympic team. The time was 13:55.6.

As Dellinger successfully came back, little Jim Beatty's comeback ended in disappointment. He finished fifth.

Of the 69 athletes named for the 19 Olympic events, including two relay team members, no one made the roll in more than one event.

Hayes places third in the 200 meters but was replaced in this event by Henry Carr, who actually finished fourth after winning the first trials at Randall's Island in New York last month.

One New York winner, javelin thrower James Stevenson of the Baltimore Olympic Club, was bumped from the team. Stevenson had a series of poor throws and finished eighth with a best of 215-9½.

The decision by the U.S. Olympic track and field committee, chairman George Eastment said, was unanimous.

The existing Olympic records bettered were in 100, 200 and 400-meter dashes, the 400-meter hurdles, shot, discus and hammer, poie vault and broad jump.

Parry O'Brien, with a third place, made the Olympic track team for an unprecedented fourth time.

Big travel bargain for cities along Santa Fe

Santa Fe
Off-season round trip fares cut approximately 20%
Sept. 15, 1964 to April 30, 1965

It's Chico Bargain Fare time again on the Santa Fe,—from September 15, 1964 to April 30, 1965.

For example, a regular round-trip ticket costing $100 will be sold at the off-season bargain fare of $80. Round-trips costing $75 now will be only $60, and similar reductions will apply for round-trip tickets from all stations except for local trips within the State of California.

No matter where you travel on Santa Fe trains round-trip bargain fares will save you approximately 20%. Tickets on sale every day with a return limit of 30 days. Yes, bargain fares apply for both round-trip coach and first class tickets.

Now you can leave the car at home and save money traveling by Santa Fe.

Wall Street Report

NEW YORK (AP) — Strength in steels helped the stock market move toward its ninth straight daily advance early this afternoon in fairly active trading.

Gains of most key stocks were mainly fractional, but the number of losses was increasing as traders took profits on recent gains.

Glowing reports of orders for steel and of improvement in the industry accompanied the rise in steels. Also helpful were prospects of labor peace in the auto industry as union talks continued with Ford.

Motors moved to the upside after an uncertain start. The trend was generally higher among nonferrous metals, electrical equipments, tobaccos and mail order-retails.

Aerospace issues, airlines and building materials declined.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .3 at 324.1 with industrials up .5, rails up .6 and utilities off .2.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up .66 at 867.79 as it continued to move into record high ground.

U.S. Steel climbed nearly a point. Bethlehem was very active and added a fraction. Also up fractionally were Republic Steel and Jones & Laughlin.

Chrysler was ahead a point. General Motors and American Motors fractions. Ford and Studebaker were unchanged.

Du Pont was a 1-point loser. IBM slipped more than 5 points, touching a low for the year.

U.S. Smelting spurted 2. Homestake and Xerox advanced more than a point each. Polaroid slipped more than 2.

On the American Stock Exchange, some wide gains were made as the list moved higher in moderate trading.

Corporate bonds drifted lower. U.S. government bonds were firm.

India Commies Launch Attack On Premier

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Communists leveled a heavy personal attack on Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri in Parliament today, questioning his ability, honesty and strength.

"I charge him with having a split personality," Hiren Mukerjee, a pro-Moscow Communist leader, declared in debate on a no confidence motion aimed at throwing out Shastri's three-month-old regime.

"He vows loyalty to the Socialistic ideals of our late Prime Minister Nehru but his actions betray him," Mukerjee said.

"A prime minister must satisfy the people. If he lacks the strength to do it, it is certainly not very desirable."

"Incompetence and corruption is the story of this regime," he went on. "Some ministers should clear themselves of the taint of corruption or get out of the government."

He mentioned no names.

TUITION HIKE

BOULDER (UPI)— The University of Colorado Regents Friday approved an increase in summer tuition by 12 per cent and said the hike would raise revenues next year by about $83,000. The regents said the increase would bring summer rates closer to charges made for spring and fall semesters, which were raised last year. The increases raise tuition and fees for a student carrying a full academic load for the 10-week session from $80 resident, and $190 non-resident, to $100 and $220 respectively.

Jack T. Allen To Address Underwriters

"Permanent or Term?" will be the topic to be presented by Jack T. Allen, CLU, for the first regular Colorado Springs Association of Life Underwriter's breakfast meeting being held Thursday at 7:30 a.m.

Allen graduated from the Colorado University and became general agent for the Kansas City Life in 1946.

Allen's agency produced approximately $10,500,000 last year, and his agency has won their company's agency building award three different years — the only agency with Kansas City Life to win it that many times. In 1962 there were 10 men in his agency who were members of their company's Million Dollar Club. Last year there were 3 men in the agency who were members of the M.D.R.T. For the past 10 years, Allen has been a member of his company's general agents advisory committee, a group of five men who meet with the top company officials on agency problems.

Local Dealer Promotion Told In Publication

Blanton F. Cogburn of Colorado Springs' Home Appliance Co. is featured in the September issue of "Housewares Buyer," the trade magazine for volume housewares merchandisers.

An article explains how, "in a town that has more appliance dealers per capita than any other city in the country," Home Appliance is "on top of the profit heap."

Cogburn's merchandising theory, "Housewares Buyer" says, is based on four big quarterly promotions. Details of his "Operation 60 - March Mad Marathon" are presented as an example. The promotion was kicked off with two full-page newspaper ads, "and additional ads stated '48 hours left,' then '24 hours left to make the deal of a lifetime!'"

"The Marathon," says the magazine, "was outstandingly successful and moved small electric appliances at a good pace with a commenstrate volume in major appliances."

The Cogburn article is one in a series in which the magazine reports on successful merchandising techniques for the benefit of its nationwide readership.

Libby Announces New Pineapple Market Program

Libby, McNeill & Libby has launched a bold new marketing program for canned pineapple.

Taking note of the fact that the consumption of canned pineapple has remained static for the past 10 years while the consumption of other canned fruits has increased as much as 50 per cent in the same period, Libby has made a series of sweeping changes in its marketing setup.

These include new product formulation, a drastic cut in prices, a 40 per cent reduction in the number of items offered in its product line, the adoption of new can sizes and a completely re-designed label.

Libby officials admit that in adopting these changes the company is breaking with many traditions that have dominated the industry for over half a century.

Libby's new pricing policy, involving sharp reductions on all varieties, is designed to reduce the heavy handicap under which canned pineapple is laboring in competition with other canned fruits.

A 2½ can of cling peaches retails in many areas at 29 cents as against 43 cents for a 2½ can of sliced pineapple. Libby feels that the 14-cent price spread loses too many would-be customers for canned pineapple.

Current consumer prices of canned fruits are almost identical with 1953 prices, but canned pineapple prices have advanced 14 per cent in the same period, the company said.

Libby's new prices on No. 2 sliced pineapple and No. 2 pineapple chunks indicate how drastically prices have been cut: No. 2 slices (West Coast) — $5.85 per case compared with last year's price of $7.25; No. 2 chunks (West Coast) — $5.85 per case compared with last year's price of $6.95.

The new prices reflect the numerous economies Libby has been able to make in the past three years in its Hawaiian pineapple operations. These have undergone a thorough consolidation and streamlining process.

In another break with industry tradition, Libby's 1964 pack of canned pineapple will be in heavy syrup, which is 20 per cent lower in sugar than the extra heavy syrup used traditionally throughout the pineapple industry.

Ruler of Red China Reported to Be Ill

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — The China News, an independent, English-language newspaper published in Taipei, said today that Chinese Nationalist intelligence sources had confirmed press reports from Hong Kong that Chou En-lai, 66, premier of Communist China, is ill.

The news quoted the sources as saying Chou is suffering from low blood pressure, and said he has been ailing since his extensive tour of Africa this year.

HBA MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN UNDERWAY—Members of the Home Builders Association of Metropolitan Colorado Springs are currently engaged in a drive to boost membership in their national organization to 44,000 members. Shown above, center, is Jerry Madigan, Executive Vice President of the local association, presenting a golden spike — symbolic of having obtained six new members—to Howard Emrich, Vice President of Smartt Construction Company. Madigan is receiving a check from Lorne R. Hinkle, owner of the Hinkle Insurance Agency. So far this year a total of 68 new members have joined the Home Builders Association. The campaign lasts until October 13th.

Shale Center Near Rifle Is Reactivated

The Anvil Points Oil Shale Research Center, near Rifle, Colo. on the western slope of the Rocky Mountains, was officially reactivated Sunday.

The ceremonies included an open house and a tour of the facilities by representatives of government, industry, education, press, and by residents of surounding communities.

Guests included U.S. Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall, Assistant Secretary of the Interior John Kelly, U.S. Sens. Gordon Allott and Peter Dominick, Reps. Wayne Aspinall, Byron Rogers, Donald Brotzman, and J. Edgar Chenoweth, Colorado Governor John Love, and other state and federal officials.

The research center is the former Bureau of Mines demonstration facility, which has been idle since its shutdown in 1956.

The Interior Department leased it last May to the Colorado School of Mines Research Foundation, Inc. The foundation, in turn, will conduct a research program aimed at finding an economic way to extract oil from shale. Humbe Oil & Refining Company joined Socony Mobil, manager of the project, as a participant.

Other companies also are eligible to participate in the current research effort by sharing its costs, estimated at $5 million over a three-year period beginning last May.

Yesterday's reactivation ceremonies opened with a review of the projected research program by Robert Cramer, of Socony Mobil, manager of the program. He cited the estimated reserves of more than a trillion barrels of oil in the shale deposits of Colorado alone — "more than three times the estimated proved crude oil reserves of the entire world and more than 30 times the proved crude oil reserves in the United States."

Cramer said shale oil could be produced on a commercial scale only if and when it could be extracted at costs competitive with those of crude oil and other forms of energy. So far, he went on, no way has been found to achieve this despite long research by Socony Mobil, other companies, and the U.S. government. The research program he heads is seeking such a breakthrough.

"By the time shale oil production could reach the commercial stage," Cramer added, "U.S. oil demand will be so much greater even than today that no appreciable displacement of U.S. crude oil is likely to be involved."

Those attending the open house also included Albert L. Nickerson and Herbert Willetts, Socony Mobil board chairman and president, respectively; Carl E. Reistle, Jr., and J. K. Jameson, board chairman and president, respectively, of Humble; Dr. Orlo Childs, president of the Colorado School of Mines; and Dr. Edwin Crabtreee, director of the Colorado School of Mines Research Foundation.

Car Production Up 153,258 Units The Past Week

U.S. motor vehicle production last week increased to 153,258 units, the Automobile Manufacturers Association reported today.

The week's output included 123,103 passenger cars and 30,155 trucks and motor coaches. During the previous week 91,826 cars and 31,505 commercial vehicles were produced, the AMA said.

Production in August totaled 288,839 vehicles, including 190,154 passenger cars and 98,685 trucks and buses.

Cumulative output in 1964 through September 5 totaled 6,430,499 units, including 5,312,707 cars and 1,117,792 commercial vehicles.

In the same period last year, 5,894,922 vehicles were produced — 4,914,733 passenger cars and 980,189 trucks and motor coaches.

Burlington Plans Ambitious Ski Promotion

One of the more ambitious Colorado ski promotions is planned by the Burlington Railroad for the coming season. Together with Hertz Rent - A - Car, they'll spend more than $65,000 luring winter sports enthusiasts to Colorado ski slopes.

Major expenditure ($52,000) is allocated to newspaper advertising in prime midwestern and eastern markets. The remainder will be spent for national magazine advertisements, 3,000 posters and 3,000 ski cartoons.

The program gets underway Oct. 18 with an eight - page rotogravure supplement in the Chicago SUN-TIMES. Aimed at the "under-45" age group, the supplement will reach nearly a million male readers, a sizeable percentage of whom are ski minded.

Additional copies (50,000) will be distributed to tour and travel agents. Printed both in monotone and four colors, the brocure will illustrate and list major Colorado ski areas with highway routings from Denver and Colorado Springs.

Colorful posters publicizing Colorado ski country will be made available to travel agencies, sporting goods departments and retailers.

Last season, the railroad introduced ski cartons for its patrons. More will be added this year, each bearing a colorful "Ski Colorado" emblem. Burlington will give them to skiers traveling its Zephyr streamliners.

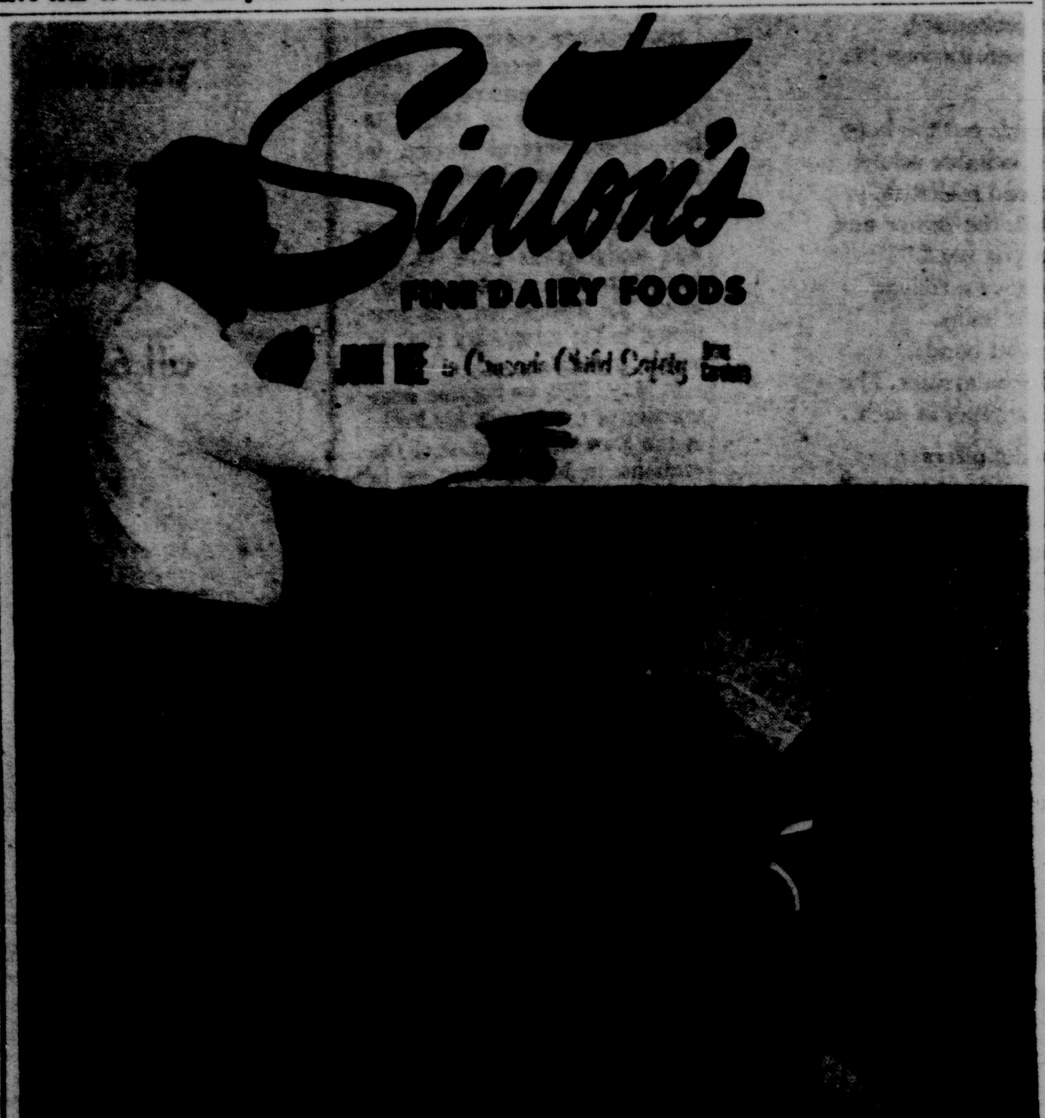
Burlington passenger salesmen will conduct a "Blitz" saturation sales campaign of 400 midwest travel agents. Each will be told of the campaign, and of a new, simplified ticketing system to Colorado ski areas. Other railroad representatives will promote ski travel to Colorado in their sales areas across the country.

Israel Says Attack Will Be Beaten Back

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel's government says it will repel any aggression that may result from the plans endorsed last week by the Arab summit conference.

Leaders of 13 Arab states met in Alexandria and called for a buildup in Arab military strength to "face the threat of imperialism and Zionist defiance."

The Arabs also voted to go ahead with plans to tap the Jordan River in an attempt to keep Israel from using the river's waters to irrigate the Negev Desert.



CRUSADE CHILD SAFETY started Friday at the Sinton Dairy Company. Will Ludwig, Sinton route supervisor, gets an assist from young Scott Barber in placing a crusade sign on one of Sinton's delivery trucks. All Sinton trucks will carry these signs during the crusade and the dairy firm is distributing 14,000 leaflets to its customers and printing the Crusade message on the sides of 150,000 milk cartons. Sinton's is joining other leading dairies throughout the nation to call special attention to careful driving as the school year starts.

Buick Sales Are 75 Per Cent Higher

Retail sales of Buicks in the Denver zone are 75 per cent greater than they were only four years ago, Edward D. Rollert, general manager of Buick and vice president of General Motors, said today.

"Buick's new car deliveries in Denver zone have risen from 4,613 in 1960 to 8,072 this year. This is an increase of 75 per cent," Rollert reported at a news conference following a preview of Buick's 1965 models. Colorado, Wyoming, Utah, parts of five contiguous states.

Nationally, Buick sales have increased from 246,637 to 509,056 units during the same four-year period, he said.

He pointed out that 1964 was the third consecutive year in which the automobile industry has enjoyed record or near record sales and that "most economists now agree that the industry has gained a new plateau in sales which soon will be looked upon as normal."

"We believe that an eight million car year is normal and by 1970 that figure will have increased to nine and possibly 10 million cars," he added.

Jack T. Allen To Address Underwriters

"Permanent or Term?" will be the topic to be presented by Jack T. Allen, CLU, for the first regular Colorado Springs Association of Life Underwriter's breakfast meeting being held Thursday at 7:30 a.m.

Allen graduated from the Colorado University and became general agent for the Kansas City Life in 1946.

Allen's agency produced approximately $18,500,000 last year, and his agency has won their company's agency building award three different years — the only agency with Kansas City Life to win it that many times. In 1962 there were 10 men in his agency who were members of their company's Million Dollar Club. Last year there were 3 men in the agency who were members of the M.D.R.T. Local Dealer Promotion Told In Publication

Blanton F. Cogburn of Colorado Springs' Home Appliance Co. is featured in the September issue of "Housewares Buyer," the trade magazine for volume housewares merchandisers.

An article explains how, "in a town that has more appliance dealers per capita than any other city in the country," Home Appliance is "on top of the profit heap."

Cogburn's merchandising theory, "Housewares Buyer" says, is based on four big quarterly promotions. Details of his "Operation 60 - March Mad Marathon" are presented as an example. The promotion was kicked off with two full-page newspaper ads, "and additional ads stated '48 hours left,' then '24 hours left to make the deal of a lifetime!'"

"The Marathon," says the magazine, "was outstandingly successful and moved small electric appliances at a good pace with a commensurate volume in major appliances."

The Cogburn article is one in a series in which the magazine reports on successful merchandising techniques for the benefit of its nationwide readership.

Libby Announces New Pineapple Market Program

Libby, McNeill & Libby has launched a bold new marketing program for canned pineapple.

Taking note of the fact that the consumption of canned pineapple has remained static for the past 10 years while the consumption of other canned fruits has increased as much as 50 per cent in the same period, Libby has made a series of sweeping changes in its marketing setup.

These include new product formulation, a drastic cut in prices, a 40 per cent reduction in the number of items offered in its product line, the adoption of new can sizes and a completely re-designed label.

Libby officials admit that in adopting these changes the company is breaking with many traditions that have dominated the industry for over half a century.

Libby's new pricing policy, involving sharp reductions on all varieties, is designed to reduce the heavy handicap under which canned pineapple is laboring in competition with other canned fruits.

A 2½ can of cling peaches retails in many areas at 29 cents as against 43 cents for a 2½ can of sliced pineapple. Libby feels that the 14-cent price spread loses too many would-be customers for canned pineapple.

Current consumer prices of canned fruits are almost identical with 1953 prices, but canned pineapple prices have advanced 14 per cent in the same period, the company said.

Libby's new prices on No. 2 sliced pineapple and No. 2 pineapple chunks indicate how drastically prices have been cut: No. 2 slices (West Coast) — $5.85 per case compared with last year's price of $7.25; No. 2 chunks (West Coast) — $5.85 per case compared with last year's price of $6.95.

The new prices reflect the numerous economies Libby has been able to make in the past three years in its Hawaiian pineapple operations. These have undergone a thorough consolidation and streamlining process.

In another break with industry tradition, Libby's 1964 pack of canned pineapple will be in heavy syrup, which is 20 per cent lower in sugar than the extra heavy syrup used traditionally throughout the pineapple industry.

Ruler of Red China Reported to Be Ill

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — The China News, an independent, English-language newspaper published in Taipei, said today that Chinese Nationalist intelligence sources had confirmed press reports from Hong Kong that Chou En-lai, 66, premier of Communist China, is ill.

The news quoted the sources as saying Chou is suffering from low blood pressure, and said he has been ailing since his extensive tour of Africa this year.

Shale Center Near Rifle Is Reactivated

The Anvil Points Oil Shale Research Center, near Rifle, Colo. on the western slope of the Rocky Mountains, was officially reactivated Sunday.

The ceremonies included an open house and a tour of the facilities by representatives of government, industry, education, press, and by residents of surounding communities.

Guests included U.S. Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall, Assistant Secretary of the Interior John Kelly, U.S. Sens. Gordon Allott and Peter Dominick, Reps. Wayne Aspinall, Byron Rogers, Donald Brotzman, and J. Edgar Chenoweth, Colorado Governor John Love, and other state and federal officials.

The research center is the former Bureau of Mines demonstration facility, which has been idle since its shutdown in 1956.

The Interior Department leased it last May to the Colorado School of Mines Research Foundation, Inc. The foundation, in turn, will conduct a research program aimed at finding an economic way to extract oil from shale. Humbe Oil & Refining Company joined Socony Mobil, manager of the project, as a participant.

Other companies also are eligible to participate in the current research effort by sharing its costs, estimated at $5 million over a three-year period beginning last May.

Yesterday's reactivation ceremonies opened with a review of the projected research program by Robert Cramer, of Socony Mobil, manager of the program. He cited the estimated reserves of more than a trillion barrels of oil in the shale deposits of Colorado alone — "more than three times the estimated proved crude oil reserves of the entire world and more than 30 times the proved crude oil reserves in the United States."

Cramer said shale oil could be produced on a commercial scale only if and when it could be extracted at costs competitive with those of crude oil and other forms of energy. So far, he went on, no way has been found to achieve this despite long research by Socony Mobil, other companies, and the U.S. government. The research program he heads is seeking such a breakthrough.

"By the time shale oil production could reach the commercial stage," Cramer added, "U.S. oil demand will be so much greater even than today that no appreciable displacement of U.S. crude oil is likely to be involved."

Those attending the open house also included Albert L. Nickerson and Herbert Willetts, Socony Mobil board chairman and president, respectively; Carl E. Reistle, Jr., and J. K. Jameson, board chairman and president, respectively, of Humble; Dr. Orlo Childs, president of the Colorado School of Mines; and Dr. Edwin Crabtreee, director of the Colorado School of Mines Research Foundation.

Car Production Up 153,258 Units The Past Week

U.S. motor vehicle production last week increased to 153,258 units, the Automobile Manufacturers Association reported today.

The week's output included 123,103 passenger cars and 30,155 trucks and motor coaches. During the previous week 91,826 cars and 31,505 commercial vehicles were produced, the AMA said.

Production in August totaled 288,839 vehicles, including 190,154 passenger cars and 98,685 trucks and buses.

Cumulative output in 1964 through September 5 totaled 6,430,499 units, including 5,312,707 cars and 1,117,792 commercial vehicles.

In the same period last year, 5,894,922 vehicles were produced — 4,914,733 passenger cars and 980,189 trucks and motor coaches.

CRUSADE CHILD SAFETY started Friday at the Sinton Dairy Company. Will Ludwig, Sinton route supervisor, gets an assist from young Scott Barber in placing a crusade sign on one of Sinton's delivery trucks. All Sinton trucks will carry these signs during the crusade and the dairy firm is distributing 14,000 leaflets to its customers and printing the Crusade message on the sides of 150,000 milk cartons. Sinton's is joining other leading dairies throughout the nation to call special attention to careful driving as the school year starts.

Burlington Plans Ambitious Ski Promotion

One of the more ambitious Colorado ski promotions is planned by the Burlington Railroad for the coming season. Together with Hertz Rent - A - Car, they'll spend more than $65,000 luring winter sports enthusiasts to Colorado ski slopes.

Major expenditure ($52,000) is allocated to newspaper advertising in prime midwestern and eastern markets. The remainder will be spent for national magazine advertisements, 3,000 posters and 3,000 ski cartoons.

The program gets underway Oct. 18 with an eight - page rotogravure supplement in the Chicago SUN-TIMES. Aimed at the "under-45" age group, the supplement will reach nearly a million male readers, a sizeable percentage of whom are ski minded.

Additional copies (50,000) will be distributed to tour and travel agents. Printed both in monotone and four colors, the brocure will illustrate and list major Colorado ski areas with highway routings from Denver and Colorado Springs.

Colorful posters publicizing Colorado ski country will be made available to travel agencies, sporting goods departments and retailers.

Last season, the railroad introduced ski cartons for its patrons. More will be added this year, each bearing a colorful "Ski Colorado" emblem. Burlington will give them to skiers traveling its Zephyr streamliners.

Burlington passenger salesmen will conduct a "Blitz" saturation sales campaign of 400 midwest travel agents. Each will be told of the campaign, and of a new, simplified ticketing system to Colorado ski areas. Other railroad representatives will promote ski travel to Colorado in their sales areas across the country.

Israel Says Attack Will Be Beaten Back

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel's government says it will repel any aggression that may result from the plans endorsed last week by the Arab summit conference.

Leaders of 13 Arab states met in Alexandria and called for a buildup in Arab military strength to "face the threat of imperialism and Zionist defiance."

The Arabs also voted to go ahead with plans to tap the Jordan River in an attempt to keep Israel from using the river's waters to irrigate the Negev Desert.

Buick Sales Are 75 Per Cent Higher

Retail sales of Buicks in the Denver zone are 75 per cent greater than they were only four years ago, Edward D. Rollert, general manager of Buick and vice president of General Motors, said today.

"Buick's new car deliveries in Denver zone have risen from 4,613 in 1960 to 8,072 this year. This is an increase of 75 per cent." Rollert reported at a news conference following a preview of Buick's 1965 models. Colorado, Wyoming, Utah, parts of five contiguous states.

Nationally, Buick sales have increased from 246,637 to 509,056 units during the same four-year period, he said.

He pointed out that 1964 was the third consecutive year in which the automobile industry has enjoyed record or near record sales and that "most economists now agree that the industry has gained a new plateau in sales which soon will be looked upon as normal."

"We believe that an eight million car year is normal and by 1970 that figure will have increased to nine and possibly 10 million cars," he added.

German Critic Lauds Recital By SCSC Prof.

James Duncan, assistant professor of music at Southern Colorado State College, received the plaudits of critics for the piano recital he presented at Lubeck, Germany on August 26.

Duncan, who has been on tour of Europe the past summer, concluded with his concert of American music in Lubeck. Writing for the Lubeck News, critic Gunther Wulf wrote of Duncan's concert that, "There was no petty preoccupation with stylistic detail in the performances of the Baroque masters Mattheson (Suite) and Pachelbel (Chaccone). Duncan turned his phrases with strong sensibility, maintained a bold dynamic level, and caused all the inherent melodic elements to be fluent. In short, the music took on life.

"After the intermission the pianist played two Preludes by Debussy. These were effected in the correct vague illumination of the suspended recurring chords, and showed an honest effort for rich nuances. However, the piano (although flanked by the beauty of candle light) was physically insufficient for the style and limited the performer.

"Duncan exhausted his reserve power in the finishing Chopin group! The A-Flat Waltz came off gently; while the piano, in the C-Minor Prelude and the A-Major Polonaise (which better belongs in a dance class), trembled to its very foundations.

"The audience was enthusiastic over the bravura of the young artist. The applause was explosive after each number and the audience let the performer go only after two encores, which he gave willingly."

Duncan joined the Southern Colorado State College faculty in 1958, where he has been an instructor of piano. He studied at the Eastman School of Music at the University of Rochester and studied piano and pedagogy with George MacNabb. He also has done advanced study at Teacher's College at Columbia University.

ONLOOKER — When the Gen. Carl A. Spaatz Scholarship was founded at the Air Force Association convention in Washington last week, an interested onlooker was Maj. Gen. Robert Warren, center, superintendent of the Air Force Academy. Gen. Spaatz, left, is a member of the board of the Falcon Foundation which gives support to the Academy prep school. Charles B. (Tex) Thornton, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Litton Industries, Inc., of Beverly Hills, Calif., and Colorado Springs, set up the scholarship in the amount of $1,000 annually.

TRINOVID BINOCULARS

Creators of the world-famous Leica camera have perfected a new prism system that dramatically reduces binocular size and weight. It's the first truly significant binocular advancement in fifty years. The Trinovid 6x24 panoramic 636-foot-wide viewing field at 1000 yards is an amazing 40% larger than conventional models. The 8x32 and even the 10x40 are more compact than conventional glasses of much lower power. And all Trinovid models have fast-action central focusing, are hermetically sealed, dustproof and absolutely waterproof.

Alumni of MU Invited to Post-Game Social

University of Missouri alumni and friends in the Pikes Peak Region are invited to attend an informal social hour immediately after the Missouri - Air Force Academy football game on Oct. 17.

The event will be held at the Air Force Academy Officer's Club, according to Paul Stalmann, chairman of the Colorado Springs MU Alumni Club.

Stalmann said a buffet dinner will be available at the club, but will not be a part of the MU reception.

A group of MU alumni from Denver will attend the game, and all Missouri alumni will sit together in a special section.

Stalmann said the university will mail order blanks for game tickets in the near future to all registered alumni. Persons who do not receive the mailing but are interested in buying tickets for the game and sitting in the MU section should call Stalmann at 635-5143.

Litton Scholarship Will Support AFA Prep School

The name of one of America's pioneer airmen will be perpetually enshrined in the Falcon Foundation, which provides prep school support to the Air Force Academy.

The honor will be known as the Gen. Carl A. Spaatz Scholarship. It is a tribute to the man who became the first Air Force chief of staff when the USAF was established as a separate and co-equal military service with the Army and the Navy in 1947.

The donor of $1,000 annually is Litton Industries, Inc., of Beverly Hills, Calif. Now-retired Gen. Spaatz has been a member of the Board of Directors of Litton since 1955.

The provision of this scholarship and participation hereafter in the Falcon Foundation came about in the 50th anniversary year of Gen. Spaatz' graduation from the United States Military Academy at West Point.

Gen. Spaatz, now 73, is a native of Pennsylvania and a 1914 graduate of the U.S. Military Academy. His first assignment was with the 25th Infantry at Schofield Barracks, Hawaii.

In 1916, he was assigned at Columbus, N. M., and served with the First Aero Squadron under Gen. John J. Pershing in the punitive expedition into Mexico. He was subsequently promoted to first lieutenant, then to captain.

Gen. Spaatz went to France with the American Expeditionary Forces in command of the 31st Aero Squadron. In 1918, he Squadron, Second Pursuit Group was flight leader in the 13th and was officially credited with shooting down three German Fokker planes. He received the Distinguished Service Cross.

As a major, Gen. Spaatz commanded Kelly Field, Tex., in 1920 and 1921. He served in various other capacities until 1939 when he received a temporary promotion to colonel and during the Battle of Britain in 1940, spent several weeks in England as special military observer.

Shortly after Peal Harbor, he was assigned as chief of the Army Air Force Combat Command at Washington and promoted to the temporary rank of major general.

In May, 1942, he become commander of the Eighth Air Force in the European Theater of Operations. In July of that year he was appointed commanding general of the U.S. Army Air Forces in the ETO. He was also commander of the 12th Air Force in North Africa and received a temporary promotion to lieutenant general.

He returned to England in January, 1944, as commander of the U.S. Strategic Air Forces in Europe which he headed throughout the pre-invasion period and ensuing campaign which resulted in the defeat of Germany.

After the end of the war in Germany, he assumed Command of the U.S. Strategic Air Forces in the Pacific and supervised the final strategic bombing of Japan, including the two atomic bomb missions.

In September, 1947, he was appointed by President Truman as the first chief of staff of the new U.S. Air Force.

He retired with the rank of general on June 30, 1948.

Gen. Spaatz has been awarded the [illegible] Service Cross, [illegible] Service Medal with [illegible] Oak Leaf clusters, Legion of Merit, Distinguished Flying Cross, and Bronze Star Medal. He also has the [illegible] Campaign ribbon, the World War 1 ribbon, with [illegible] battle stars, the pre-Pearl Harbor ribbon with one star, the European theater ribbon with six stars, the Pacific theater ribbons, the American theater ribbon, and World War 2 Victory ribbon. His foreign honors include a Grand Officier of the French Legion of Honor, the French Croix de Guerre with Palm, and a Grand Commander of the British Empire, Russia's Second Order of Suvorov and Poland's Polonia Restituta, Commander's Cross with Star.

Charles B. Thornton, chairman of the board of Litton Industires, Inc, wrote the Falcon Foundation president, Maj. Gen. Robert Smith, USAFR, of the company's intention to support the foundation in this way. He said Gen. Spaatz "is a most interesting milestone since within his person is not only that first leader, but a considerable strategic thought in time of war when the USAF was carving out its right to stand and fly on its own."

"Because of this, we feel that any young man in the future who will be named the winner of the Gen. Carl A. Spaatz Scholarship will feel anointed, spotlighted and made responsible for as large a niche as he can manage in the USAF historical parade.

"Dad... can I have $20,000 for college?"

Free booklet tells how you can be sure you'll have the money to send your children to college!

In both public and private colleges, the costs of education have risen sharply in recent years. At an average private school, for example, the annual expense is about $3,000. By 1974 the cost will have soared to $5,220—and it will continue to rise about 5% each year.

These are the frightening figures facing today's parents. They are spelled out in detail in a timely new booklet written especially for New York Life by a nationally known authority on education.

He points out the increasing importance of education beyond high school. "Generally, the youngster who goes to college will gain faster job advancement, higher income and greater economic security than the youth who does not."

Planning is the key. This expert holds out the hope that "any qualified student can find a suitable school to go to"—and will if parents plan ahead realistically. He suggests that "the earlier you start, the easier and cheaper it is to accumulate the funds you need." There are many ways available to finance a college education: long-term loans, installment loans, personal long-range savings, government bonds, stocks, life insurance and a variety of scholarships. The booklet tells you the comparative advantages of each.

German Critic Lauds Recital By SCSC Prof.

James Duncan, assistant professor of music at Southern Colorado State College, received the plaudits of critics for the piano recital he presented at Lubeck, Germany on August 26.

Duncan, who has been on tour of Europe the past summer, concluded with his concert of American music in Lubeck. Writing for the Lubeck News, critic Gunther Wulf wrote of Duncan's concert that, "There was no petty preoccupation with stylistic detail in the performances of the Baroque masters Mattheson (Suite) and Pachelbel (Chaccone). Duncan turned his phrases with strong sensibility, maintained a bold dynamic level, and caused all the inherent melodic elements to be fluent. In short, the music took on life.

"After the intermission the pianist played two Preludes by Debussy. These were effected in the correct vague illumination of the suspended recurring chords, and showed an honest effort for rich nuances. However, the piano (although flanked by the beauty of candle light) was physically insufficient for the style and limited the performer.

"Duncan exhausted his reserve power in the finishing Chopin group! The A-Flat Waltz came off gently; while the piano, in the C-Minor Prelude and the A-Major Polonaise (which better belongs in a dance class), trembled to its very foundations.

"The audience was enthusiastic over the bravura of the young artist. The applause was explosive after each number and the audience let the performer go only after two encores, which he gave willingly."

Duncan joined the Southern Colorado State College faculty in 1958, where he has been an instructor of piano. He studied at the Eastman School of Music at the University of Rochester and studied piano and pedagogy with George MacNabb. He also has done advanced study at Teacher's College at Columbia University.

TRINOVID BINOCULARS

Creators of the world-famous Leica camera have perfected a new prism system that dramatically reduces binocular size and weight. It's the first truly significant binocular advancement in fifty years. The Trinovid 6x24 panoramic 636-foot-wide viewing field at 1000 yards is an amazing 40% larger than conventional models. The 8x32 and even the 10x40 are more compact than conventional glasses of much lower power. And all Trinovid models have fast-action central focusing, are hermetically sealed, dustproof and absolutely waterproof.

ONLOOKER — When the Gen. Carl A. Spaatz Scholarship was founded at the Air Force Association convention in Washington last week, an interested onlooker was Maj. Gen. Robert Warren, center, superintendent of the Air Force Academy. Gen. Spaatz, left, is a member of the board of the Falcon Foundation which gives support to the Academy prep school. Charles B. (Tex) Thornton, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Litton Industries, Inc., of Beverly Hills, Calif., and Colorado Springs, set up the scholarship in the amount of $1,000 annually.

Alumni of MU Invited to Post-Game Social

University of Missouri alumni and friends in the Pikes Peak Region are invited to attend an informal social hour immediately after the Missouri - Air Force Academy football game on Oct. 17.

The event will be held at the Air Force Academy Officer's Club, according to Paul Stalmann, chairman of the Colorado Springs MU Alumni Club.

Stalmann said a buffet dinner will be available at the club, but will not be a part of the MU reception.

A group of MU alumni from Denver will attend the game and all Missouri alumni will sit together in a special section.

Stalmann said the university will mail order blanks for game tickets in the near future to all registered alumni. Persons who do not receive the mailing but are interested in buying tickets for the game and sitting in the MU section should call Stalmann at 635-5143.

Litton Scholarship Will Support AFA Prep School

The name of one of America's pioneer airmen will be perpetually enshrined in the Falcon Foundation, which provides prep school support to the Air Force Academy.

The honor will be known as the Gen. Carl A. Spaatz Scholarship. It is a tribute to the man who became the first Air Force chief of staff when the USAF was established as a separate and co-equal military service with the Army and the Navy in 1947.

The donor of $1,000 annually is Litton Industries, Inc., of Beverly Hills, Calif. Now-retired Gen. Spaatz has been a member of the Board of Directors of Litton since 1955.

The provision of this scholarship and participation hereafter in the Falcon Foundation came about in the 50th anniversary year of Gen. Spaatz' graduation from the United States Military Academy at West Point.

Gen. Spaatz, now 73, is a native of Pennsylvania and a 1914 graduate of the U.S. Military Academy. His first assignment was with the 25th Infantry at Schofield Barracks, Hawaii.

In 1916, he was assigned at Columbus, N. M., and served with the First Aero Squadron under Gen. John J. Pershing in the punitive expedition into Mexico. He was subsequently promoted to first lieutenant, then to captain.

Gen. Spaatz went to France with the American Expeditionarty Forces in command of the 31st Aero Squadron. In 1918, he Squadron, Second Pursuit Group was flight leader in the 13th and was officially credited with shooting down three German Fokker planes. He received the Distinguished Service Cross.

As a major, Gen. Spaatz commanded Kelly Field, Tex., in 1920 and 1921. He served in various other capacities until 1939 when he received a temporary promotion to colonel and during the Battle of Britain in 1940, spent several weeks in England as special military observer.

Shortly after Peal Harbor, he was assigned as chief of the Army Air Force Combat Command at Washington and promoted to the temporary rank of major general.

In May, 1942, he become commander of the Eighth Air Force in the European Theater of Operations. In July of that year he was appointed commanding general of the U.S. Army Air Forces in the ETO. He was also commander of the 20th Air Force in North Africa and received a temporary promotion to lieutenant general.

He returned to England in January, 1944, as commander of the U.S. Strategic Air Forces in Europe which he headed throughout the pre-invasion period and ensuing campaign which resulted in the defeat of Germany.

After the end of the war in Germany, he assumed Command of the U.S. Strategic Air Forces in the Pacific and supervised the final strategic bombing of Japan, including the two atomic bomb missions.

In September, 1947, he was appointed by President Truman as the first chief of staff of the new U.S. Air Force.

He retired with the rank of general on June 30, 1948.

Gen. Spaatz has been awarded the Distinguished Service Cross, Distinguished Service Medal with two Oak Leaf clusters, Legion of Merit, Distinguished Flying Cross, and Bronze Star Medal. He also has the Mexican Interior Campaign ribbon, the World War 1 ribbon, with three bronze battle stars, the pre-Pear Harbor ribbon with one star, the European theater ribbon with six stars, the Pacific theater ribbons, the American theater ribbon, and World War 2 Victory ribbon. His foreign honors include a Grand Officier of the French Legion of Honor, the French Croix de Guerre with Palm, and a Grand Commander of the British Empire, Russia's Second Order of Suvorov and Poland's Polonia Restituta, Commander's Cross with Star.

Charles B. Thornton, chairman of the board of Litton Industires, Inc, wrote the Falcon Foundation president, Maj. Gen. Robert Smith, USAFR, of the company's intention to support the foundation in this way. He said Gen. Spaatz "is a most interesting milestone since within his person is not only that first leader, but a considerable strategic thought in time of war when the USAF was carving out its right to stand and fly on its own."

"Because of this, we feel that any young man in the future who will be named the winner of the Gen. Carl A. Spaatz Scholarship will feel anointed, spotlighted and made responsible for as large a niche as he can manage in the USAF historical parade.

"Dad... can I have $20,000 for college?"

Free booklet tells how you can be sure you'll have the money to send your children to college!

In both public and private colleges, the costs of education have risen sharply in recent years. At an average private school, for example, the annual expense is about $3,000. By 1974 the cost will have soared to $5,220—and it will continue to rise about 5% each year.

These are the frightening figures facing today's parents. They are spelled out in detail in a timely new booklet written especially for New York Life by a nationally known authority on education.

He points out the increasing importance of education beyond high school. "Generally, the youngster who goes to college will gain faster job advancement, higher income and greater economic security than the youth who does not."

Planning is the key. This expert holds out the hope that "any qualified student can find a suitable school to go to"—and will if parents plan ahead realistically. He suggests that "the earlier you start, the easier and cheaper it is to accumulate the funds you need." There are many ways available to finance a college education: long-term loans, installment loans, personal long-range savings, government bonds, stocks, life insurance and a variety of scholarships. The booklet tells you the comparative advantages of each.

Professor Cites Need for More Modern Bosses

BOULDER — Motivation means more production in industry, and a University of Colorado faculty member says an employe's motivation depends on the boss.

Associate Prof. Wilmar F. Bernthal of the CU Business of the Colorado Business Review that business functions smoother and more effectively, if it is based on a philosophy of interdependence of manager and employes.

But more important, he says, is a manager who can vary his attitude to meet the occasion presented.

The review is published by the CU Bureau of Business Research.

Bernthal, a management expert, discusses authoritarian leadership, where the manager concerns himself only with making decisions and imposing them upon employes; "the benevolent paternalist," who will "keep rebellion in check by being kind to the people who are loyal to him, and the modern manager, who remains flexible and uses the combination of authority and freedom that is appropriate to a particular situation."

But the narrow spects of strict authoritarian or benevolent paternal leadership do not inspire workers to creativity and maximum performance, Bernthal says.

"The modern manager . .will find that people will work better than they used to when he learns how to work with the well - informed, more highly educated, and more prosperous worker who makes up much of the labor force today."

Bernthal defines the authoritarian taskmaster as one "who rules by threat and fear. To avoid punishment, people will perform for him but only at the required minimum. Those who have the ability and knowledge will seek better jobs elsewhere, and those who stay often are the bottom of-the-barrel type who are apathetic and indifferent. . . ."

The fatherly boss "gets great personal satisfaction out of doing things for his subordinates," Bernthal writes, "but he denies "hem the right of asserting themselves on the job as whole human beings." He thus ". . . discourages individualism, creative thinking, or honest disagreement."

"The manager who sees his leadership role as helping his workers to become fully functioning human beings on the job is most likely to strike a responsive chord in a majority of people," Berntha, says.

Bernthal concludes that it is obviously important to look at the qualifications of the prospective employe before hiring, "yet it may be equally or more important to look carefully at what we do with and to the employes once we have employed them and what effect our actions have upon their job performance."

CU Department Of History Gets New Professors

BOULDER—The University of Colorado Department of History has four new assistant professors this fall.

They are Boyd Hill, William O'Neill, Bertram Wyatt-Brown and John Creighton.

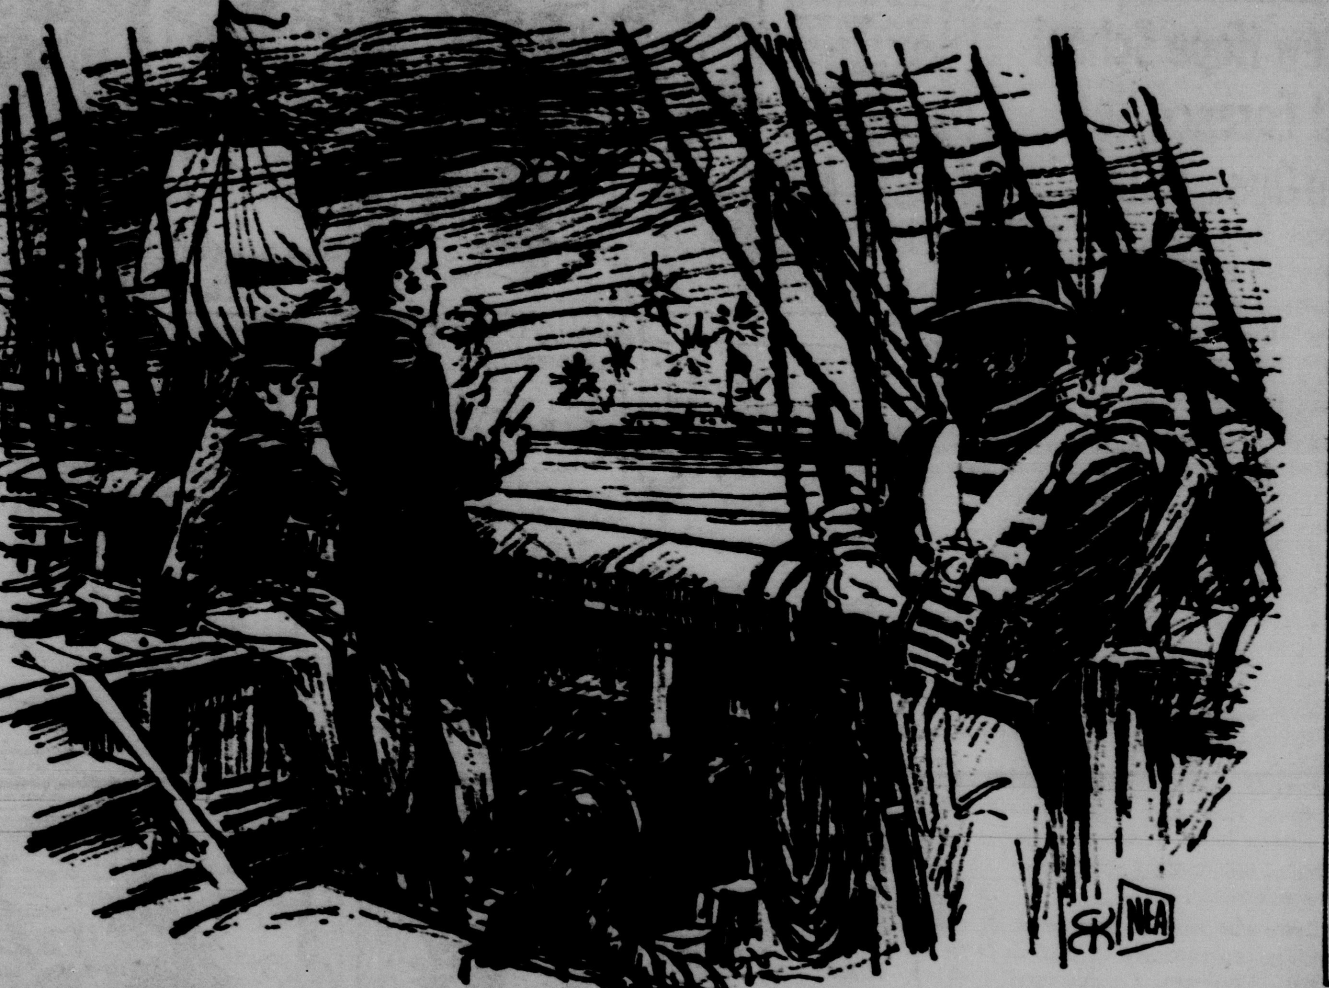
Hill, a specialist in ancient and medieval history, comes from Louisiana State University where he has been an instructor since 1962. He has Ph.D. and M.A. degrees from the University of North Carolina and a B.A. from Duke University.

O'Neill last year was assistant professor at the University of Pittsburgh, concentrating on recent U. S. history. The 28-year-old scholar received his Ph.D. and M.A. at the University of California, Berkeley, and did undergraduate work at the University of Michigan.

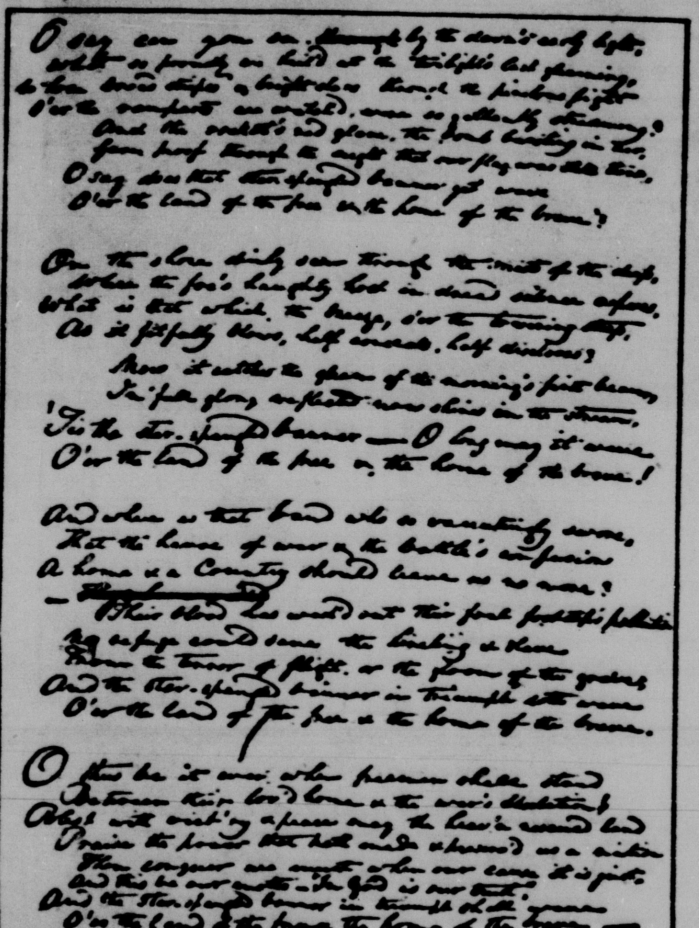
Wyatt-Brown has taught two years at Colorado State University. He has a doctorate from Johns Hopkins University, master's and bachelor's degrees from King's College, Cambridge, England, and a B. A. from the University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn. He has been a Danforth Foundation Fellow and has won a John Vincent Fellowship.

Creighton, who will teach at CU's Denver Center, has B.A. and M. A. degrees from CU. He has been assistant professor at Fort Hays (Kansas) State College since 1962. He is a member of the American Historical Association.

We Celebrate Our National Anthem's 150th Birthday



HAPPY BIRTHDAY — Our national anthem, "The Star Spangled Banner," will be 150 years old today. Actually, however, it has been the official national anthem only since March 3, 1931, when it was proclaimed as such by act of Congress. It is fitting that the song was born on a note of triumph, victory and high patriotism—qualities it imparts through its exultant and majestic words and music. Scribbled on the back of an envelope by the excited young American lawyer, Francis Scott Key, the words of the song dramatically depict the valiant and successful defense of Fort McHenry and Baltimore against the fierce attack by the British fleet in the War of 1812. Key had been an eyewitness to the battle—detained by the British as a virtual prisoner while on a diplomatic mission for the United States. The music of the song was borrowed, ironically, from the nation whose defeat that night inspired Key to pen the words that have stirred Americans ever since: "Then conquer we must when our cause it is just; and this be our motto, 'In God is our trust!' And the Star Spangled Banner in triumph shall wave o'er the land of the free and the home of the brave!" A proud nation joins in saluting the national anthem on its sesquicentennial birthday anniversary.



HISTORIC WORDS—Here are the words of the Star Spangled Banner as Francis Scott Key originally wrote them on the back of an envelope, when dawn after the bombardment of Fort McHenry revealed to him that "our flag was still there."

University Hikes Summer Tuition By 12 Per Cent

BOULDER — The University of Colorado Friday increased its summer tuition an average of 12 per cent to bring summer rates more in line with those charged in the fall and spring semesters.

The Board of Regents approved a basic rate of $100 for Colorado residents and $220 for non-residents in tuition and fees for students carrying a full academic load in the 10-week summer session. The former rates were $90 for residents and $190 for non-residents.

The new rates will be effective with the summer of 1965. Tuition for fall and spring semesters is not affected by the action. CU raised fall and spring tuition last year, but did not change summer tuition at that time.

Under the new schedule students taking three to five hours of credit in the 10-week summer term will pay $80, if they are Colorado residents, and $190, if they are non-residents. The increase is $10 for residents and $20 for non-residents.

Students enrolling in one of CU's five-week summer terms will pay $50, if they are Colorado residents, and $120, if they are non-residents. The increase is $5 for residents and $10 for non-residents.

The Regents also established a flat fee of $13 for residents and $34 for non-residents per credit course hour for students taking three hours or less in the 10-week summer session, or two hours or less in the five-week summer term.

University officials estimated that the increases will bring in $83,000 in additional revenue in the summer of 1965.

Robert F. Clothier Rosary Set Tuesday

Armed Forces News

By STEVE TILLMAN

WASHINGTON (Special to the Gazette Telegraph) Retired pay of the military is not subject to allotments for payment of alimony, and the pay of active duty personnel is likewise not subject to any attachment or garnishment proceedings. This ruling of the comptroller General means that a service member who is divorced cannot have his court - ordered alimony automatically extracted from his pay. In the case of the active duty member, however, the failure to pay alimony might well lead to his being dischared from the service.

While the Pentagon is considering the idea of an increase in cost of living allowance for men stationed overseas, it is quite possible that no action will be taken while the Congress is considering the allowance for certain Federal civilian employes stationed overseas. If the Federal employes in the areas specified in the Civil Service objection lose out, the military may also lose out.

A new decision of the Army says that retired Army warrant officers with active duty prior to November 12, 1918, will receive increased pay. The decision amends a provision contained in the 1942 pay act which up to now has been held applicable only to officers.

The Comptroller General has ruled that service in any grade in the old Regular Army Reserve, prior to July 1, 1940, is creditable service for computation of retired pay for Reserve retirement under Title III of PL 810.

Active duty personnel thinking of retiring after 20 years may be interested in a little understood provision of the law. If the service is exactly 20 years on the date of retirement, the retired pay will be computed on 18 years for pay purposes. This serves to reduce the amount of retired pay by 5 per cent.

A new ruling of the Air Force will allow AF club members visiting on base from another base, to cash personal checks in the same amount as is authorized for members on duty at the base.

Sen. Johnson, chairman of the Senate Civil Service Committee, is hopeful that the 30-55 retirement bill for federal civilian employes will pass in 1965. Present plans do not call for the measure to be retroactive, which may bring on a floor fight by supporters of already retired employes.

Effective March 31, 1965, Air Force officers assigned to duty in the Washington area will be required to own an informal white uniform. Navy and Marine Corps officers now have whites, so if the Air Force requires this uniform for Washington duty the Army may follow suit.

There will a big fight in the November convention of the Retired Officers Association over a proposal by the "Old Guard" to clean out several hundred thousands of dollars in the organization treasury to buy annuities for four employes that are reportedly scheduled for retirement. In most organizations, when an employe has outlived his usefulness, he is given seperation pay in the form of a stipulated number of months of pay. This may be the answer that the Retired Officers Association will adopt.

The Civil Service Commission is opposed to continued payment of cost of living allowances to Federal employes in Hawaii. The Commission contends that the allowances are no longer necessary due to recent raises in pay of the employes. It is anticipated that the Commission will recommend to Congress that the allowances be either discontinued, or greatly curtailed. In the interim there will be no changes made.

Washington hears from reliable sources that Secretary of State Dean Rusk will resign from the Cabinet after the new term of President Johnson, if he is elected, begins. These same sources say that Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, a Reserve Army Major General, and diplomat, as well as a recent Vice President aspirant on the Republican ticket, will be his successor.

Few members of the Retired Officers Association realize that they do not vote for the president of the organization or any other elective official, except for the board of directors. The board of directors elect the president. This is the reason, according to leaders among retired officers here, that there has been a "one-man" rule for so many years. This is expected to change in November.

Annual Band Day Due at CU Oct. 3

BOULDER—More than 6,000 young musicians from junior and senior high schools in Colorado, Kansas, Nebraska and Wyoming are expected to attend the University of Colorado's 22nd annual Band Day Oct. 3.

About 100 bands will march through downtown Boulder in a two-hour morning parade. After the parade they will perform in CU's Folsom Stadium during the CU-Kansas State football game.

The bands will compete in a maneuvering festival and a parade festival, according to Prof. Hugh McMillen, director of bands, and will be judged on the basis of musicianship, marching ability and over-all appearance.

City Director Has Article In Trade Mag

An article explaining the service form for the Colorado Springs Department of Public Works, by M. R. Pearce, director of the department, is in the September issue of "Colorado Municipalities" published by the Colorado Municipal League.

This is the eighth annual public works issue and contains articles on public works by city administrators throughout the state.

The five by eight-inch form to give the public better service is called a service request as is in quadruplicate with snap-out carbons.

The first copy is white and for the person originating a request. Remaining copies are pink, green and yellow. The yellow slip goes to the department head which will service the request. Pink and green copies are referred to the division head or foreman responsible for the work. The green copy is passed to the crew chief whose men will do the work.

Upon completion of work, the crew chief writes a report on the green copy and returns it to the division chief who enters a report. He files the green copy and returns the pink copy to the department head, who sends the pink copy to the originator of the request.

"This sounds quite complicated, and possibly cumbersome, but actually it is very simple and the important result is that it really works," writes Pearce.

"Not only has the number of this type of complaint been markedly reduced," explained Pearce, "but the man responsible for doing the job knows exactly what is expected of him as all of his work orders are in writing.

"He knows too that he will not be blamed for someone's failing to remember."

Josephine Brennan Died Here Sunday

Mrs. Josephine Brennan, 825 S. Hancock St., died Sunday at 88 at a local nursing home. She had been a resident of Colorado Springs since 1952 and was a member of the Catholic Church.

Mrs. Brennan was born in St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 30, 1875. She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Josephine Foulds, of Phoenix, Ariz., and a son, George J. Brennan, St. Louis, Mo.

Funeral services and burial will be in St. Louis, in charge of the Hoffmeister Mortuary. Friends may call at the Law Mortuary until 4 p.m. today.

'Welcome Week' Opens For New CSU Students

FORT COLLINS — New students now arriving on the Colorado State University campus will find their first week a well-planned one. More than 60 returning CS students spent the past week of their own time planning events for "Welcome Week."

At CSU "Welcome Week" is a heavy schedule of social and academic activities, planned to orientate the new student on all phases of his or her college life for the next nine months. More than 2,500 new freshmen are expected at CSU this quarter.

Activities officially began at 10 a.m. Sunday when 100 student leaders will take small groups of the new students on tours of the campus. In addition, an open house at the Student Center will be from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Parents of the new students were not forgotten. They heard various CSU officials at an assembly at the Student Center Ballroom at 3 p.m.

At 7:45 p.m. CSU President illiam E. Morgan held his annual assembly in the men's gymnasium, welcoming students to the campus. This address was carried over KCSU-FM (90.9 mc), marking the official opening of CSU's new FM radio station.

Morgan again spoke to new students at 8 a.m. today when "Welcome Week" swings into high gear with the first orientation assembly.

Numerous assemblies, foreign student English tests, engineering examinations, the first step of registration, open house at fraternities and language placement tests completes today's schedule. The day ends with an all school barbecue at 5 p.m. in the residence halls area, followed by an Independent Student Assn. mixer from 8 to 12 p.m. at the Stuent Center ballroom.

Tuesday's agenda includes additional registration procedures and two special services assemblies.

Wednesday the group of new students will hear Dr. Harold Taylor, noted education expert, speak on "You the Student" from 8:30 a.m. to 11 a.m. at the Student Center ballroom. Dr. Taylor is former president of Sarah Lawrence College and former host for the TV series, "Meet the Professor." A discussion will follow the lecture.

Also stated for Wednesday is a fashion show from 2 to 4 p.m. by the Associated Women Students (AWS) organization at the Student Center. Open house at the six CSU colleges is from 4 to 5:15 p.m. and an Aggie Haylofter Dance will be from 8 to 10:45 p.m. at the ballroom.

Another orientation assembly, tours of the Foothills Campus and an AWS transfer women's tea are planned for Thursday.

Friday the group will attend another orientation assembly and hear a discussion entitled, "A Look at Your Student Government" at 10 a.m. in the ballroom. Residence Halls special events are planned from 1 to 4 p.m. Friday, followed by a Science and Arts mixer from 8 to 12 p.m. in the ballroom of the Student Center.

Saturday the group will have the option of going on busses to the CSU - Wyoming football game at Laramie with the Alpha Gamma Rho dance planned for 9 to 12 p.m. at the CSU ballroom that night ending the festivities.

Dave Heerwagen, senior from 1688 Cody, Lakewood, and Miss Elaine Marousek, senior from Downers Grove, Ill., are co-chairmen o this year's "Welcome Week" committee which planned all events.

Classes begin Sept. 21.

Golf Equipment Valued At $500 Stolen Here

Sixteen golf clubs, a pair of shoes, and a golf bag and cart worth a total of $500 were stolen from Jerry A. Bills, 18 Lake Ave. the sheriff's office reported over the week-end.

According to Broadmoor Police Officer Floyd Miller, the equipment was kept in the garage which was unlocked.

Local Jaycees to Take Part In Olympic Torch Carry

The Colorado Springs Junior Chamber of Commerce is participating in the largest promotional project ever undertaken by the national Jaycees — a coast to coast running of the Olympic torch.

The project is being undertaken to raise funds for the United States Olympic Team which will compete for international honors in Tokyo.

The U.S. Jaycees will turn over to President Johnson all funds collected as a result of this "Run for the Money" Sept. 26 at the Los Angeles Coliseum during the half-time of the UCLA - Penn State football game.

The Jaycees have pledged $1 million to the Olympic Fund. The "Run for the Money," will cross the continent from New York to Los Angeles.

New York Mayor Robert Wagner lit the Olympic torch on Sept. 1.

The local Jaycees have until Sept. 20 to collect funds for their share of the national pledge. Officials here said that a local goal will be announced later.

The distance to be covered is 16,658,100 feet and if three feet per stride is allocated, it will take 5,552,800 strides to reach Los Angeles. This comes to 18 cents per stride if the Jaycees want to meet their goal.

Persons desiring to donate may call 635-1551.

Girl Scout Effort Studied by UF Unit Member

Camping, individual volunteer work and troop work are the incentives for more than 5000 Pikes Peak Region girls to put on the uniform of the Girl Scouts in one of the four age levels. . .Brownie, Junior, Cadette and Senior Scouts. Safford Hermann of the Colorado Springs National Bank and volunteer member of the Admissions and Allocations Committee of the Pikes Peak United Fund learned this during his study of this agency.

While the scouts themselves contribute to the cost of the proprogram through membership dues, the United Fund allocated 30,000 last year to coordinate the program and help the Wagon Wheel Council carry scouting to new areas.

The enthusiasm of scouts for living out of doors is probably one of the reasons for the big family camping booms so evident in this part of the country, Dorothy Neal, Girl Scout executive director, believes.

Almost half of the girls in the second, third and fourth grades in the region are Brownies. As the girls grow older and develop new interests, the ratio grows smaller until just one in 35 high school girls are senior scouts. At this age group the girls are veteran campers. Their campsites show ingenuity and some of the comforts of home.

Back in the community the senior scouts have new opportunities for volunteer work, ranging from hospital aides in which they have participated for many years to a new field in public relations and ranger aide training.

Helping the Department of Parks and Recreation in a variety of ways have given several senior scouts an opportunity to learn more about this phase of community life.

A trefoil design of marigolds, illuminated at night was planted and maintained throughout the summer by the scouts. Several seniors have served as volunteers in handicapped bowling programs and in the monthly recreational outing for teenaged retarded children.

One of the girls found working with the handicapped so absorbing that she became a counseler in training at Handicamp during the summer.

Most appealing to Hermann is the leadership development and the awareness of community needs which takes place as the girls advance in scouting. It will be the responsibility of Hermann and other members of the United Fund Admissions and Allocations Committee to determine the most equitable distribution funds raised in the campaign for $484,800.

Number of Cars In State May Double by 1974

Colorado highways will have to accommodate an estimated 526,000 more state - licensed motor vehicles in 1974 than they do now, according to current estimates.

The total number of state-licensed cars and commercial vehicles is expected to increase from the present 1,052,000 to about 1,578,000 in the next 10 years, reports William R. Lappin, division manager of C.I.T. Corporation, which finances the purchase of road building equipment at the same time, he says, projections on a nation-wide basis indicate the number of drivers in the state will jump to about 1,746,000 from the present 1,164,000.

"These growth estimates point graphically to the need for construction and modernization of roads and highways to provide maximum safety factors and prevent any further increases in our tragic accident record," says Mr. Lappin, whose firm is a subsidiary of C.I.T. Financial Corporation.

"The Federal Interstate Highway System, which is scheduled to include 948.0 miles of highway in the state when it is completed in 1972, will help to provide greater safety. Statistics show clearly that limited-access, carefully designed highways such as those of the Interstate System are considerably safer than ordinary roads."

For the nation as a whole, he adds, the total number of motor vehicles is expected to increase to some 122 million by y1974, compared to 81.6 million today. Licensed drivers, which include 6.5 million young people under 20 years of age, will grow from the present 93.7 to an estimated 140 million.

Professor Cites Need for More Modern Bosses

BOULDER — Motivation means more production in industry, and a University of Colorado faculty member says an employe's motivation depends on the boss.

Associate Prof. Wilmar F. Bernthal of the CU Business of the Colorado Business Review that business functions smoother and more effectively, if it is based on a philosophy of interdependence of manager and employes.

But more important, he says, is a manager who can vary his attitude to meet the occasion presented.

The review is published by the CU Bureau of Business Research.

Bernthal, a management expert, discusses authoritarian leadership, where the manager concerns himself only with making decisions and imposing them upon employes; "the benevolent paternalist," who will "keep rebellion in check by being kind to the people who are loyal to him, and the modern manager, who remains flexible and uses the combination of authority and freedom that is appropriate to a particular situation."

But the narrow spects of strict authoritarian or benevolent paternal leadership do not inspire workers to creativity and maximum performance, Bernthal says.

"The modern manager . .will find that peopie will work better than they used to when he learns how to work with the well - informed, more highly educated, and more prosperous worker who makes up much of the labor force today."

Bernthal defines the authoritarian taskmaster as one "who rules by threat and fear. To avoid punishment, people will perform for him but only at the required minimum. Those who have the ability and knowledge will seek better jobs elsewhere, and those who stay often are the bottom of-the-barrel type who are apathetic and indifferent. . . ."

The fatherly boss "gets great personal satisfaction out of doing things for his subordinates," Bernthal writes, "but he denies them the right of asserting themselves on the job as whole human beings." He thus ". . . discourages individualism, creative thinking, or honest disagreement."

"The manager who sees his leadership role as helping his workers to become fully functioning human beings on the job is most likely to strike a responsive chord in a majority of people," Berntha, says.

Bernthal concludes that it is obviously important to look at the qualifications of the prospective employe before hiring, "yet it may be equally or more important to look carefully at what we do with and to the employes once we have employed them and what effect our actions have upon their job performance."

CU Department Of History Gets New Professors

BOULDER—The University of Colorado Department of History has four new assistant professors this fall.

They are Boyd Hill, William O'Neill, Bertram Wyatt-Brown and John Creighton.

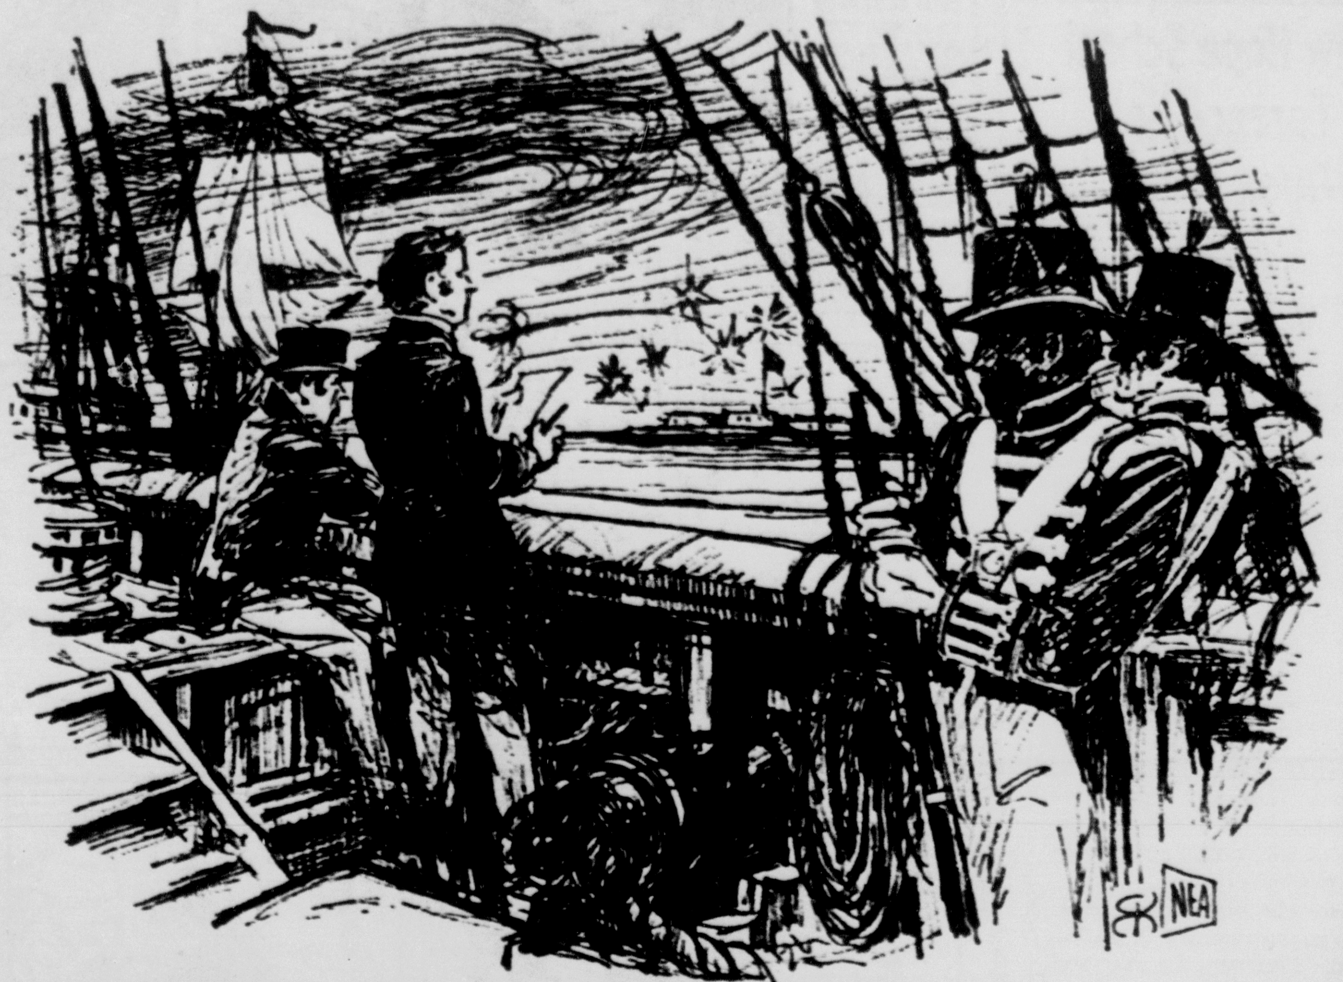
Hill, a specialist in ancient and medieval history, comes from Louisiana State University where he has been an instructor since 1962. He has Ph.D. and M.A. degrees from the University of North Carolina and a B.A. from Duke University.

O'Neill last year was assistant professor at the University of Pittsburgh, concentrating on recent U. S. history. The 28-year-old scholar received his Ph.D. and M.A. at the University of California, Berkeley, and did undergraduate work at the University of Michigan.

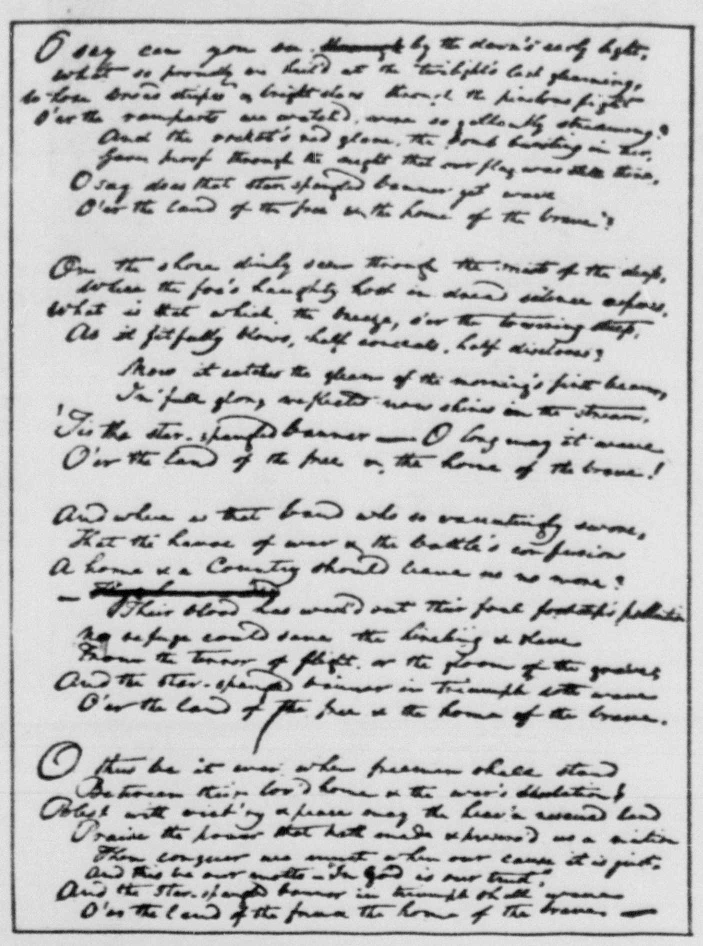
Wyatt-Brown has taught two years at Colorado State University. He has a doctorate from Johns Hopkins University, master's and bachelor's degrees from King's College, Cambridge, England, and a B. A. from the University of the South Sewanee, Tenn. He has been a Danforth Foundation Fellow and has won a John Vincent Fellowship.

Creighton, who will teach at CU's Denver Center, has B.A. and M. A. degrees from CU. He has been assistant professor at Fort Hays (Kansas) State College since 1962. He is a member of the American Historical Association.

We Celebrate Our National Anthem's 150th Birthday



HAPPY BIRTHDAY — Our national anthem, "The Star Spangled Banner," will be 150 years old today. Actually, however, it has been the official national anthem only since March 3, 1931, when it was proclaimed as such by act of Congress. It is fitting that the song was born on a note of triumph, victory and high patriotism—qualities it imparts through its exultant and majestic words and music. Scribbled on the back of an envelope by the excited young American lawyer, Francis Scott Key, the words of the song dramatically depict the valiant and successful defense of Fort McHenry and Baltimore against the fierce attack by the British fleet in the War of 1812. Key had been an eyewitness to the battle—detained by the British as a virtual prisoner while on a diplomatic mission for the United States. The music of the song was borrowed, ironically, from the nation whose defeat that night inspired Key to pen the words that have stirred Americans ever since: "Then conquer we must when our cause it is just; and this be our motto, 'In God is our trust!' And the Star Spangled Banner in triumph shall wave o'er the land of the free and the home of the brave!" A proud nation joins in saluting the national anthem on its sesquicentennial birthday anniversary.



O say can you see ~~through~~ by the dawn's early light,
What so proudly we hail'd at the twilight's last gleaming,
Whose broad stripes & bright stars through the perilous fight
O'er the ramparts we watch'd, were so gallantly streaming?
And the rocket's red glare, the bomb bursting in air,
Gave proof through the night that our flag was still there,
O say does that star-spangled banner yet wave
O'er the land of the free & the home of the brave?

On the shore dimly seen through the mists of the deep,
Where the foe's haughty host in dread silence reposes,
What is that which the breeze, o'er the towering steep,
As it fitfully blows, half conceals, half discloses?
Now it catches the gleam of the morning's first beam,
In full glory reflected now shines in the stream,
'Tis the star-spangled banner — O long may it wave
O'er the land of the free & the home of the brave!

And where is that band who so vauntingly swore,
That the havoc of war & the battle's confusion
A home & a Country should leave us no more?
— [illegible]
Their blood has wash'd out their foul footstep's pollution
No refuge could save the hireling & slave
From the terror of flight or the gloom of the grave,
And the star-spangled banner in triumph doth wave
O'er the land of the free & the home of the brave.

O thus be it ever when freemen shall stand
Between their lov'd home & the war's desolation!
Blest with vict'ry & peace may the heav'n rescued land
Praise the power that hath made & preserv'd us a nation!
Then conquer we must when our cause it is just,
And this be our motto — "In God is our trust,"
And the star-spangled banner in triumph shall wave
O'er the land of the free & the home of the brave —

HISTORIC WORDS—Here are the words of the Star Spangled Banner as Francis Scott Key originally wrote them on the back of an envelope, when dawn after the bombardment of Fort McHenry revealed to him that "our flag was still there."

University Hikes Summer Tuition By 12 Per Cent

BOULDER — The University of Colorado Friday increased its summer tuition an average of 12 per cent to bring summer rates more in line with those charged in the fall and spring semesters.

The Board of Regents approved a basic rate of $100 for Colorado residents and $220 for non-residents in tuition and fees for students carrying a full academic load in the 10-week summer session. The former rates were $80 for residents and $190 for non-residents.

The new rates will be effective with the summer of 1965. Tuition for fall and spring semesters is not affected by the action. CU raised fall and spring tuition last year, but did not change summer tuition at that time.

Under the new schedule students taking three to five hours of credit in the 10-week summer term will pay $80, if they are Colorado residents, and $190, if they are non-residents. The increase is $10 for residents and $20 for non-residents.

Students enrolling in one of CU's five-week summer terms will pay $50, if they are Colorado residents, and $120, if they are non-residents. The increase is $5 for residents and $10 for non-residents.

The Regents also established a flat fee of $13 for residents and $34 for non-residents per credit course hour for students taking three hours or less in the 10-week summer session, or two hours or less in the five-week summer term.

University officials estimated that the increases will bring in $83,000 in additional revenue in the summer of 1965.

Armed Forces News

By STEVE TILLMAN

WASHINGTON (Special to the Gazette Telegraph) Retired pay of the military is not subject to allotments for payment of alimony, and the pay of active duty personnel is likewise not subject to any attachment or garnishment proceedings. This ruling of the comptroller General means that a service member who is divorced cannot have his court - ordered alimony automatically extracted from his pay. In the case of the active duty member, however, the failure to pay alimony might well lead to his being dischared from the service.

While the Pentagon is considering the idea of an increase in cost of living allowance for men stationed overseas, it is quite possible that no action will be taken while the Congress is considering the allowance for certain Federal civilian employes stationed overseas. If the Federal employes in the areas specified in the Civil Service objection lose out, the military may also lose out.

A new decision of the Army says that retired Army warrant officers with active duty prior to November 12, 1918, will receive increased pay. The decision amends a provision contained in the 1942 pay act which up to now has been held applicable only to officers.

The Comptroller General has ruled that service in any grade in the old Regular Army Reserve, prior to July 1, 1949, is creditable service for computation of retired pay for Reserve retirement under Title III of PL 810.

Active duty personnel thinking of retiring after 20 years may be interested in a little understood provision of the law. If the service is exactly 20 years on the date of retirement, the retired pay will be computed on 18 years for pay purposes. This serves to reduce the amount of retired pay by 5 per cent.

A new ruling of the Air Force will allow AF club members visiting on base from another base, to cash personal checks in the same amount as is authorized for members on duty at the base.

Sen. Johnson, chairman of the Senate Civil Service Committee, is hopeful that the 30-55 retirement bill for federal civilian employes will pass in 1965. Present plans do not call for the measure to be retroactive, which may bring on a floor fight by supporters of already retired empliyes.

Effective March 31, 1965, Air Force officers assigned to duty in the Washington area will be required to own an informal white uniform. Navy and Marine Corps officers now have whites, so if the Air Force requires this uniform for Washington duty the Army may follow suit.

There will a big fight in the November convention of the Retired Officers Association over a proposal by the "Old Guard" to clean out several hundred thousands of dollars in the organization treasury to buy annuities for four employes that are reportedly scheduled for retirement. In most organizations, when an employe has outlived his usefulness, he is given seperation pay in the form of a stipulated number of months of pay. This may be the answer that the Retired Officers Association will adopt.

The Civil Service Commission is opposed to continued payment of cost of living allowances to Federal employes in Hawaii. The Commission contends that the allowances are no longer necessary due to recent raises in pay of the employes. It is anticipated that the Commission will recommend to Congress that the allowances be either discontinued, or greatly curtailed. In the interim there will be no changes made.

Washington hears from reliable sources that Secretary of State Dean Rusk will resign from the Cabinet after the new term of President Johnson, if he is elected, begins. These same sources say that Ambassdor Henry Cabot Lodge, a Reserve Army Major General, and diplomat, as well as a recent Vice President aspirant on the Republican ticket, will be his successor.

Few members of the Retired Officers Association realize that they do not vote for the president of the organization or any other elective official, except for the board of directors. The board of directors elect the president. This is the reason, according to leaders among retired officers here, that there has been a "one-man" rule for so many years. This is expected to change in November.

Annual Band Day Due at CU Oct. 3

BOULDER—More than 6,000 young musicians from junior and senior high schools in Colorado, Kansas, Nebraska and Wyoming are expected to attend the University of Colorado's 22nd annual Band Day Oct. 3.

About 100 bands will march through downtown Boulder in a two-hour morning parade. After the parade they will perform in CU's Folsom Stadium during the CU-Kansas State football game.

The bands will compete in a maneuvering festival and a parade festival, according to Prof. Hugh McMillen, director of bands, and will be judged on the basis of musicianship, marching ability and over-all appearance.

City Director Has Article In Trade Mag

An article explaining the service form for the Colorado Springs Department of Public Works, by M. R. Pearce, director of the department, is in the September issue of "Colorado Municipalities" published by the Colorado Municipal League.

This is the eighth annual public works issue and contains articles on public works by city administrators throughout the state.

The five by eight-inch form to give the public better service is called a service request as is in quadruplicate with snap-out carbons.

The first copy is white and for the person originating a request. Remaining copies are pink, green and yellow. The yellow slip goes to the department head which will service the request. Pink and green copies are referred to the division head or foreman responsible for the work. The green copy is passed to the crew chief whose men will do the work.

Upon completion of work, the crew chief writes a report on the green copy and returns it to the division chief who enters a report. He files the green copy and returns the pink copy to the department head, who sends the pink copy to the originator of the request.

"This sounds quite complicated, and possibly cumbersome, but actually it is very simple and the important result is that it really works," writes Pearce.

"Not only has the number of this type of complaint been markedly reduced," explained Pearce, "but the man responsible for doing the job knows exactly what is expected of him as all of his work orders are in writing.

"He knows too that he will not be blamed for someone's failing to remember."

Josephine Brennan Died Here Sunday

Mrs. Josephine Brennan, 825 S. Hancock St., died Sunday at 88 at a local nursing home. She had been a resident of Colorado Springs since 1952 and was a member of the Catholic Church.

Mrs. Brennan was born in St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 30, 1875. She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Josephine Foulds, of Phoenix, Ariz., and a son, George J. Brennan, St. Louis, Mo.

'Welcome Week' Opens For New CSU Students

FORT COLLINS — New students now arriving on the Colorado State University campus will find their first week a well-planned one. More than 60 returning CS students spent the past week of their own time planning events for "Welcome Week."

At CSU "Welcome Week" is a heavy schedule of social and academic activities, planned to orientate the new student on all phases of his or her college life for the next nine months. More than 2,500 new freshmen are expected at CSU this quarter.

Activities officially began at 10 a.m. Sunday when 100 student leaders will take small groups of the new students on tours of the campus. In addition, an open house at the Student Center will be from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Parents of the new students were not forgotten. They heard various CSU officials at an assembly at the Student Center Ballroom at 3 p.m.

At 7:45 p.m. CSU President illiam E. Morgan held his annual assembly in the men's gymnasium, welcoming students to the campus. This address was carried over KCSU-FM (90.9 mc), marking the official opening of CSU's new FM radio station.

Morgan again spoke to new students at 8 a.m. today when "Welcome Week" swings into high gear with the first orientation assembly.

Numerous assemblies, foreign student English tests, engineering examinations, the first step of registration, open house at fraternities and language placement tests completes today's schedule. The day ends with an all school barbecue at 5 p.m. in the residence halls area, followed by an Independent Student Assn. mixer from 8 to 12 p.m. at the Stuent Center ballroom.

Tuesday's agenda includes additional registration procedures and two special services assemblies.

Wednesday the group of new students will hear Dr. Harold Taylor, noted education expert, speak on "You the Student" from 8:30 a.m. to 11 a.m. at the Student Center ballroom. Dr. Taylor is former president of Sarah Lawrence College and former host for the TV series, "Meet the Professor." A discussion will follow the lecture.

Also stated for Wednesday is a fashion show from 2 to 4 p.m. by the Associated Women Students (AWS) organization at the Student Center. Open house at the six CSU colleges is from 4 to 5:15 p.m. and an Aggie Haylofter Dance will be from 8 to 10:45 p.m. at the ballroom.

Another orientation assembly, tours of the Foothills Campus and an AWS transfer women's tea are planned for Thursday.

Friday the group will attend another orientation assembly and hear a discussion entitled, "A Look at Your Student Government" at 10 a.m. in the ballroom. Residence Halls special events are planned from 1 to 4 p.m. Friday, followed by a Science and Arts mixer from 8 to 12 p.m. in the ballroom of the Student Center.

Saturday the group will have the option of going on busses to the CSU - Wyoming football game at Laramie with the Alpha Gamma Rho dance planned for 9 to 12 p.m. at the CSU ballroom that night ending the festivities.

Dave Heerwagen, senior from 1688 Cody, Lakewood, and Miss Elaine Marousek, senior from Downers Grove, Ill., are cochairmen o this year's "Welcome Week" committee which planned all events.

Classes begin Sept. 21.

Golf Equipment Valued At $500 Stolen Here

Sixteen golf clubs, a pair of shoes, and a golf bag and cart worth a total of $500 were stolen from Jerry A. Bills, 18 Lake Ave. the sheriff's office reported over the week-end.

According to Broadmoor Police Officer Floyd Miller, the equipment was kept in the garage which was unlocked.

Local Jaycees to Take Part In Olympic Torch Carry

The Colorado Springs Junior Chamber of Commerce is participating in the largest promotional project ever undertaken by the national Jaycees — a coast to coast running of the Olympic torch.

The project is being undertaken to raise funds for the United States Olympic Team which will compete for international honors in Tokyo.

The U.S. Jaycees will turn over to President Johnson all funds collected as a result of this "Run for the Money" Sept. 26 at the Los Angeles Coliseum during the half-time of the UCLA - Penn State football game.

The Jaycees have pledged $1 million to the Olympic Fund. The "Run for the Money," will cross the continent from New York to Los Angeles.

New York Mayor Robert Wagner lit the Olympic torch on Sept. 1.

The local Jaycees have until Sept. 20 to collect funds for their share of the national pledge. Officials here said that a local goal will be announced later.

The distance to be covered is 16,658,100 feet and if three feet per stride is allocated, it will take 5,552,800 strides to reach Los Angeles. This comes to 18 cents per stride if the Jaycees want to meet their goal.

Persons desiring to donate may call 635-1551.

Girl Scout Effort Studied by UF Unit Member

Camping, individual volunteer work and troop work are the incentives for more than 5000 Pikes Peak Region girls to put on the uniform of the Girl Scouts in one of the four age levels. . Brownie, Junior, Cadette and Senior Scouts. Safford Hermann of the Colorado Springs National Bank and volunteer member of the Admissions and Allocations Committee of the Pikes Peak United Fund learned this during his study of this agency.

While the scouts themselves contribute to the cost of the proprogram through membership dues, the United Fund allocated 30,000 last year to coordinate the program and help the Wagon Wheel Council carry scouting to new areas.

The enthusiasm of scouts for living out of doors is probably one of the reasons for the big family camping booms so evident in this part of the country, Dorothy Neal, Girl Scout executive director, believes.

Almost half of the girls in the second, third and fourth grades in the region are Brownies. As the girls grow older and develop new interests, the ratio grows smaller until just one in 35 high school girls are senior scouts. At this age group the girls are veteran campers. Their campsites show ingenuity and some of the comforts of home.

Back in the community the senior scouts have new opportunities for volunteer work, ranging from hospital aides in which they have participated for many years to a new field in public relations and ranger aide training.

Helping the Department of Parks and Recreation in a variety of ways have given several senior scouts an opportunity to learn more about this phase of community life.

A trefoil design of marigolds, illuminated at night was planted and maintained throughout the summer by the scouts. Several seniors have served as volunteers in handicapped bowling programs and in the monthly recreational outing for teenaged retarded children.

One of the girls found working with the handicapped so absorbing that she became a counseler in training at Handicamp during the summer.

Most appealing to Hermann is the leadership development and the awareness of community needs which takes place as the girls advance in scouting. It will be the responsibility of Hermann and other members of the United Fund Admissions and Allocations Committee to determine the most equitable distribution funds raised in the campaign for $484,800.

New Hope School At Forence Set To Open Today

New Hope school is to open today but the day school for the training of handicapped persons has had to postpone its opening until adequate covering is obtained for the splintery floor.

Saturday, Sept. 5, a festive "f oor laying" was held at New Hope (Brookside School) at 8 a.m.

Otherwise New Hope is getting off to a good start. Eighteen students are now in process of being enrolled. Classes have workers on their part of the training program. This group consists of specialists in arts and crafts, ceramics, music, and rhythm. They give from three to fifteen hours per week, depending upon their rsponsibilities elsewhere.

Those who have decided to assist the program are Jean Stephens, Penrose; Cecilia and Lena Falgien, Florence; Oletta Coffee; Ione Beatty, Karen Hahn, Marge Jones, Jesse Bone, Zasel Oberhelman, Bertha Seay, and Vera Meks, Canon City. Several others are considering giving service.

An evaluating committee of disinterested persons is being formed for the purpose of observing and reporting the progress of the program and the individual devlopment taking place. The members of the c mittee will have no connection with New Hope other than making their evaluations.

New Hope School At Forence Set To Open Today

New Hope school is to open today but the day school for the training of handicapped persons has had to postpone its opening until adequate covering is obtained for the splintery floor.

Saturday, Sept. 5, a festive "floor laying" was held at New Hope (Brookside School) at 8 a.m.

Otherwise New Hope is getting off to a good start. Eighteen students are now in process of being enrolled. Classes have workers on their part of the training program. This group consists of specialists in arts and crafts, ceramics, music, and rhythm. They give from three to fifteen hours per week, depending upon their rsponsibilities elsewhere.

Those who have decided to assist the program are Jean Stephens, Penrose; Cecilia and Lena Falgien, Florence; Oletta Coffee; Ione Beatty, Karen Hahn, Marge Jones, Jesse Bone, Zasel Oberhelman, Bertha Seay, and Vera Meks, Canon City. Several others are considering giving service.

Two Pekingese Dogs Wander From Home

Mrs. Leroy Field, 1137 Pando St., Saturday night reported that her two dogs had wandered from home and she was unable to trace them.

The two were a Pekingese female named Cocoa, and a Pekinese-Chihuahua mix not quite a year old and named HeyBoy, she said.

Mrs. Field said that someone had left the yard gate open and the dogs took off early Saturday. The Humane Society had not found the dogs Saturday night, she said.

"I worried about you all summer!"

Looking at Hollywood

By HEDDA HOPPER

© 1964: By the Chicago Tribune

HOLLYWOOD — The London Press went all out for Red Skelton; called him the Pied Piper of fun. "He's the wackiest American in England, a genuine, original fool. At 51, he is a colossus in international comedy. All the other comedians weep into their scripts with tears of envy and sometimes tears of helpless laughter at his show. now swinging into its 14th consecutive year in one form or another. Nobody's been able to touch that record. Yet here his funny face is known only to those who remember his old movies. He never stopped joking until I asked why his show, with such an incredible record, has never been shown in Britain. 'I don't know,' he said. 'It's all rather sad.' " The writer agreed.

PAT O'BRIEN's beautiful 18-year-old daughter, Kathleen Brigid, entered Marymount convent in Santa Barbara, and the boy she'd been dating, Paul Selliga, went into a Jesuit order. The O'Briens thought Kathleen was leaning towards a show business career, but Pat says she's been considering the religious life since she was nine. Pat and Eloise are off to Chicago for seven weeks. They'll be there when his book "The Wind at My Back" comes out. . . . Lorena Mayer Nidorf's daughter, Suzanne (her father was the late Danny Danker), spent 22 months in a convent back East, then called her mother to say she would be home in a couple of days. Lorena didn't know that meant she was withdrawing from the convent, and said, "But I just sent you some cookies." Suzanne laughed and said, "Mother, should I wait for them?" She considers the experience the greatest of her life; is now working at St. John's hospital.

TUESDAY WELD finally made it—21 years. I don't remember how it feels to be that young. But Sue (Lolita) Lyon does. She's 18. She is off for a three weeks visit to Australia to plug 'Iguana.'" . . . Jane Fonda bought herself a farmhouse near Paris and is busy reconstructing it. I have a hunch we won't be seeing too much of her . . . The story about Garbo returning to the screen as a nun isn't true . . . Arthur Godfrey, in his first go at summer stock, got a standing ovation and rave reviews for "Our Town" at Bucks County playhouse . . Dick Chamberlain remains a bachelor but hundreds of girls still try. Ditto Dr. Casey.

ROD TAYLOR's a pap; Liz Montgomery, Bob's daughter, is a mama. The birth rate is exploding all over the world, so why eypect Hollywood to lag . . . . Jimmy Roosevelt says he doesn't want Mayor Yorty's job. Smart fellow. Sam's too popular . . . Frankie Avalon is so good in "I'll Take Sweden" Bob Hope signed him for two of his weekly shows. He'll sing in one — go serious in the other . . . Liza minelli called mother, Judy Garland, in London and played her new album "Liza, Liza" over the phone. Judy told her she'd be home soon.

TOM HELMORE, starring in "My Fair Lady" in San Diego, wrote a story called "Affair" which Jimmy Woolf bought for the screen. Good news to hear that Reggie Gardine, was a riot in the play . . . Joan Crawford so taken with Rancho Santa Fe that she's thinking of buying a home there. The Bob Youngs and Vic Matures have made that spot their permanent home for the past five years . . . Joe Cotten's wife, Patricia Medina, had a serious operation, came out of the hospital too soon, and had to return.

Car Looted Friday Of Items Worth $160

An electric skillet and other cooking equipment worth a total of $160 was stolen from a locked car belonging to Dave Kenneth Dawling of the Pike View Trailer Court police said Saturday.

The incident happened Friday and the vehicle was parked on East Vermijo Street. Entry was made by breaking one of the windows.

Asthma Formula Prescribed Most By Doctors—Available Now Without Prescription

Stops Attacks in Minutes . . . Relief Lasts for Hours!

New York, N. Y. (Special)—The asthma formula prescribed more than any other by doctors for their private patients is now available to asthma sufferers without prescription.

Medical tests proved this formula stops asthma attacks in minutes and gives hours of freedom from recurrence of painful asthma spasms.

This formula is so effective that it is the physician's leading asthma prescription—so safe when used as directed that now it can be sold—without prescription in most states—in tiny tablets called Primatene®. These Primatene Tablets open bronchial tubes, loosen congestion, relieve taut nervous tension. All without painful injections.

The secret is—Primatene combines 3 medicines (in full prescription strength) found most effective in combination for asthma distress. Each performs a special purpose.

So look forward to sleep at night, and freedom from asthma spasms. Get Primatene at any druggist. Adv.

SCSC President Appoints Eight to College Faculty

President Marvin C. Knudson of Southern Colorado State College announced the appointment of eight new faculty members for the 1964-1965 year. The appointments were previously approved by the Board of Trustees of State Colleges in Colorado.

Stanley L. Malcolm will serve as admissions counselor. He received both his BS and MS degrees from Emporia State Teacher's College, Emporia, Kan., and has done advance study at the University of Denver and Stanford University. Malcolm's experience includes public school work in Kansas as a junior high and elementary school principal and superintendent of schools. He also served as junior high school principal in Englewood, Colo. He came from South Dakota, where last year he was the state manager of an insurance company. He was also an admissions counselor in St. Louis, Mo. for a new junior college district.

Joining the education and psychology department of SCSC is Charles E. Hostetlet, who for the past nine years has been assistant superintendent of schools, Littleton, Colo. He was an elementary school principal at Ft. Lupton and Bristol, Colo. also, and junior high school principal at Granada, Colo. He served in the U.S. Navy during World War II. Hostetler received both his BA and MA degrees from Colorado State College, Greeley, and he has done advanced work at the University of Denver. He is a graduate of Lamar Junior College and Springfield High School.

Three new instructors will join the division of history and social sciences at SCSC. Dr. Dwaine T. Ervin will teach history. He has been professor of history and chemistry at Central Methodist College, Fayette, Mo., for the past seven years. Dr. Ervin taught history at North Dakota State University from 1947 to 1957. He had previosly taught at Boise Junior College, Kemper Military School and Rocky Ford, Colo., High School. He received his Ph.D. degree from the University of Colorado in 1958 where he had previously earned both his BA and MA degrees. He is a graduate of South Denver High School.

Wallace R. Stealey, who is working toward his Ph.D. degree, will teach political science at SCSC. He comes to Pueblo from Arkansas Polytechnic, where he taught political science thepast year. In 1963 he was a teaching associate at Colorado University and in 1961-62 he was a teaching assistant at Western state College. Stealey earned his MA degree from Western State College and his BA degree from Westminster College in Salt Lake City. He is a graduate of Fort Lewis Junior College. His hometown is Ouray, Colo.

Also joining the political science department this year is George C. Kiser who has been a teaching assistant at the University of Wisconsin the past year. He had, for two years previously, been a teaching assistant at Northwestern University. Kiser is working toward his MA degree at the University of Wisconsin. He received his BA degree from Berea College, Berea, Ky in 1961. He is a graduate of Ervinton High School, Nora, Va.

A Pueblo Catholic High graduate, Miss Glee Ann Smilanich, will doin the chemistry department this year as an instructor. She attended the University of Colorado summer session this year, after having received her BA degree last June from Colorado State College. She previously had attended Colorado College and Seton School of Nursing. She served as assistant chemistry lab supervisor while attending Colorado State College.

Samuel E. Rhoads, a graduate of North Denver High School, will become an instructor in the SCSC mathematics department this fall. Rhoads received his MS degree from the University of Wyoming last spring and his BA degree from Western State College in 1962. He also studied at the University of Colorado. While attending the University of Wyoming he served as a part-time instructor.

Mrs. Miriam K. Aguilar will join the SCSC staff as an instructor in the women's physical education department. She has traveled the past two years in Europe while serving as a program director in recreation for the U.S. Army. Mrs. Aguilar taught at Susquehanna University in Pennsylvania previous to her work in Europe. She was also head of the women's health and physical education department at Blackburn College, Carlinville, Ill.

New YMCA Swim Schedule Goes Into Effect Now

The fall and winter schedule of swimming instruction at the YMCA is now in effect. The only requirement for anyone wishing to participate in the program is that they have a current "Y" membership.

Don't Sideline Yourself With Unsafe Driving

If you're planning to attend football games this fall, drive safely — or you may find yourself sidelined or in the "dead" end zone.

A drive to and from a college football game can be safe and pleasant if fans take certain precautions well in advance and follow certain basic rules of good driving, advises A. S. Johnson, Jr., Rocky Mountain regional manager of the Allstate Motor Club in Denver.

"Planning your trip should include a thorough check of the car's condition, especially brakes, lights and windshield wipers," Johnson says. "And always allow enough time to make the trip without rushing or taking chances."

An advance look at a large scale map will refresh a fan's memories of the best way to reach the campus and stadium.

When one approaches the stadium area, special care should be taken to observe all traffic laws. Watch for police directing traffic at busy corners. Plan ahead and signal for turns. Keep alert for parking facilities.

After the game, take it easy in heavy traffic. Watch for dangerous road conditions where other cars or the weather are creating accident hazards.

Finally, Johnson recommends that fans postpone their celebrations until they complete their driving if the festive occasion includes intoxicating beverages. Postgame traffic, shorter days and excitement combine to pose special dangers to all motorists. The addition of alchol to this condition is deadly, just as drinking drivers are accident hazards throughout the year.

The Netherlands is now the most densely settled country in Europe, with 900 inhabitants to the square mile.

Academy Wife Trades Glamor For Housework

The wife of an Air Force Academy staff member did just that — and she's mighty happy about her decision!

Mrs. Sharon Rosane, wife of Capt. Edwin L. Rosane, aide to the Commandant of Cadets Brig. Gen. Robert W. Strong, performed as a water skiier in the Cypress Garden shows just a few years ago.

In addition to the daily performances at the gardens, Sharon was a busy photographer's model. Her pictures appeared on the covers of many magazines.

Second sequence of the commercial — removing the grime accumulated in the fall with the sponsor's product — was filmed in New York.

In late 1960 Sharon met a young Air Force officer who had just graduated from the Academy and was attending pilot training in Florida. The Rosances were married in 1960 and now have a son, Bret.

Does she miss the limelight, the TV cameras, the thrill of performing before large crowds?

"It was nice for a while," Mrs. Rosane says, "but I'm happier now as an Air Force officer's wife!"

MADRID—Plastic bottles and jars for cosmetics will be sold soon in Spain.

Two Pekingese Dogs Wander From Home

Mrs. Leroy Field, 1137 Pando St., Saturday night reported that her two dogs had wandered from home and she was unable to trace them.

The two were a Pekingese female named Cocoa, and a Pekinese-Chihuahua mix not quite a year old and named HeyBoy, she said.

Mrs. Field said that someone had left the yard gate open and the dogs took off early Saturday. The Humane Society had not found the dogs Saturday night, she said.

"I worried about you all summer!"

Looking at Hollywood

By HEDDA HOPPER

© 1964: By the Chicago Tribune

HOLLYWOOD — The London Press went all out for Red Skelton; called him the Pied Piper of fun. "He's the wackiest American in England, a genuine, original fool. At 51, he is a colossus in international comedy. All the other comedians weep into their scripts with tears of envy and sometimes tears of helpless laughter at his show. now swinging into its 14th consecutive year in one form or another. Nobody's been able to touch that record. Yet here his funny face is known only to those who remember his old movies. He never stopped joking until I asked why his show, with such an incredible record, has never been shown in Britain. 'I don't know,' he said. 'It's all rather sad.' " The writer agreed.

PAT O'BRIEN's beautiful 18-year - old daughter, Kathleen Brigid, entered Marymount convent in Santa Barbara, and the boy she'd been dating, Paul Selliga, went into a Jesuit order. The O'Briens thought Kathleen was leaning towards a show business career, but Pat says she's been considering the religious life since she was nine. Pat and Eloise are off to Chicago for seven weeks. They'll be there when his book "The Wind at My Back" comes out.

. . . .Lorena Mayer Nidorf's daughter, Suzanne (her father was the late Danny Danker), spent 22 months in a convent back East, then called her mother to say she would be home in a couple of days. Lorena didn't know that meant she was withdrawing from the convent, and said, "But I just sent you some cookies." Suzanne laughed and said, "Mother, should I wait for them?" She considers the experience the greatest of her life; is now working at St. John's hospital.

TUESDAY WELD finally made it—21 years. I don't remember how it feels to be that young. But Sue (Lolita) Lyon does. She's 18. She is off for a three weeks visit to Australia to plug 'Iguana." . . . .Jane Fonda bought herself a farmhouse near Paris and is busy reconstructing it. I have a hunch we won't be seeing too much of her . . .The story about Garbo returning to the screen as a nun isn't true . . .Arthur Godfrey, in his first go at summer stock, got a standing ovation and rave reviews for "Our Town" at Bucks County playhouse . . Dick Chamberlain remains a bachelor but hundreds of girls still try. Ditto Dr. Casey.

ROD TAYLOR's a pap; Liz Montgomery, Bob's daughter, is a mama. The birth rate is exploding all over the world, so why eypect Hollywood to lag . . . .Jimmy Roosevelt says he doesn't want Mayor Yorty's job. Smart fellow. Sam's too popular . . . .Frankie Avalon is so good in "I'll Take Sweden" Bob Hope signed him for two of his weekly shows. He'll sing in one — go serious in the other . . .Liza minelli called mother, Judy Garland, in London and played her new album "Liza, Liza" over the phone. Judy told her she'd be home soon.

TOM HELMORE, starring in "My Fair Lady" in San Diego, wrote a story called "Affair" which Jimmy Woolf bought for the screen. Good news to hear that Reggie Gardine, was a riot in the play . . .Joan Crawford so taken with Rancho Santa Fe that she's thinking of buying a home there. The Bob Youngs and Vic Matures have made that spot their permanent home for the past five years . . .Joe Cotten's wife, Patricia Medina, had a serious operation, came out of the hospital too soon, and had to return.

Car Looted Friday Of Items Worth $160

An electric skillet and other cooking equipment worth a total of $160 was stolen from a locked car belonging to Dave Kenneth Dawling of the Pike View Trailer Court police said Saturday.

The incident happened Friday and the vehicle was parked on East Vermijo Street. Entry was made by breaking one of the windows.

Asthma Formula Prescribed Most By Doctors—Available Now Without Prescription
Stops Attacks in Minutes . . . Relief Lasts for Hours!
New York, N. Y. (Special)—The asthma formula prescribed more than any other by doctors for their private patients is now available to asthma sufferers without prescription.
Medical tests proved this formula stops asthma attacks in minutes and gives hours of freedom from recurrence of painful asthma spasms.
This formula is so effective that it is the physician's leading asthma prescription—so safe when used as directed that now it can be sold—without prescription in most states—in tiny tablets called Primatene®. These Primatene Tablets open bronchial tubes, loosen congestion, relieve taut nervous tension. All without painful injections.
The secret is—Primatene combines 3 medicines (in full prescription strength) found most effective in combination for asthma distress. Each performs a special purpose.
So look forward to sleep at night, and freedom from asthma spasms. Get Primatene at any drugstore.

SCSC President Appoints Eight to College Faculty

President Marvin C. Knudson of Southern Colorado State College announced the appointment of eight new faculty members for the 1964-1965 year. The appointments were previously approved by the Board of Trustees of State Colleges in Colorado.

Stanley L. Malcolm will serve as admissions counselor. He received both his BS and MS degrees from Emporia State Teacher's College, Emporia, Kan., and has done advance study at the University of Denver and Stanford University. Malcolm's experience includes public school work in Kansas as a junior high and elementary school principal and superintendent of schools. He also served as junior high school principal in Englewood, Colo. He came from South Dakota, where last year he was the state manager of an insurance company. He was also an admissions counselor in St. Louis, Mo. for a new junior college district.

Joining the education and psychology department of SCSC is Charles E. Hostetlet, who for the past nine years has been assistant superintendent of schools, Littleton, Colo. He was an elementary school principal at Ft. Lupton and Bristol, Colo. also, and junior high school principal at Granada, Colo. He served in the U.S. Navy during World War II. Hostetler received both his BA and MA degrees from Colorado State College, Greeley, and he has done advanced work at the University of Denver. He is a graduate of Lamar Junior College and Springfield High School.

Three new instructors will join the division of history and social sciences at SCSC. Dr. Dwaine T. Ervin will teach history. He has been professor of history and chemistry at Central Methodist College, Fayette, Mo., for the past seven years. Dr. Ervin taught history at North Dakota State University from 1947 to 1957. He had previosly taught at Boise Junior College, Kemper Military School and Rocky Ford, Colo., High School. He received his Ph.D. degree from the University of Colorado in 1953 where he had previously earned both his BA and MA degrees. He is a graduate of South Denver High School.

Wallace R. Stealey, who is working toward his Ph.D. degree, will teach political science at SCSC. He comes to Pueblo from Arkansas Polytechnic, where he taught political science thepast year. In 1963 he was a teaching associate at Colorado University and in 1961-62 he was a teaching assistant at Western state College. Stealey earned his MA degree from Western State College and his BA degree from Westminster College in Salt Lake City. He is a graduate of Fort Lewis Junior College. His hometown is Ouray, Colo.

Also joining the political science department this year is George C. Kiser who has been a teaching assistant at the University of Wisconsin the past year. He had, for two years previously, been a teaching assistant at Northwestern University. Kiser is working toward his MA degree at the University of Wisconsin. He received his BA degree from Berea College, Berea, Ky in 1961. He is a graduate of Ervinton High School, Nora, Va.

A Pueblo Catholic High graduate, Miss Glee Ann Smilanich, will doin the chemistry department this year as an instructor. She attended the University of Colorado summer session this year, after having received her BA degree last June from Colorado State College. She previously had attended Colorado College and Seton School of Nursing. She served as assistant chemistry lab supervisor while attending Colorado State College.

Samuel E. Rhoads, a graduate of North Denver High School, will become an instructor in the SCSC mathematics department this fall. Rhoads received his MS degree from the University of Wyoming last spring and his BA degree from Western State College in 1962. He also studied at the University of Colorado. While attending the University of Wyoming he served as a part-time instructor.

Mrs. Miriam K. Aguilar will join the SCSC staff as an instructor in the women's physical education department. She has traveled the past two years in Europe while serving as a program director in recreation for the U.S. Army. Mrs. Aguilar taught at Susquehanna University in Pennsylvania previous to her work in Europe. She was also head of the women's health and physical education department at Blackburn College, Carlinville, Ill.

Don't Sideline Yourself With Unsafe Driving

If you're planning to attend football games this fall, drive safely — or you may find yourself sidelined or in the "dead" end zone.

A drive to and from a college football game can be safe and pleasant if fans take certain precautions well in advance and follow certain basic rules of good driving, advises A. S. Johnson, Jr., Rocky Mountain regional manager of the Allstate Motor Club in Denver.

"Planning your trip should include a thorough check of the car's condition, especially brakes, lights and windshield wipers," Johnson says. "And always allow enough time to make the trip without rushing or taking chances."

An advance look at a large scale map will refresh a fan's memories of the best way to reach the campus and stadium.

When one approaches the stadium area, special care should be taken to observe all traffic laws. Watch for police directing traffic at busy corners. Plan ahead and signal for turns. Keep alert for parking facilities.

After the game, take it easy in heavy traffic. Watch for dangerous road conditions where other cars or the weather are creating accident hazards.

Finally, Johnson recommends that fans postpone their celebrations until they complete their driving if the festive occasion includes intoxicating beverages. Postgame traffic, shorter days and excitement combine to pose special dangers to all motorists. The addition of alchol to this condition is deadly, just as drinking drivers are accident hazards throughout the year.

The Netherlands is now the most densely settled country in Europe, with 900 inhabitants to the square mile.

Academy Wife Trades Glamor For Housework

Trade the glamour and excitement of appearing in television commercials and the water extravaganza at Florida's famed Cypress Gardens for the role of housewife?

The wife of an Air Force Academy staff member did just that — and she's mighty happy about her decision!

Mrs. Sharon Rosane, wife of Capt. Edwin L. Rosane, aide to the Commandant of Cadets Brig. Gen. Robert W. Strong, performed as a water skiier in the Cypress Garden shows just a few years ago.

Behind those appearances, however, lay long years of hard work. Sharon began skiing at the age of 12.

In addition to the daily performances at the gardens, Sharon was a busy photographer's model. Her pictures appeared on the covers of many magazines.

Highlight of her career as a Sharon was chosen to perform in a television commercial. She had to swing from a platform in a cypress tree 25 feet above the water.

Second sequence of the commercial — removing the grime accumulated in the fall with the sponsor's product — was filmed in New York.

In late 1959 Sharon met a young Air Force officer who had just graduated from the Academy and was attending pilot training in Florida. The Rosances were married in 1960 and now have a son, Bret.

Does she miss the limelight, the TV cameras, the thrill of performing before large crowds?

"It was nice for a while," Mrs. Rosane says, "but I'm happier now as an Air Force officer's wife!"

MADRID—Plastic bottles and jars for cosmetics will be sold soon in Spain.

AFCEA to Hear Colonel Miele On Thursday

The Rocky Mountain Chapter of the Armed Forces Communication and Electronics Association (AFCEA), will meet Thursday at the Air Force Academy Officers' Club.

Dinner will be served at 8 p.m. Following dinner, Col. Alfonse R. Miele, professor of foreign languages at the Air Force Academy, will speak on semantics, the problems of language communications, and inter-culture understanding.

Colonel Miele received his AB degree from Fordham University in New York City in 1942 with honors in romance languages.

He received his MA in 1947 and his PHD in 1958 from Columbia University.

He holds the Bronze Star Medal with V Clasp, the EAM-ECM Campaign Medal with five battle stars, the Victor Medal, the American Theater Medal, the National Defense Medal, the Army of Occupation Medal, the the Belgian Fourragere.

In 1962 Colonel Miele was honored with the Encaenia award for outstanding achievement by Fordham University.

By CHARLES H. GOREN

Q. 1—As South you hold:
Spades, Q-3; Hearts, A-6-5; Diamonds, K-10-9-3; Clubs, 7-4-3-2.

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 Spd.	Pass	1 N.T.	Pass
2 Spds.	Pass	?

WHAT DO YOU BID NOW?

A. — Three spades. Despite partner's minimum sounding rebid, a push to game is in order. You have a near maximum North very likely has a six card suit, since he had an opportunity to show another suit at a convenient level and yet failed to do so. The queen-small may therefore be considered as ample trump support.

Q. 2—As South you hold:
Spades, K-Q-J-4-3; Hearts, K-10-7-5-2; Clubs, Q-5-3.

Your partner has opened the bidding with one no trump. What is your response?

A.—Three spades, and if partner's rebid is three no trump you will bid four hearts to offer him a choice of suits. There is no need to use the club convention when you hold two five card majors.

Q. 3—As South you hold:
Spades, A-J-9-6-5; Hearts, 3-2; Diamonds, Q-6; Clubs, K-10-9-3.

The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 Hrt.	2 Dia.	2 Hrts.	?

What do you bid?

A.—Two spades. If North can fit the spades there may be a chance for game in the major suit, and South might just as well try to improve matters for he is prepared to have his partner return to diamonds.

Q. 4—As South you hold:
Spades, 7-4-2; Hearts, A-J-9-6-3-2; Diamonds, A-4; Clubs, 5-2.

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 Clb.	Pass	1 Hrt.	Pass
1 Spd.	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Two hearts. While a forward move must be made, the hand does not qualify for a jump bid of any kind. Unless partner can bid again there will not be a very good play for game.

.Q 5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
Spades, A-Q-J-10-6-2; Hearts, Q-6-2; Diamonds, 4; Clubs, A-K-5.

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 Spd.	2 Dia.	Dbl.	Pass

What do you bid now?

A. — Though your partner wishes to play for a penalty and probably has no support in the spade suit, you should take matters into your own hands and head toward game. The proper rebid is a jump to three spades. A mere rebid of two spades would indicate merely a dissatisfaction with the double.

Q. 6—As South you hold:
Spades, A-K-J; Hearts, 7-2; Diamonds, 8-5-3; Clubs, Q-J-7-5-4.

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 Spd	Pass	2 Clbs.	Pass
2 Hrts.	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—True proper call is two spades. Some players will bolt at this suggestion on the grounds that this would be a mere preference instead of a raise. It doesn't much matter by what name you call it as partner will realize that you have a fairly good hand from the fact that you first took the trouble to bid two clubs.

Q. 7—As South you hold:
Spades, 2; Hearts, Q-5-3; Diamonds, A-10-6-4; Clubs, A-Q-10-5-3.

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 Spd.	Pass	2 Clbs.	Pass
2 Hrts.	Pass	2 N.T.	Pass
3 Clbs.	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A. — Three diamonds. The hope for a slam could not be abandoned. Partner is marked with a singleton diamond and now that he has shown club support a slam should be contemplated in that suit.

Q. 8 — As South, vulnerable, you hold:
Spades, J-10-8-5; Hearts, 5; Diamonds, Q-7-4-3; Clubs, A-10-8-2.

The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 Hrt.	Dbl.	3 Hrts.	?

What do you bid?

A. — Three spades. Prospects for game are bright. You have nine points which is a pretty fair hand for a partner who was able to make a vulnerable take-out double, and you should not permit East's preemptive action to shut you out. Bidding the weak spade suit at this level should not deter you, for North should have good support when he doubles the other major.

South African Sports Figure Faces Charges

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — John Harris, 27, former chairman of the South African Nonracial Olympic Committee, was charged in Pretoria Supreme Court today with murder, causing a bomb explosion at Johannesburg's central railroad station on July 24, and sabotage.

He was ordered held for another hearing Sept. 21.

The state said the main charge related to the "murder of an elderly lady," apparently Ethel Rhys, 87, who died from injuries received in the bomb blast, which injured 23 other persons.

Harris, a white teacher, was not asked to plead today.

His lawyer asked for an adjournment of six weeks to prepare the defense and for Harris to be examined by a private psychiatrist. The lawyer said when he saw Harris two days ago he "appeared to be in a frame of mind which would make it difficult for him to reply to questions."

The judge said this could be decided by the judge who will try the case.

Since his arrest seven weeks ago, Harris has been held under South Africa's security law, which permits suspects to be detained for up to 90 days without charge. Murder and sabotage both carry death penalties.

'Disasters' Hurt St. Augustine's Tourist Trade

By CHARLES STAFFORD

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP) —St. Augustine, whose economy rests on the foundation of its deep, rich history, has borne one too many storms.

First there was the racial storm, then Mother Nature's.

The first boiled up in early summer when the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. sought equality for Negroes in the tourist businesses of the nation's oldest city. There was a whirlwind of violence. Tourists shunned St. Augustine.

Peace was restored with passage of the Civil Rights Act.

Then, Wednesday night, Hurricane Dora strolled the old streets, leaving a numbing amount of damage to be repaired by people whose income was deeply cut by the racial conflict.

Two days earlier, St. Augustine had noted its 399th birthday and moved into the final phases of planning for a two-year celebration of its founding. The celebration is calculated to spur a $20 million, 20-year program to restore and rebuild the St. Augustine of antiquity.

This restoration, St. Augustine's hope for a more solid tourist economy, is being carried out in the historically authentic fashion of Colonial Williamsburg, Va. It is one-[illegible] completed.

The restoration and the old fort on Matanzas Bay are the hub, with other tourist attractions on the rim: the Mission of Nombre de Dios, Fountain of Youth Park and Indian Burying Ground, the old jail, oldest school, oldest house, assorted museums.

None of the restored buildings was damaged by Dora, said Earle W. Newton, executive director of the St. Augustine Historical Restoration and Preservation Commission.

Newton said he is sure the storm will not affect the restoration or the quadricentennial, which begins New Year's Day.

Leader of Mormons Reported Recovering

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) — David O. McKay, 91-year-old leader of the world's Mormons, is continuing to recover from the heart attack he suffered Aug. 19.

A son, attorney David L. McKay, visited his father Sunday and said "he looked fine and was walking stronger than ever."

McKay has been at his Salt Lake City home since he was released from the hospital Sept. 4. He is president of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

ADC Aircrews Turn to Sport To Learn Survival Methods

The popular sport of parasailing is a matter of life and death for fighter - interceptor aircrews of the Air Defense Command.

Adopting the novel act of sport flying as part of its aircrew survival training program, ADC operations experts believe that the parasail technique will help save lives in the future.

The parasail program is designed to give jet pilots and radar observers a realistic taste of an over water bailout by providing them with the actual "Feel" of a parachute descent-something they have never before experienced.

Before the parasail program was adopted, ADC pilots and observers received only water and high altitude survival training in base swimming pools and high altitude chambers. Parachuting was not included. Now ADC training centers at Tyndall AFB, Fla., and Perrin AFB, Tex., the multi - colored, and specially vented parachutes have been added as training aids and other Air Force Commands are eyeing the program with interest.

This is the way it works: An airman, harnessed to a parasail chute, is tethered by a long rope to a boat, powered by a 150 horsepower outboard motor. The boat, takes off; the chutist takes a few steps; the air pressure builds up in the chute providing lift and pressure for the flight; and it's off into the wild blue yonder for the crew member.

The trainee climbs almost vertically to a height of abont 100 feet and is towed to a prescribed spot where he "cuts" loose and floats gently to the water at the same rate of speed of a normal parachute drop.

Once h hits the water, the chutist unharnesses himself and floats free or climbs aboard his one man raft and waits for the pickup boat or helicopter.

All ADC airmen flying in aircraft equipped with ejection seats are taking part in the parasail program. They receive three flights. The first two with only the parasail and the last with all water survival gear, which includes a one man raft. In the winter and early spring months, the aircrews will be outfitted with cold weather exposure suits.

Joint studies were conducted by other commands during the initial testing stages which were held at Tyndall AFB.

Nine Indicted For Fraud in Auto Promotion

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal grand jury indicted nine men here in an allegedly fradulent promotion of an automobile that purportedly offered radically new features at a bargain price.

Defendants in the 30-count indictment included John V. Holmes of Love Valley N.C., who has filed four damage suits, including one for $22 million, against the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The SEC had obtained a court order prohibiting Holmes and others from selling stock in Hydramotive Corp.

The indictments charged violation of the registration and anti-fraud provisions of securities laws as well as mail fraud and conspiracy under other federal statutes.

The commission has charged that Holmes sold or disposed of approximately one million shares of Hydramotive stock and that Forrest Parrott and Donald Parrott, two other defendants, sold 300,000 shares.

The indictments said the Parrotts, of Denver, Colo., Holmes, and Durward E. Willis of Atlanta controlled Hydramotive Corp. Others indicted were Jules Arfield and Robert I. Allen, both of whom served as presidents of American Capital Corp. of Washington, D. C., and stock salesmen Alan R. Rose, Harry Weintraub and Harry Kaskowitz, also known as Harry Kass.

The indictment charged that the group made fraudulent statements in pamphlets, sales letters and by telephone in a high pressure stock selling campaign.

Only a few parts for a prototype of the Hydramotive automobile had been made, the indictment said, and the corporation did not have sufficient funds or facilities to produce any models.

All four of Holmes' suits against the commission were dismissed at the district court level but he has appealed them.

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP) — Charles E. Daniel, 68, who once served an interim term in the U.S. Senate, died Sunday. He was head of the Daniel Construction Co., one of the nation's largest building firms.

Negro Voters Continue Mississippi Signing

PHILADELPHIA, Miss. (AP) — The Negro voter registration push here — which was temporarily put aside by the killing of three civil rights workers — resumes today.

Student nonviolent Coordinating Committee workers have been urging Neshoba County Negroes to apply for registration at the courthouse here.

The group's effort in these parts is relatively recent. Civil rights workers were held out of this tense east-central area during much of the "long hot summer" Mississippi project. Negro leaders said it was too dangerous.

Three civil rights workers — two whites and a Negro — disappeared here at the start of the summer project. Their bodies were found buried in a red clay watershed dam.

All three had been shot. A private autopsy report said the Negro, 21-year-old James Chaney, 21, of Meridian, Miss., suffered a beating which shattered many of the bones in his body. The state autopsy report was never made public.

No arrests have been made. [illegible]

The other dead men were Andrew Goodman, 20, and Michael Schwerner, 24, both of New York City. Goodman had just arrived as a summer volunteer when he was killed.

OFF INTO THE WILD BLUE—Pilot is lifted up by the specially designed parasail after it billows out. The parasail is specially designed to lift the pilot up quickly once the air pressure builds up in its canopy. (Air Force Photo)

PULLED ABOARD—MUCH WISER — The student is pulled aboard the pickup boat much wiser on the art of over-water bailout. During his training, the pilot has learned all survival procedures from the feel of floating to the water to climbing aboard a one man raft. The parasail training program is designed to give pilots and observers a realistic look at over-water bailouts and water survival techniques. (Air Force Photo)

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

I have always kept a jar in the medicine cabinet for my husband's used razor blades. Today, when looking for a new jar, I spied an empty beverage can with a flip-top opener, and decided it was just the thing.

The razor blades slide through the opening just as slick as you please, and the can fits perfectly in the medicine cabinet. (I am going to spray the can to match my bathroom decor.)

I now have a safe, disposable, holder for used razor blades. And you should see how "many" blades the can holds. —Mrs. Thomas Lancie

Gals, this is a wonderful safety factor, too . . . eliminates the possibility of broken glass on the bathroom floor.

I dropped a glass jar the other day and it went into a thousand pieces all over the floor . . .

Thanks to you all for teaching me to use wet toilet tissue to pick up all the microscopic bits of glass. "Never" use a broom or mop to pick up broken glass. Tiny particles "stick" to mops and brooms and this is dangerous.

That very day I covered all glass bottles with adhesive-backed plastic paper, so that if one is ever dropped again, there will be no dangerous unseen bits of glass "or" a mess to clean up. This adhesive-backed paper may be removed from any bottle and used over and over again.

And while we are on the subject of razor blades, do you know that you can rinse a safety razor under hot water to remove the bits of hair, shake it hard, put razor and all in about one inch of mineral or baby oil, and the blades will last umpteen times longer?

My husband has a heavy beard and used a new blade daily until he started using this method. Now one blade lasts as long as seven shaves without nicking or rusting. —Penny Pincher, Too

Dear Heloise:

If you don't have enough pillows when an emergency arises place a quilt or blanket in a pillow case and use for a back rest in the sick room.

Large plastic bags are wonderful for placing "under" the sheet on the sick bed, as they stay in place much better than the hard, or stiff rubber sheet. —An Admirer

Dear Heloise:

I have a favorite small pan, but it has no cover. After searching all over town without luck, I made my own.

I cut a paper plate the correct size, turned it upside down on a square of foil, and brought the corners of the foil together, twisting them into a handle. Works beautifully. —Nell McNicoll

Dear Heloise:

Instead of putting my hand washables in the hamper and then weeding them out later, I keep a laundry bag taped to the inside of my closet door. It's so much easier than plowing through the clothes hamper every wash day. —S. VanLinderen

Letter Of Laughter

Dear Heloise:

I had a 10-year-old wool coat which I could no longer wear as it had a real wide flair all around, but I hated to discard it.

So . . . I made a chair cover out of it! It fit perfectly except for a few tucks here and there.

My husband said, "Well, if you are built like an overstuffed chair, it comes in handy."

But it really became a topic of conversation.

All of my friends laughed when I told them they were sitting on my coat! —Mrs. Fred Unger

Dear Heloise:

Here is a tip for those who have a zig-zag-type sewing machine:

When curved seams are sewn (armhole, seat of pants, etc.) use a zig-zag stitch about one-eighth-inch wide, 20 stitches per inch (as for a buttonhole).

To prove the merits of this method, sew a curved seam using a regular stitch, then pull on the seam . . . notice how the threads break?

This doesn't happen when a zig-zag stitch is used. —[illegible]

Goren on Bridge

By CHARLES H. GOREN

Q. 1—As South you hold:
Spades, Q-3; Hearts, A-6-5; Diamonds, K-10-9-3; Clubs, 7-4-3-2.

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 Spd.	Pass	1 N.T.	Pass
2 Spds.	Pass	?

WHAT DO YOU BID NOW?

A. — Three spades. Despite partner's minimum sounding rebid, a push to game is in order. You have a near maximum North very likely has a six card suit, since he had an opportunity to show another suit at a convenient level and yet failed to do so. The queen-small may therefore be considered as ample trump support.

Q. 2—As South you hold:
Spades, K-Q-J-4-3; Hearts, K-10-7-5-2; Clubs, Q-5-3.

Your partner has opened the bidding with one no trump. What is your response?

A.—Three spades, and if partner's rebid is three no trump you will bid four hearts to offer him a choice of suits. There is no need to use the club convention when you hold two five card majors.

Q. 3—As South you hold:
Spades, A-J-9-6-5; Hearts, 3-2; Diamonds, Q-6; Clubs, K-10-9-3.

The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 Hrt.	2 Dia.	2 Hrts.	?

What do you bid?

A.—Two spades. If North can fit the spades there may be a chance for game in the major suit, and South might just as well try to improve matters for he is prepared to have his partner return to diamonds.

Q. 4—As South you hold:
Spades, 7-4-2; Hearts, A-J-9-6-3-2; Diamonds, A-4; Clubs, 5-2.

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 Clb.	Pass	1 Hrt.	Pass
1 Spd.	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Two hearts. While a forward move must be made, the hand does not qualify for a jump bid of any kind. Unless partner can bid again there will not be a very good play for game.

.Q 5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
Spades, A-Q-J-10-6-2; Hearts, Q-6-2; Diamonds, 4; Clubs, A-K-5.

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 Spd.	2 Dia.	Dbl.	Pass

Wnat do you bid now?

A. — Though your partner wishes to play for a penalty and probably has no support in the spade suit, you should take matters into your own hands and head toward game. The proper rebid is a jump to three spades. A mere rebid of two spades would indicate merely a dissatisfaction with the double.

Q. 6—As South you hold:
Spades, A-K-J; Hearts, 7-2; Diamonds, 8-5-3; Clubs, Q-J-7-5-4.

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 Spd.	Pass	2 Clbs.	Pass
2 Hrts.	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—True proper call is two spades. Some players will bolt at this suggestion on the grounds that this would be a mere preference instead of a raise. It doesn't much matter by what name you call it as partner will realize that you have a fairly good hand from the fact that you first took the trouble to bid two clubs.

Q. 7—As South you hold:
Spades, 2; Hearts, Q-5-3; Diamonds, A-10-6-4; Clubs, A-Q-10-5-3.

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 Spd.	Pass	2 Clbs.	Pass
2 Hrts.	Pass	2 N.T.	Pass
3 Clbs.	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A. — Three diamonds. The hope for a slam could not be abandoned. Partner is marked with a singleton diamond and now that he has shown club support a slam should be contemplated in that suit.

Q. 8 — As South, vulnerable, you hold:
Spades, J-10-8-5; Hearts, 5; Diamonds, Q-7-4-3; Clubs, A-10-8-2.

The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 Hrt.	Dbl.	3 Hrts.	?

What do you bid?

A. — Three spades. Prospects for game are bright. You have nine points which is a pretty fair hand for a partner who was able to make a vulnerable take-out double, and you should not permit East's preemptive action to shut you out. Bidding the weak spade suit at this level should not deter you, for North should have good support when he doubles the other major.

South African Sports Figure Faces Charges

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — John Harris, 27, former chairman of the South African Nonracial Olympic Committee, was charged in Pretoria Supreme Court today with murder, causing a bomb explosion at Johannesburg's central railroad station on July 24, and sabotage.

He was ordered held for another hearing Sept. 21.

The state said the main charge related to the "murder of an elderly lady," apparently Ethel Rhys, 87, who died from injuries received in the bomb blast, which injured 23 other persons.

Harris, a white teacher, was not asked to plead today.

His lawyer asked for an adjournment of six weeks to prepare the defense and for Harris to be examined by a private psychiatrist. The lawyer said when he saw Harris two days ago he "appeared to be in a frame of mind which would make it difficult for him to reply to questions."

The judge said this could be decided by the judge who will try the case.

Since his arrest seven weeks ago, Harris has been held under South Africa's security law, which permits suspects to be detained for up to 90 days without charge. Murder and sabotage both carry death penalties.

Harris is a member of the South African Liberal party headed by author Alan Paton. He was put on the country's banned list under its suppression of communism laws and therefore couldn't continue as chairman of the Olympic committee, which campaigned for multiracial sport in South Africa.

Defendants in the 20-count indictment included John V. Holmes of Love Valley N.C., who has filed four damage suits, including one for $22 million, against the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The SEC had obtained a court order prohibiting Holmes and others from selling stock in Hydramotive Corp.

The indictments charged violation of the registration and anti-fraud provisions of securities laws as well as mail fraud and conspiracy under other federal statutes.

The commission has charged that Holmes sold or disposed of approximately one million shares of Hydramotive stock and that Forrest Parrott and Donald Parrott, two other defendants, sold 259,500 shares.

The indictments said the Parrotts, of Denver, Colo., Holmes, and Durward E. Willis of Atlanta controlled Hydramotive Corp. Others indicted were Jules Arfield and Robert I. Allen, both of whom served as presidents of American Capital Corp. of Washington, D. C., and stock salesmen Alan R. Rose, Harry Weintraub and Harry Kaskowitz, also known as Harry Kass.

The indictment charged that the group made fraudulent statements in pamphlets, sales letters and by telephone in a high pressure stock selling campaign.

Only a few parts for a prototype of the Hydramotive automobile had been made, the indictment said, and the corporation did not have sufficient funds or facilities to produce any models.

All four of Holmes' suits against the commission were dismissed at the district court level but he has appealed them.

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP) — Charles E. Daniel, 68, who once served an interim term in the U.S. Senate, died Sunday. He was head of the Daniel Construction Co., one of the nation's largest building firms.

Negro Voters Continue Mississippi Signing

PHILADELPHIA, Miss. (AP) — The Negro voter registration push here — which was temporarily put aside by the killing of three civil rights workers — resumes today.

Student nonviolent Coordinating Committee workers have been urging Neshoba County Negroes to apply for registration at the courthouse here.

The group's effort in these parts is relatively recent. Civil rights workers were held out of this tense east-central area during much of the "long hot summer" Mississippi project. Negro leaders said it was too dangerous.

Three civil rights workers — two whites and a Negro — disappeared here at the start of the summer project. Their bodies were found buried in a red clay watershed dam.

All three had been shot. A private autopsy report said the Negro, 21-year-old James Chaney, 21, of Meridian, Miss., suffered a beating which shattered many of the bones in his body. The state autopsy report was never made public.

No arrests have been made. The FBI investigating continues. In this rural area, the names of the men who excite the most FBI interest is an open secret.

The other dead men were Andrew Goodman, 20, and Michael Schwerner, 24, both of New York City. Goodman had just arrived as a summer volunteer when he was killed.

PULLED ABOARD—MUCH WISER — The student is pulled aboard the pickup boat much wiser on the art of over-water bailout. During his training, the pilot has learned all survival procedures from the feel of floating to the water to climbing aboard a one man raft. The parasail training program is designed to give pilots and observers a realistic look at over-water bailouts and water survival techniques. (Air Force Photo)

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

I have always kept a jar in the medicine cabinet for my husband's used razor blades. Today, when looking for a new jar, I spied an empty beverage can with a flip-top opener, and decided it was just the thing.

The razor blades slide through the opening just as slick as you please, and the can fits perfectly in the medicine cabinet. (I am going to spray the can to match my bathroom decor.)

I now have a safe, disposable, holder for used razor blades. And you should see how "many" blades the can holds. —Mrs. Thomas Lancie

Gals, this is a wonderful safety factor, too . . . eliminates the possibility of broken glass on the bathroom floor.

I dropped a glass jar the other day and it went into a thousand pieces all over the floor . . .

Thanks to you all for teaching me to use wet toilet tissue to pick up all the microscopic bits of glass. "Never" use a broom or mop to pick up broken glass. Tiny particles "stick" to mops and brooms and this is dangerous.

That very day I covered all glass bottles with adhesive-backed plastic paper, so that if one is ever dropped again, there will be no dangerous unseen bits of glass "or" a mess to clean up. This adhesive-backed paper may be removed from any bottle and used over and over again.

And while we are on the subject of razor blades, do you know that you can rinse a safety razor under hot water to remove the bits of hair, shake it hard, put razor and all in about one inch of mineral or baby oil, and the blades will last umpteen times longer?

My husband has a heavy beard and used a new blade daily until he started using this method. Now one blade lasts as long as seven shaves without nicking or rusting. —Penny Pincher, Too

Dear Heloise:

If you don't have enough pillows when an emergency arises place a quilt or blanket in a pillow case and use for a back rest in the sick room.

Large plastic bags are wonderful for placing "under" the sheet on the sick bed, as they stay in place much better than the hard, or stiff rubber sheet. —An Admirer

Dear Heloise:

I have a favorite small pan, but it has no cover. After searching all over town without luck, I made my own.

I cut a paper plate the correct size, turned it upside down on a square of foil, and brought the corners of the foil together, twisting them into a handle. Works beautifully. —Nell McNicoll

Dear Heloise:

Instead of putting my hand washables in the hamper and then weeding them out later, I keep a laundry bag taped to the inside of my closet door. It's so much easier than plowing through the clothes hamper every wash day. —S. VanLinderen

Letter Of Laughter

Dear Heloise:

I had a 10-year-old wool coat which I could no longer wear as it had a real wide flair all around, but I hated to discard it.

So . . . I made a chair cover out of it! It fit perfectly except for a few tucks here and there.

My husband said, "Well, if you are built like an overstuffed chair, it comes in handy."

But it really became a topic of conversation.

All of my friends laughed when I told them they were sitting on my coat! —Mrs. Fred Unger

Dear Heloise:

Here is a tip for those who have a zig-zag-type sewing machine:

When curved seams are sewn (armhole, seat of pants, etc.) use a zig-zag stitch about one-eighth-inch wide, 20 stitches per inch (as for a buttonhole).

To prove the merits of this method, sew a curved seam using a regular stitch, then pull on the seam . . . notice how the threads break?

This doesn't happen when a zig-zag stitch is used. —R. Rowe

Heloise welcomes all mail, especially household hints which she can pass on to readers as space permits. However, because of the tremendous volume of mail she receives daily, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will answer readers' questions in her column whenever possible.

BEN CASEY
IT WAS AN EERIE FEELING. THERE HAD BEEN A VAGUE PICTURE IN MY MIND OF DAN SANDERS LYING DEAD IN THE SWAMP --BUT IT CHANGED.
YOU BEGAN TO BELIEVE THAT THE DEAD BODY IN THE SWAMP WAS YOU?
THAT'S EXACTLY WHAT HAPPENED, DR. CASEY... AND THAT I WAS DAN SANDERS!

Encephalitis Cases Reported Doubled

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Cases of encephalitis are running more than double last year's rate, according to a report by the U.S. Public Health Service.

The report issued Friday said there have been 2,705 cases so far this year.

Two epidemics in the Houston and Plainview, Tex., are contributing to the rise in cases. There have been scattered outbreaks in Illinois, Colorado and Kentucky as well.

Encephalitis is an inflammation or irritation of the brain sometimes called sleeping sickness because of the symptoms it produces.

The body is made up of an estimated 60 trillion cells.

Three Brothers Insist on School Prayer

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — Robert Bachert, 11, and his brothers, Ronald, 9, and Jamie, 7, marched off to school this week, their Bibles under their ams. When the noon hour came, they went into the cafeteria, opened them and began to read.

Then they bowed their heads and prayed. The older boys aloud. Jamie whispered. School authorities did not interfere.

Other children looked on with interest. A girl joined them in prayer once. Robert said several tudents came to him and asked, "why do you bring Bibles to school?"

"To pray to God," Robert said.

But to their father, it was more than the mere exercise of a child's faith. It involved the law of the land.

The Rev. James L. Bachert, pastor of the Bible Baptist Church and father of the three boys, said he wanted to challenge the U.S. Supreme Court ruling outlawing prayer in the public schools.

The ruling discriminates "against the faith and practice of Christianity which is the very foundation stone of the American way of life," the

He said Americans "ought to have a measure of freedom in Bible reaing and religious observances."

Babies From Test-Tubes Predicted by Year 2,000

By LYNN POOLE

Much has been recorded about the advancement of science, particularly biology, in the last fifty years. But what of the future? What new advances can be expected before the turn of the twenty-first century?

Dr. Bentley Glass, professor of biology at The Johns Hopkins University, unveiled his scientific crystal ball recently in a lecture at Georgetown University and ventured to predict some of the scientific breakthroughs he expects in the field of biology in the next few decades.

First, and most remarkable in the eyes of the layman, is Dr. Glass' speculation that the development of human babies in laboratory cultures — in effect, test-tube babies — may be possible by the year 2000.

Dr. Glass said, "We may learn how to create simple forms of living organisms, something as complex, perhaps, as a virus. . .(and we). . .may even discover how to cultivate the reproductive cells of man and animals, to produce normal embryos, and to raise them to term, either in artificial cultures or in foster mothers. . . and, in the process (we) may find how to modify defective genes or replace them with sound ones. . ."

Dr. Glass also predicts:

1) The dawn of a whole new era in medicine — for example, "the marriage of biochemistry and genetics will continue to flourish. . ."

2) Infectious diseases will "probably be banished forever . . ."

3) Researchers will "probably learn not only how to extend man's life but how to maintain its vitor in old age. . ."

4) Science is almost certain to solve the problems of photosynthesis — the process by which nature produces food in plants — thereby assuring the artificial production of "an inexhaustible supply of food . ."

But Dr. Glass cautioned that "enough space for a population uncontrollably growing seems out of the question on this planet," and he added:

"Happiness will not flower inevitably from the burgeoning of science."

However, in noting that biology has already chalked up many great advances as compared with the sutuation in 1900, Dr. Glass said this progress has included, among other things:

"A great increase in our understanding of race and evolutionary problems that may enable us to act more wisely in the future."

Also on the precautionary side, he said there's a need for biology teachers at all levels — grade schools, high schools, and colleges and universities — to keep up with the "racing world" evolving from laboratory discoveries.

And he forecast that:

"There is the very real possibility that in a decade or two every practicing scientist and every science teacher will be expected — no, required — to spend one year in three being re-educated."

Do some of these predictions sound far-fetched? Well, since Dr. Glass made his predictions, a researcher in Philadelphia has under study four babies, aged 5 to 11 months, that were fathered by frozen sperm. He said that fresh human spermatozoa has been preserved up to five months by freezing in liquid nitrogen. After thawing, there was no significant change in the sperm count. In lower species, especially cattle, normal births have been reported from sperm frozen over long periods. Twenty-first century, here we come.

Young Physicist Visits ARADCOM

A winner in the Chicago Public Schools Student Science Fair was in Colorado Springs last week on an Army Air Defense Command "Operation Understanding" trip — one of his awards.

Rirhard Kiefer, 17, won in the physics category of the 1964 fair, held in March. The "OU" trip was offered by ARADCOM's 45th Air Defense Artillery Brigade, which has its headquarters in Chicago.

Richard's entry was an aerodynamics display, representing his experiments with airfoils.

He won, also, in the physics category in the 1963 fair, when he had a similar but less advanced project. At that time he placed third in the all-projects category.

Richard is a member of the National Honor Society. He is in the last semester of Bogan High School, Chicago, and plans to go to college to study aeronautical engineering.

The young physicist was accompanied by David A. Severance, his science instructor. Six other men from the Chicago area also made the trip, which included a visit to McGregor Range, N. M., to witness the practice-firing of Nike guided missiles.

Another Operation Understanding group, from the Seattle-Tacoma area of the state of Washington, merged with the Illinois group and were in Colorado Springs at the same time for briefings on ARADCOM, the Army component of the North American Air Defense Command.

The eyes of some individuals have natural sun filters which are 10-20 times as dense as others.
